IKE NOMINATES CLARE LUCE AS US AMBASSADOR

No Difficulty In Senate Confirmation Expected

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—President Eisenhower announced today he would nominate Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce as ambassador to Italy and all indications were the Senate would confirm her.

This would give Mrs. Luce, the granddaughter of a Baptist minister and a convert to Catholicism, the honor of being America's second woman ambassador and the first to a major power.

Since the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt named Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde as U. S. minister to Denmark in 1933, four women have served as American representatives to foreign countries.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman was in Norway as American minister when Germany overran that country in the early days of World War II. Mrs. Eugenie Anderson as ambassador to Denmark and Mrs. Perle Mesta as minister to Luxembourg, both appointees of former President Truman, still are at their posts.

There are reports that Eisenhower plans to name Mrs. Hiram Cole Houghton of Red Oak, Ia., former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, as ambassador to The Netherlands.

Mrs. Luce, glamorous blonde playwright and wife of editor-in-chief Henry Luce of the Time-Life-Fortune magazines, served two two-year terms in the House of Representatives, beginning in 1943.

At her Ridgefield, Conn., home she said of her selection: "It is a great honor and a privilege." She declined to comment further.

Early comment from senators who will pass on the appointment was favorable.

IKE SIGNS FIRST BILL INTO LAW

Measure Creates New Under Secretary Of State

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed his first bill into law, a measure creating a new under secretary of state, and formally nominated Donold B. Lourie to fill the post.

The President's action, on his third Saturday in the White House, came after he had worked through a list of morning appointments, including one with representatives of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

ASNE President Wright Bryan, editor of the Atlanta Journal, invited Eisenhower to address the society's annual meeting here April 16-18. The invitation was taken under advisement.

Eisenhower begged off from another invitation, to attend tonight's annual dinner of the Radio Correspondents Association. He told Jack Benny, the comedian who is the dinner's master of ceremonies, that he is passing up night parties now to catch up on his sleep.

Earl H. Gammons, vice president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, accompanied Benny to the White House.

Eisenhower and his wife are to attend services tomorrow at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church instead of the National Presbyterian Church, which they joined last Sunday.

White House Press Secretary James Hagerty said the Eisenhowers will worship regularly at the National Presbyterian Church. They are going to the New York Avenue Church tomorrow, Hagerty said, to witness the unveiling of a Lincoln document about an hour after 9:30 a.m. services.

Ellender Criticizes Congressional Probes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP) —Sen. Ellender (D-La), criticizing heavy expenditures for Congressional inquiries, said tonight President Eisenhower should have a chance to get his house in order before being plagued with "a rash of useless investigations."

Ellender, noting that the Senate has approved $700,000 for investigating committees this year, said this was nearly $250,000 above the total spent last year.

Ellender said in an address for radio delivery over station WWL, New Orleans, that some investigations serve a distinct purpose, but he objects to some which are "fishing expeditions."

He pledged cooperation with Eisenhower on all proposals "which serve the best interests of our people." He said, however, he will oppose "any attempts by the federal government to force a breakdown in the traditional racial segregation pattern of our nation."

Paper Says Ike's 19 Days In Office 'Disastrous'

LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The mass circulation Sunday Pictorial said tonight in a front-page editorial offered as a pro-Laborite open letter that President Eisenhower's first 19 days in office "have been disastrous" and "have caused a crisis between Britain and the United States."

The Pictorial claims more than five million circulation.

In the letter addressed to Eisenhower under a black headline reading "Think Again, Ike," the Pictorial claimed Eisenhower's first days:

"Have heightened the danger of World War III.

"Have lost the Western Democracies the sympathy of millions of people in Asia."

It gave these reasons:

"1. Without proper consultation, brushing aside British protests, you have decided to let Chiang Kai-shek out of his political cage on Formosa. You have given him the all-clear for attacks on the Chinese mainland.

"American arms and advisers will not help to try to restore this rotten dictator. At best, this will be a military flop. At worst, it may extend the Korean War.

"2. Formosa was only the first step. Latest news from Washington makes it clear you are seriously considering a blockade of the Red Chinese coast.

"This would bring America to the verge of all-out war with China. It would lead to new trouble with Russia. It would further alienate India. It would end hopes of a truce in Korea.

"And it could mean that British ships bound for Hong Kong would be challenged on the high seas. Are you prepared to risk such tension?

"3. Your traveling salesman for the Big Stick, Mr. John Foster Dulles, has veen visiting Europe. His talk has been not that of a friend and partner, but that of a boss."

Solon Raps Waste In Air Force

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) said today that the Air Force planned to spend "hundreds of millions of dollars" for spare engines and other aircraft parts which it now admits are not necessary.

Ferguson pointed to a report by a special Air Force study group to back up his contention that too much money was going for spare parts, rather than completed aircraft.

"This means we should get more actual aircraft for the dollar and therefore in the end will spend less dollars," Ferguson said as he made public the report.

"The excessive stocks of aircraft parts run through the Navy and Marines too, but it is not so bad there," Ferguson added. "We are going to check them up and also push for greater parts standardization."

In the Republican Senate, Ferguson will be in a key position to keep an eye on multibillion dollar defense spending. He is chairman of the appropriations subcommittee that will handle all funds for the armed services.

Ferguson touched off the aircraft spares study last July 5 when he called attention on the Senate floor to the fact that Congress had voted more than 31 billion dollars for aircraft in three years. He said that 11¼ billion dollars of this was "for parts alone."

"That means that for every 100 new airplanes turned over to the Air Force and placed on the airfield, the equivalent of 64 planes is stored in the form of parts," Ferguson protested.

As a result, the Air Force set up a special study group under H. O. King, an expert consultant.

Pleasant Weather Menu Is Predicted For Today

Warden Quells Rebellious Convicts After Second Riot

FLORENCE, Ariz., Feb. 7 (AP)—While prison guards gripped their riot guns, a stern-faced warden warned 500 convicts in the Arizona State Prison today to "act like gentlemen" unless they want some trouble.

In this tense scene, where rebellious prisoners a few hours earlier had captured a guard after their second sit-down strike, the law still had the upper hand.

"Everything is okay," Warden Lon E. Walters told reporters after talking to the prisoners in groups of four or five.

"I don't expect more trouble now."

But an uneasy quiet settled over this desert prison.

Along the walls, guards—their ranks doubled by the addition of sheriff's deputies, state patrolmen and emergency officers—had orders to use tear gas again and, if necessary, guns to stop a third uprising.

Helping Walters keep the situation in hand was Sheriff Frank Eyeman of Pima County. Eyeman told prisoners he had "enough gas to blast this place every hour on the hour."

Eyeman led a force of 30 guards to two cell blocks early today to subdue a band of cursing, defiant convicts who seized a guard, Don McAfee, as hostage. They dragged him into the building, stripped him of his keys and gas gun but were careful not to hurt him.

Minutes later, when McAfee was freed, Walters ordered guards to lay down a steady tear-gas barrage. The convicts gave up without firing their own gas gun.

A second gas attack was unleashed upon a third cell block, where prisoners had set fire to furnishings, smashed windows and cursed officials.

Four hundred inmates sat down on the ground at noon yesterday, refusing to move. An hour later the demonstration was over.

Only 24 hours earlier 300 convicts staged a similar strike.

Exact reason for the situation is unknown. After the Thursday strike some convicts protested alleged mistreatment of a fellow prisoner. Yesterday they demanded better food and clothing.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE FILED IN SHOOTING

Coroner Reveals Bullet Entered Victim Through Back Of Neck

A technical charge of manslaughter was filed against Raymond Dunn of West Monroe Saturday after a further coroner's examination of the body of 35-year-old A. D. (Red) Womack revealed that Womack was shot through the back of the neck. Dr. J. T. French, parish coroner, had declared earlier that Womack had been hit in the left jaw.

District Attorney Fred Fudickar said yesterday that the charge was placed against Dunn following further investigation of the shooting. Dunn was released after posting a $2,000 bond set by Judge David I. Garrett.

Womack, a Brown Paper Mill employe for 18 years and the father of two children, was fatally wounded by Dunn shortly before midnight Friday in Dunn's cafe near the entrance to the paper mill.

Dr. French said the bullet entered Womack's body at the base of the neck, emerged through the lower jawbone, and ricocheted around the cafe. He said the victim died within a matter of minutes after he was hit.

Meanwhile, sheriff's officials Saturday were continuing to question a large number of customers present in the cafe at the time of the slaying. One witness said Friday night that Womack threw a chair at a waitress after an argument and that Dunn intervened. He said Womack "reached for another chair and Dunn reached for the gun."

However, another unidentified witness said it appeared Womack was going through the door when he was shot.

Funeral services for Womack are scheduled for 2 p. m. today at the Trinity Baptist Church. The Rev. H. J. Mott will officiate and interment, under the direction of Hall Funeral Home, will be in the Chatham Cemetery.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Virginia Womack; two sons, Prentice and Charles Womack; two brothers, Herbert Womack of Chatham and Wilford Womack of San Antonio, Tex.; a sister, Mrs. Margret Musick of Shreveport, and his mother, Mrs. Belle Womack, also of Shreveport.

FEAR TEACHER INJURIES FATAL

Sister Anne Marie, Of St. Matthew's Faculty, In Alexandria Hospital

Sister Anne Marie, teacher in the commerce department of St. Matthew's High School, while on her way by auto with others from here en route to Alexandria to attend a Sodality convention, was badly injured when the car in which she was riding met with a collision near Alexandria.

She was rushed to Cabrini hospital in Alexandria and according to reports received she is feared to be fatally injured.

All members from the local high school have returned home and will not attend the Sodality convention, because of the misfortune to Sister Anne Marie.

Sister Anne Marie was named moderator of the Sodality convention. She has many friends here and had taught for a number of years.

Work On Sterlington Bridge Is Completed

FARMERVILLE, Feb. 7. (Special)—The installation of a new steel deck and other repairs on the Ouachita River bridge at Sterlington has been completed at a cost of $63,699, Fred Preaus, highway board member of district 5, announced.

The work was completed under contract by the Forcum - James Company and accepted by the department.

Preaus also announced that work authorization has been approved for reconstruction of the Sicard Pit Scale station in Ouachita Parish by maintenance forces of the highway department. The project is estimated to cost $3,651.

Need For Donations Is Stressed In Heart Drive

Chairman Lenard Says Check Is Starter In Business Contributions

Stressing the urgent need for funds to further research and education on heart disease, General Manager L. A. Mailhes Friday presented the News-Star — World's check for $250 to the 1953 Heart Fund campaign.

"With the increase in heart fatalities in the country," Mailhes said, "it is indeed important that everyone lend his financial support to the heart campaign. The money raised for this purpose will be used for further study and research to help conquer heart disease. The News-Star — World is happy to contribute to the 1953 Heart Fund."

Heart Campaign Chairman Lloyd E. Lenard said that the newspaper's check was the first of what he hoped would be many contributions from business firms and individuals in Ouachita Parish. "Business and professional men have a special interest in the fight against heart disease," he said. "Many firms have observed how heart attacks can suddenly wipe out a considerable investment in the training of key executives and skilled working personnel. Expensive research and education are needed to help control heart disease."

Figures show that heart disease killed over 750,000 Americans last year, more than the next five causes combined. Contributions to the Heart Fund campaign help finance research and education, the greatest hopes for controlling this killer. Lenard pointed out that firms would be asked to contribute entirely by letter.

"Of course, heart disease doesn't choose only business and professional men to strike down," the chairman said. "It kills children, housewives, husbands, and friends — anyone. That's why the general public must give also — through memorial gifts which we will acknowledge by card through the red plastic heart containers in Twin City business houses; through Tag Day which will be conducted February 28."

Checks should be made payable to the Louisiana Heart Association and mailed to 1007 Ouachita National Bank Building, Monroe.

Legion Commander Will Speak In Alexandria

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Lewis K Gough, national American Legion commander, will speak at the Louisiana midwinter conference of the American Legion in Alexandria today and tomorrow.

Mrs. Alexander Gray of Brownsville, Tenn., national auxiliary vice president, also is scheduled to speak both days.

Tigerettes at Neville are anticipating a big time on Birthday Calendar day, February 21, and they anticipate a special announcement by Mayor John Coon, in this connection.

Each Tigerette will be assigned an area to work to secure listings for the annual birthday calendar. They will also arrange for an early printing and delivery of the calendars.

Money raised will be used to charter buses to convey the Tigerettes to and from games and they are asking that the public give the best possible support to the project.

Booths downtown also may be utilized for the convenience of the public.

The Heart Fund campaign is in full swing and enthusiastic workers are planning a big campaign for the Twin Cities. There will be much publicity in the press and on the air and the various luncheon and service clubs will be addressed by leaders in the project to make the public familiar with what is being planned.

Chairman Matt F. Rice, of the plastic heart distribution committee, explains that a substantial amount of the Heart Fund goal for this parish will be received through plastic hearts. The public will find them conveniently arranged in many public places of easy access to the public. Money received will be used to finance

Newspaper Owner Charges Conspiracy To Deprive Him Of Advertising

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Feb. 7 (AP) — Federal court here is hearing a damage action in which a newspaper owner charges he was wrongfully deprived of advertising.

The action is directed against some 20 casinos and hotels in this gambling city, and also against Nevada's Democratic senator, Pat McCarran.

The plaintiff, H. M. Greenspun of the Las Vegas Sun, accused the defendants of conspiring to deprive him of this resort advertising, in violation of the anti-trust act. He seeks damages of $225,000.

The trial opened Wednesday before U. S. District Judge Roger Foley and a jury of eight women and four men. At the outset Judge Foley made special provisions to protect the jury from influence.

He instructed the press and radio to confine coverage to what took place in court, as a matter of record. Injection of outside comment or speculation will constitute contempt, in "flagrant instances" he said.

It is Greenspun's contention that the casino advertising accounts were cancelled after a telephone call from McCarran to a representative of the gambling clubs. Counsel for the defendants have denied this and have said that they will prove that Greenspun and the Review-Journal, opposition paper in Las Vegas, both advised the gaming clubs that the newspapers wanted more advertising.

They got it, the defense lawyers have told the jury, and Greenspun then raised his advertising rates. This increase, the defense holds, induced the resorts to cancel their advertising contracts in the Sun.

Two More South Korean Divisions To Be Created

TOKYO, Sunday, Feb. 8—UP—Gen. Mark W. Clark announced Sunday that authority had been received from the Department of the Army to increase the strength of the South Korean army to 15 divisions and supporting units.

The order will increase the strength of the Republic of Korea (ROK) army by two divisions.

The increase is the third to be authorized for the South Korean army within the last four months. Authority was received in late October to increase the ROK army from 10 to 12 divisions. Four days ago Gen. James A. Van Fleet disclosed that a 13th ROK division was fighting on the eastern front.

The announcement from the commander-in-chief of the United Nations Command said Van Fleet had been ordered to activate the new divisions at an early date.

The statement said the order to form the new divisions does not mean that they can be ready for combat "in a matter of days or weeks" and said it does not mean the release of additional U.S. troops from the front in the immediate future.

In addition to ROK divisions, Eighth Army now includes seven U.S. divisions, one British Commonwealth division and smaller attached units from other United Nations countries.

Van Fleet turns over command of Eighth Army Feb. 11 to Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor. Ever since he began his Korean tour in April, 1951, Van Fleet has advocated and pushed training of more ROK troops.

SPARKMAN SAYS ACTION MIGHT BROADEN WAR

Democrat Says He Will Ask Dulles For Explanation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) demanded today that the administration tell Congress whether it plans a naval blockade of Red China as Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) renewed his support of such a move.

Sparkman said in an interview he isn't necessarily opposed to a blockade but he wants to know (1) if it would be an act of war, (2) if the United States should undertake it alone, and (3) what would be the consequence of such action.

Knowland, chairman of the senate Republican Policy Committee, said he believes the United Nations should institute a blockade to halt shipments of war supplies to the Communists in Korea. He added that the United States should do it alone if other U. N. nations balked.

Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo) chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, argued in a separate interview that a blockade, "instead of widening and lengthening the war, would shorten and confine it and save lives."

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) has promised to call Secretary of State Dulles before a Senate foreign relations subcommittee for questioning about administration plans as soon as the secretary returns from Europe.

"I think we are less apt to broaden the war if we don't permit Red China to keep building up its supply dumps," Smith said.

Sparkman noted that Adm. Arthur W. Radford, commander of the Pacific Fleet, had been quoted as telling Short's House committee that the United States is in a position to put a blockade in force if Eisenhower decides on one.

"There are a number of questions that arise about such a move," the Alabama senator said.

"President Eisenhower said in his State of the Union message

Need For Donations Is Stressed In Heart Drive

Chairman Lenard Says Check Is Starter In Business Contributions

Stressing the urgent need for funds to further research and education on heart disease, General Manager L. A. Mailhes Friday presented the News-Star — World's check for $250 to the 1953 Heart Fund campaign.

"With the increase in heart fatalities in the country," Mailhes said, "it is indeed important that everyone lend his financial support to the heart campaign. The money raised for this purpose will be used for further study and research to help conquer heart disease. The News-Star — World is happy to contribute to the 1953 Heart Fund."

Heart Campaign Chairman Lloyd E. Lenard said that the newspaper's check was the first of what he hoped would be many contributions from business firms and individuals in Ouachita Parish. "Business and professional men have a special interest in the fight against heart disease," he said. "Many firms have observed how heart attacks can suddenly wipe out a considerable investment in the training of key executives and skilled working personnel. Expensive research and education are needed to help control heart disease."

Figures show that heart disease killed over 750,000 Americans last year, more than the next five causes combined. Contributions to the Heart Fund campaign help finance research and education, the greatest hopes for controlling this killer. Lenard pointed out that firms would be asked to contribute entirely by letter.

"Of course, heart disease doesn't choose only business and professional men to strike down," the chairman said. "It kills children, housewives, husbands, and friends — anyone. That's why the general public must give also — through memorial gifts which we will acknowledge by card through the red plastic heart containers in Twin City business houses; through Tag Day which will be conducted February 28."

Checks should be made payable to the Louisiana Heart Association and mailed to 1007 Ouachita National Bank Building, Monroe.

Legion Commander Will Speak In Alexandria

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Lewis K Gough, national American Legion commander, will speak at the Louisiana midwinter conference of the American Legion in Alexandria today and tomorrow.

Mrs. Alexander Gray of Brownsville, Tenn., national auxiliary vice president, also is scheduled to speak both days.

Tigerettes at Neville are anticipating a big time on Birthday Calendar day, February 21, and they anticipate a special announcement by Mayor John Coon, in this connection.

Each Tigerette will be assigned an area to work to secure listings for the annual birthday calendar. They will also arrange for an early printing and delivery of the calendars.

Money raised will be used to charter buses to convey the Tigerettes to and from games and they are asking that the public give the best possible support to the project.

Booths downtown also may be utilized for the convenience of the public.

The Heart Fund campaign is in full swing and enthusiastic workers are planning a big campaign for the Twin Cities. There will be much publicity in the press and on the air and the various luncheon and service clubs will be addressed by leaders in the project to make the public familiar with what is being planned.

Chairman Matt F. Rice, of the plastic heart distribution committee, explains that a substantial amount of the Heart Fund goal for this parish will be received through plastic hearts. The public will find them conveniently arranged in many public places of easy access to the public. Money received will be used to finance

PUBLISHER SUES SEN. M'CARRAN

Newspaper Owner Charges Conspiracy To Deprive Him Of Advertising

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Feb. 7 (AP) — Federal court here is hearing a damage action in which a newspaper owner charges he was wrongfully deprived of advertising.

The action is directed against some 20 casinos and hotels in this gambling city, and also against Nevada's Democratic senator, Pat McCarran.

The plaintiff, H. M. Greenspun of the Las Vegas Sun, accused the defendants of conspiring to deprive him of this resort advertising, in violation of the anti-trust act. He seeks damages of $225,000.

The trial opened Wednesday before U. S. District Judge Roger Foley and a jury of eight women and four men. At the outset Judge Foley made special provisions to protect the jury from influence.

He instructed the press and radio to confine coverage to what took place in court, as a matter of record. Injection of outside comment or speculation will constitute contempt, in "flagrant instances" he said.

It is Greenspun's contention that the casino advertising accounts were cancelled after a telephone call from McCarran to a representative of the gambling clubs. Counsel for the defendants have denied this and have said that they will prove that Greenspun and the Review-Journal, opposition paper in Las Vegas, both advised the gaming clubs that the newspapers wanted more advertising.

They got it, the defense lawyers have told the jury, and Greenspun then raised his advertising rates. This increase, the defense holds, induced the resorts to cancel their advertising contracts in the Sun.

SPARKMAN SAYS ACTION MIGHT BROADEN WAR

Democrat Says He Will Ask Dulles For Explanation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) demanded today that the administration tell Congress whether it plans a naval blockade of Red China as Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) renewed his support of such a move.

Sparkman said in an interview he isn't necessarily opposed to a blockade but he wants to know (1) if it would be an act of war, (2) if the United States should undertake it alone, and (3) what would be the consequence of such action.

Knowland, chairman of the senate Republican Policy Committee, said he believes the United Nations should institute a blockade to halt shipments of war supplies to the Communists in Korea. He added that the United States should do it alone if other U. N. nations balked.

Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo) chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, argued in a separate interview that a blockade, "instead of widening and lengthening the war, would shorten and confine it and save lives."

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) has promised to call Secretary of State Dulles before a Senate foreign relations subcommittee for questioning about administration plans as soon as the secretary returns from Europe.

"I think we are less apt to broaden the war if we don't permit Red China to keep building up its supply dumps," Smith said.

Sparkman noted that Adm. Arthur W. Radford, commander of the Pacific Fleet, had been quoted as telling Short's House committee that the United States is in a position to put a blockade in force if Eisenhower decides on one.

"There are a number of questions that arise about such a move," the Alabama senator said.

"President Eisenhower said in his State of the Union message

Two More South Korean Divisions To Be Created

TOKYO, Sunday, Feb. 8—UP—Gen. Mark W. Clark announced Sunday that authority had been received from the Department of the Army to increase the strength of the South Korean army to 15 divisions and supporting units.

The order will increase the strength of the Republic of Korea (ROK) army by two divisions.

The increase is the third to be authorized for the South Korean army within the last four months. Authority was received in late October to increase the ROK army from 10 to 12 divisions. Four days ago Gen. James A. Van Fleet disclosed that a 13th ROK division was fighting on the eastern front.

The announcement from the commander-in-chief of the United Nations Command said Van Fleet had been ordered to activate the new divisions at an early date.

The statement said the order to form the new divisions does not mean that they can be ready for combat "in a matter of days or weeks" and said it does not mean the release of additional U.S. troops from the front in the immediate future.

In addition to ROK divisions, Eighth Army now includes seven U.S. divisions, one British Commonwealth division and smaller attached units from other United Nations countries.

Van Fleet turns over command of Eighth Army Feb. 11 to Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor. Ever since he began his Korean tour in April, 1951, Van Fleet has advocated and pushed training of more ROK troops.

NSC Nurse Study Program Is Unique

The Northwestern State College department of nursing, a department of the college under the school of applied Arts and Sciences, is one of the few programs of nursing education of its kind, Miss Dorothy Tayrien, director of clinical education, Monroe division, reported. The director stated that the program has caused wide comment among nursing educators and is under surveillance as a potential model for nursing education programs in several parts of the country.

The activities of the Monroe division is carried out at E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital.

The department of nursing offers three programs of nursing education: (1.) A three year program with one year spent on the campus and two years in a hospital area. The student receives a diploma as a graduate nurse and is eligible to take the state board examination to become a registered nurse to practice professional nursing. (2.) A four year degree program with one year and two semesters spent on the campus and two years in the hospital area. The student receives a B. S. degree in nursing and a graduate nurse diploma. (3.) A two year degree program for registered nurses and a student receives a B. S. degree in nursing.

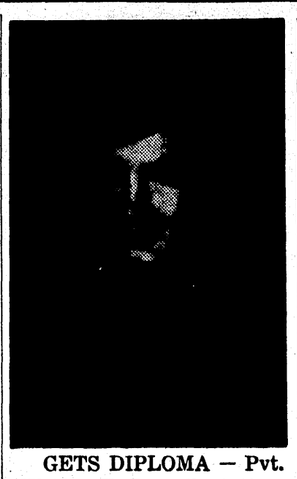

A unique part of the program is that $500 scholarships are available for qualified applicants to the program, according to Miss Tayrien. Periodic tests are given in the Monroe area and other areas in the state to interested applicants for a scholarship. Upon the basis of satisfactory test scores and the completion of a satisfactory physical examination, applicants are awarded scholarships. At present there are 358 students enrolled in the program in six different towns and hospital divisions in Louisiana, many of whom are scholarship students. There are eight hospitals collaborating in the program to which Northwestern State College students are sent for experience. These are the Baptist Hospital of Alexandria, Highland Sanitarium, North Louisiana Sanitarium, Shreveport Charity Hospital and Tri State Hospital, all of Shreveport; E. A. Conway, Monroe, Baton Rouge General Hospital and the Central Louisiana State Hospital of Pineville. This type of hospital collaboration is an innovation in nursing education programs, Miss Tayrien states.

In September of 1951 the Monroe division of the nursing program was opened at E. A. Conway when the first ten students arrived from the campus division. At present there are 16 students in the division, five of whom are at Central State Hospital in Pineville for psychiatric nursing experience.

There are two faculty members in the Monroe division. Miss Tayrien is assistant professor of nursing and director of clinical education and is a graduate of St. John's Hospital School of Nursing, Tulsa, Okla. She has a B. S. degree in nursing from the University of Colorado and has attended the University of Chicago where she has completed work towards a master's degree. In 1948 she was a teaching fellow at Vanderbilt University School of Nursing, Nashville, Tenn. and has held the position of Nursing Arts Instructor at the University of Oklahoma, and many other important positions at universities in other states.

Mrs. Eleanor McGee is instructor in pediatric and obstretic nursing. She has a B. S. degree in nursing from Northwestern State College where she was a member of Beta Beta Beta, honorary biological society. She is a graduate of North Louisiana Sanitarium School of Nursing, Shreveport. She has had experience as staff nurse at Quincy City Hospital, Quincy, Mass., St. Francis Sanitarium and E. A. Conway.

The philosophy and reasons behind the nursing program, according to Miss Tayrien, are to provide a supply of professional registered nurses in Louisiana to help meet the increased demand, to combine faculty and hospital experience resources to provide the best nursing education for student and to place the direction of a nursing education program under the responsibility of an institution which has education on the advanced level as its primary function. The fourth philosophy is to prepare professional nurses to meet total nursing needs of the patient as to social, mental, economic and physical aspects.

WISNER SLATES DEDICATION DAY

Opening Of New City Hall To Climax $50,000 Improvement Program

WISNER, Feb. 7 (Special)—Formal dedication of Wisner's new city hall has been scheduled tentatively for March 10 as a climax to the town's $50,000 public improvement program.

The city hall, along with a new fire station, has just been accepted by the town council. The program was carried out under a 10-year bond issue of $40,000. The remaining $10,000 was made available from savings of the town's general fund and waterworks accounts.

In addition to the new city hall and fire station, the town recently purchased a 1952 model fire truck and approximately $2,000 worth of fire - fighting equipment for the volunteer fire department.

The program has been carried out under the administration of Mayor R. A. Brown, who went into office in 1950. Other city officials include E. O. Cannon, C. E. Ezell, and E. Asa Kiper, members of the city council, Eldon S. Brown, marshal, and Leo Bondurant, city clerk.

IRISH GARDENS WILL BE SHOWN

Colorful Views To Be Displayed To Couples Club Friday

"The Gardens of Ireland," photographed in color in all of their springtime beauty, will be featured on the evening of Friday the thirteenth, in the social room of the First Methodist Church. Sponsored by the Parsonage Beautification committee of the church, the flower - loving public of Monroe and vicinity are invited to see these unusual and interesting pictures.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Frank Gladney of Baton Rouge toured Europe last year in the spring months, visiting England, Scotland, Ireland and many other lands. They made many hundreds of 2x2 color slides. The pictures of the Irish gardens have been shown to the Baton Rouge Garden Club where they elicited much favorable comment.

We are told that Ireland is the greenest and prettiest land in Europe, and these pictures of flowers and gardens should prove to be unusually fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Gladney will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Johns, and will speak to the Couples' Club on Thursday evening, where they will show views of their trip to Scotland, and also exhibit the 52 authentic Scotch plaids, each one designating one of the traditional Scottish clans.

All lovers of flowers and gardens are cordially welcome to the evening in Ireland, beginning at 7:30 p.m. on Friday night in the First Methodist social room.

Nevada contains more than 400 acres per present inhabitant; Wyoming has 220 per person and Montana about 180.

PTA UNITS TO HAVE BIRTHDAY

Will Observe 56 Years Since Movement Was Initiated

P.-T. A. units throughout the country, its territories and 30 other countries to which the P.-T. A. movement has spread will celebrate during February the birthday of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers which is February 17th on which day the P.- T. A. will be 56 years old. Two great women with much foresight founded the National Congress of Parents and Teachers-Mrs. Alice McLellan Birney of Marietta, Ga., and Mrs. Phoebe Apperson Hearst of St. Louis, Mo.

On February 9, the Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association will complete 30 years work for the welfare of the child. It was organized in New Orleans Friday, Feb. 9, 1923 at the Grunswald Hotel in New Orleans. Mrs. E. A. Fowler and Mrs. Virgil Browne, then of New Orleans, were the co-founders of the Louisiana branch. Since that time with P.-T. A. units, numbering 40 when organized with a membership of 2,000, at present upward of 320 units with a membership exceeding 69,000 the Louisiana Parent - Teacher Association has worked diligently carrying out the objects of the Parent - Teacher Association, namely:

To promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church and community.

To raise the standards of home life.

To secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth.

To bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child.

To develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, social and spiritual education.

The Louisiana Parent -Teacher Association during these years has supported legislation affecting the welfare of the child; legislation for the good of the teacher; legislation for safety and other legislation for the welfare of the community. Each summer a workshop is held for the benefit of P.-T. A. workers at Louisiana State University. Last summer the workshop stressed parent education. This summer a leadership training institute will be held. These workshops are co - sponsored by the university.

The Louisiana Parent - Teacher Association is looking forward to an ambitious program of action for the attainment of better homes, better schools, and better communities in order that our children may have the "happy, uplifting environment" that should be their birthright states Mrs. J. H. Stringer, president, Baton Rouge.

Any country defeated in war must suffer the destruction and pillaging of the enemy forces. The South, during the War Between the States, was no exception to this rule. And Northeast Louisiana suffered along with the rest of the South. The capture of New Orleans brought the war to Louisiana soil and the fall of Vicksburg brought many Union soldiers to northeast Louisiana. Crops and homes were burned and many plantations were deserted.

Federal troops did not arrive in Morehouse Parish until two months before the war ended. One thousand soldiers suddenly appeared and moved in on the plantations. One of these was New Hope plantation, owned by the Spyker family.

The officers quartered themselves in the plantation main house while the soldiers amused themselves by killing sheep, hogs and cows. They practiced bayoneting by cutting off the heads of turkeys and chickens. This continued for one day. It must have seemed a very long one to the Spykers and their slaves.

At sundown the order came to the colonel in charge to destroy the plantation buildings and all provisions except enough to last the white family for one year.

"But you mustn't do that," pleaded Mr. Spyker. "We have many slaves who are too old or too young to take care of themselves. They will starve if you destroy our food."

The colonel did not bother even to answer. He issued his orders and the soldiers prepared to leave. A young officer approached Mr. Spyker and whispered.

At last the colonel rode away at the head of the column of soldiers.

The young officer left in charge issued orders to set fire to the combination corn crib and carriage house. This fire gave a huge light and the colonel, looking back, was satisfied that his orders were being carried out.

"That's it, sir," the young officer told Mr. Spyker. "The colonel will not return. We will not burn the other buildings."

The last of the soldiers rode away and the Spykers relaxed, giving thanks that at least one of the soldiers had taken pity on them.

The relief was short lived, however, for during the night stragglers from the unit returned to demand money. There was only $75 in gold in the house. The rest was Confederate money and worthless. Mrs. Spyker saved the gold by tossing the bag into the shrubbery outside a window.

"If you have no money, we will take your silver. Where is it," demanded the soldiers.

The family was forced to reveal the silver. Only one spoon, two forks and one silver dipper were saved.

The soldiers continued to return throughout the night in search of valuables. When daylight came the Spykers found all their stock dead or wounded beyond recovery. Even more disheartening was the discovery that all able - bodied slaves had departed along with the soldiers.

Thus one more family joined in the long and difficult fight for recovery from war which plagued the South for years after peace was declared.

A Neighborhood Of Steeples

The Twin Cities can be justly proud of their religious development in the years since the war, if the construction of new churches and the rising church membership can be regarded as a "measuring stick." Everywhere one looks, there is the site of a new church, plans for the development of one, actual construction of one, or perhaps the finished product.

In the past two or three years, there have been many such plans laid, construction begun and finished and new congregations starting up all over town. This is certainly a healthy sign and one in which the whole community can readily take pride.

To list a few: The First Christian Church; The Claiborne Methodist Church in West Monroe; Southside Methodist Church; McGuire Methodist Church in West Monroe; Fair Park Baptist Church in West Monroe and the Parkview Baptist Church in Monroe.

Many of the present churches have added huge extensions and educational buildings such as did Grace Episcopal Church, the First Methodist Church, the First Presbyterian Church, and the College Place Baptist Church has built a new sanctuary.

Many churches are planning to build and now have the sites. Some of them are the St. Paul's Methodist Church, the Covenant Presbyterian Church, Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church, Calvary Baptist Church and the Church of the Latter Day Saints. In addition, there are many churches also planning to add to their present facilities.

The First Baptist Church in West Monroe plans a big new sanctuary, the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church plans an addition and the Memorial Methodist Church is currently raising money for a new building.

These are investments in which any community can readily take great pride. Their congregations have risen in size to the point where it is necessary to build larger facilities or deny people the right to attend church. Naturally, the first choice is taken and the congregations are really "coming through."

Investing your capital in your church is a good way to insure certain dividends in a happy future for you and your children, not to mention your community. When people who visit this area take note of the bustling activities of all the churches, they must stop and ask themselves, "If I move there, I will find good people. Just look at the new churches and all the church activity."

To some people, this is not necessarily a criteria for moving to a town or city, but to the large majority of Americans, a religious community must be a good community in which to bring up one's children.

The Twin Cities are to be congratulated for this investment in a good future.

Quick! To The Dikes!

The European Continent and the British Isles have undergone a disastrous beating at the hands of mother nature this last several days and apparently, there is more to come. Probably the hardest nation hit is the hard-working, clean living little nation of Holland. Better known nowadays as the Netherlands, that nation has seen much terror in recent history. It has had better than its share of troubles and woes as the last ten years have dealt the daughty Dutch blows which would drive other nations under.

For instance, the mad Fuhrer in his race to world conquest found the little nation directly in his path. He overran Holland with his "Panzer" units but not after the Dutch had inflicted severe blows on those units and had flooded their entire coastal areas to insure that Hitler gained as little land as possible. In his terrible wrath, Hitler proceeded to reduce the open city of Rotterdam to rubble in an attack which will go down in history as a ruthless deed of a power-mad leader.

The German paratroops descended like locusts upon the Dutch that early morning in the spring of 1940 and literally chopped them to pieces but not until the Dutch had wrecked their own communications, storage bins, and had opened the dikes admitting the North Sea to land so recently claimed from that water. After the war, the ravages had begun to be patched up when the Indonesian nation of today, the Dutch East Indies of old, asked for and received semi-independence. Hotheads among the native islanders insisted upon complete independence, however, and a bloody war ensued which cost the Dutch nation a fearful amount of cash when they could ill afford to pay the cost. They worked however, and had reached a high degree of solvency when this new disaster hit them as hard a blow as possible for nature to inflict.

The Belgians and the British were not to be spared by these natural forces which are many times more destructive than any scientist's dream save perhaps the two "superbombs." Many English towns and cities were swept under water by high tides and destroyed by high winds. However, so serious was the situation in Holland that the premier of that nation termed the storms a "national catastrophe."

In serious trouble is the Dutch province of Zealand in which great amounts of land were being reclaimed every day from the North Sea and which in years past, had been reclaimed. This land was of necessity, lower than the level of the seas, but the dikes have held for so long that they were believed indestructible from the forces of nature. That awesome force has proved once again how foolish "we mortals be" and has in one fell swoop, reclaimed its land for the seas and as a result, many people have lost their lives, not to mention their farms and means of livelihood.

In this area, when the old Mississippi floods its banks, it eventually goes back down sometimes leaving the people better land than they had before, but when the North Sea ruins the dikes of the Dutch and Belgians, it takes years and years of pumping and drying out of the land to ever reclaim the soil if ever it is reclaimed.

The north of Belgium is in serious trouble also with many towns and villages flooded and out of contact with the world. In the three nations of Holland, Belgium, and England, there have been an estimated 2,000 deaths with the totals only starting to come in and the storms and high tides are not over. This is the season for high tides in this area and more trouble is on its way.

It is easy to sit back in your easy chair or recline in your bed this Sunday morning drinking your coffee, and think about the situation in terms of the abstract, but put yourself in the shoes of these nations. The British are borrowed to the hilt, and don't know what to do in the face of rising costs. The Dutch have only recently by stint of diligent effort and labor put themselves in the "black" and now, in order to survive, they will have to put their nation back in debt. On top of that, they will have much less land with which to work as most of the arable land of Zealand is again under water.

The Belgians are still in debt and will have to go in deeper. Naturally, all of this disaster throws a hitch in the plans for the rearming of Europe and the Western Defense Alliance. The United States will naturally be called upon for aid in this disaster and here's one instance where this nation should give the hand of assistance. Here's where the U. S. can gain friends, lasting friends.

When a people are in trouble, trouble they can see, smell, and find at every hand and a good neighbor asks to give him assistance with no ands, buts, or becauses, that neighbor generally has himself a real pal for life. The Communist bear is trouble over the mountain, trouble the Europeans sometimes can't see, but here's disaster at hand and it is up to this nation to deliver immediate aid.

There is one method of delivering it which the Europeans will know came from the hearts of the American people. Each small American community and its individual citizens could get together and as communities, send something to help alleviate the sufferings of these unfortunate peoples. They would certainly appreciate any help which could be given. Instead of making them a direct loan, which will probably have to be done anyway, gifts could be sent from you to them.

Regard yourselves this morning as Dutch, all your nation from Virginia in the North, to Georgia in the South and as far West as Mississippi under water. You'd need help. They need help as the worst is probably yet to come.

The Roast Senateur Is Splendid, Monsieur

There are alarming reports from French West Africa which hit the United States Senate like a bombshell last week when it was found that the West Africans had found a new and entirely untried method of disposing of their senators who had perhaps voted the wrong way. Senator Biaka - Boda of West Africa was discussing his chances of reelection, or perhaps the affairs of state and the world, in the back country when he mysteriously disappeared. Later, a searching party headed by some local investigating committee of African congressmen located a pile of what they believed to be senatorial bones.

Now this incident would probably have gone unnoticed had the senator been a portly man, as incidents of this sort are sometimes known to happen in West Africa, but the senator was little better than bones before the native constituents began their rather grisly work.

This can signify only one thing; something was wrong with the way Biaka - Boda voted. It may have been that he refused to pass a bill guaranteeing the price of heads, or he might have gone along with the group in the senate of West Africa which wanted to eliminate rent control for tree dwellings or, horrible as it may seem, he might have wanted to restrict the number of wives his people could own.

It is not known what the financial situation as regards to meat prices is in that area, and it may be that the campaigning official simply fell victim to hungry people, if the meat prices are as high as they are in the United States.

This whole situation has had fearful repercussions in the United States Senate. Perhaps a cordon of guards will surround the senate chambers. Since weight seems to be no object among the angry constituents, there need be no "slimming down" to protect oneself as this is more trouble than it's worth. Senators will have to watch where they go from now on.

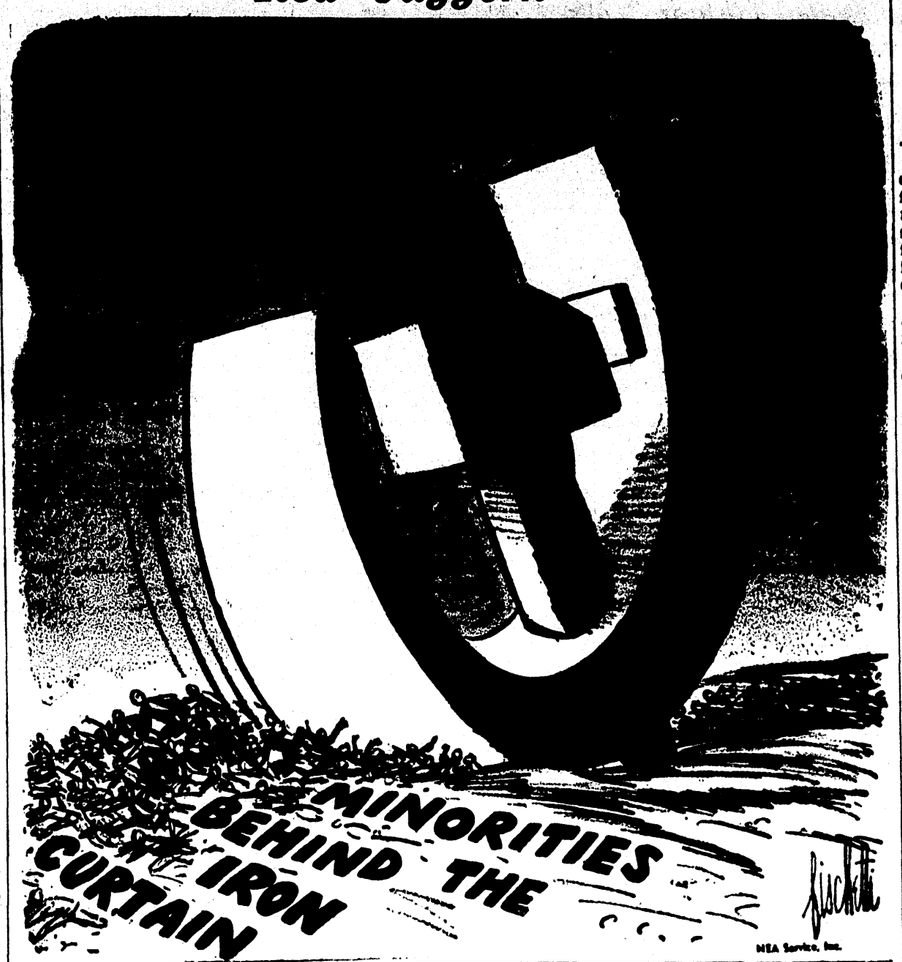

Restaurants in New York and Chicago which specialize in delicacies will be on the lookout for such tasty morsels as: "Boiled Senator with Potatoes; Fried Filet of Congressman (guaranteed to give certain people indigestion); Leg of Senator, Au Jus; Cold Roast Representative with cheese; Senate Hash, Country Style; and for those who go in for foreign cookery, Senateur A' New Orleans Con Vin; Congress Paris Au Natural; Hassenpheffer der Representatif, and maybe even Chicken Chow Mein with a side order of Sirloin strips of Congress.

These are merely some suggestions for various future recipes and menus for American housewives should the West African method of retiring officials become "the mode."

There have been statements by various U. S. Senators in reply to anxious newsmen who are worried about the future of this problem and the terrible shortage of law makers which would naturally be the result. One august senator suggested that an investigation be started at once to get at "the meat of the thing." Senator Johnson of Texas said that Biaka - Boda had set an example in the highest traditions of statesmanship and he further stated that it was amazing how far the senator had gone in pleasing his constituents.

One senator said that the law makers could best be protected by the corrupt practices act under which this particular case would be certain to fall. In any case, when election time comes around, watch your step, Mr. Senator, vote right or you'll wind up in more than a political "pot". The American people will probably not devour you as such, because of the ptomaine poisoning likely to result, but they watch every step you make and there is always French West Africa!

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— President Eisenhower's most important foreign policy declaration in his message to Congress is worth a second look. This is his proposal for a congressional resolution stating that the U. S. government recognizes no secret treaty commitments for "the enslavement of any people" to purchase "fancied gain for ourselves."

The entire foreign-policy section of the President's message was cleared with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles before he went to Europe. But the important thing to know about this proposed congressional foreign policy resolution is what roots it stems from and what it is likely to grow into.

In its broadest interpretation, the congressional declaration against the enslavement of any people might become a global emancipation proclamation—a promise to free the slaves of Communism all over the world. While that is a noble intent, any nation that set out to liberate all the people enslaved by Communism would probably end up with a world war on its hands.

The resolution which President Eisenhower proposes would probably not go that far, however. At best it would more likely be a partial repudiation of agreements made by Presidents Roosevelt and Truman at Yalta and Potsdam as they applied to Poland, East Germany Korea and the northern Japanese islands.

It might not go as far in the other direction as the resolution introduced by Rep. Charles J. Kirsten of Wisconsin, declaring the entire Yalta agreement null, void and not binding on the U. S.

This movement for repudiation of the Yalta agreement in particular is not just a new trick pulled out of President Eisenhower's Homburg. A pledge to repudiate the Yalta agreement is found in the Republican platform adopted at Chicago last June. It says:

"The government of the United States, under Republican leadership, will repudiate all commitments contained in secret understandings such as those at Yalta which aid Communist enslavement. It will make clear, on the highest authority of the President and the Congress, that United States policy, as one of its peaceful purposes, looks happily forward to the genuine independence of those captive peoples."

During the campaign Candidate Eisenhower referred to this matter several times. Before the American Legion convention in September he declared, "The conscience of America can never know peace until the millions of Communist-controlled areas of Europe and Asia are restored to the society of free men."

At Oneida, N. Y., at Pittsburgh and in Madison Square Garden, New York, in October, he again spoke against the series of blunders beginning at Yalta. He said no country had the right to barter away the lives of other people. He wanted to free them of this crushing handicap. He promised no future Yaltas and Potsdams.

So in now asking Congress for new resolutions and declarations on foreign policy, President Eisenhower is merely carrying out the Republican platform and his campaign pledges.

The main agreement at Teheran in 1943 was that the U. S. and Britain would attack Germany through France in 1944.

At Yalta in February, 1945, agreement was reached on the San Francisco conference to draft a United Nations charter. The U. S. and Britain agreed to support White Russia and the Ukraine as separate countries in the UN. The three major powers agreed to take steps to prevent future German aggression, including reparations and even dismemberment of Germany. Russia agreed to enter the war against Japan on condition the USSR be given the Kurile islands plus rail and port rights in Manchuria. Russia also agreed to support Nationalist China.

At Potsdam in August, 1945, the principles for postwar government of Germany were agreed to. It was decided Austria should pay no reparations. Withdrawal of Allied troops from Iran was arranged. Provisions for peace treaties with Italy, Finland, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria were outlined.

The full texts of these agreements were not made public until March, 1947. If Russia had lived up to all its commitments in these conferences, the world situation today would be entirely different. The fact that Russia has not lived up to its promises is in itself considered by many as basis enough for nullification.

A Neighborhood Of Steeples

The Twin Cities can be justly proud of their religious development in the years since the war, if the construction of new churches and the rising church membership can be regarded as a "measuring stick." Everywhere one looks, there is the site of a new church, plans for the development of one, actual construction of one, or perhaps the finished product.

In the past two or three years, there have been many such plans laid, construction begun and finished and new congregations starting up all over town. This is certainly a healthy sign and one in which the whole community can readily take pride.

To list a few: The First Christian Church; The Claiborne Methodist Church in West Monroe; Southside Methodist Church; McGuire Methodist Church in West Monroe; Fair Park Baptist Church in West Monroe and the Parkview Baptist Church in Monroe.

Many of the present churches have added huge extensions and educational buildings such as did Grace Episcopal Church, the First Methodist Church, the First Presbyterian Church, and the College Place Baptist Church has built a new sanctuary.

Many churches are planning to build and now have the sites. Some of them are the St. Paul's Methodist Church, the Covenant Presbyterian Church, Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church, Calvary Baptist Church and the Church of the Latter Day Saints. In addition, there are many churches also planning to add to their present facilities.

The First Baptist Church in West Monroe plans a big new sanctuary, the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church plans an addition and the Memorial Methodist Church is currently raising money for a new building.

These are investments in which any community can readily take great pride. Their congregations have risen in size to the point where it is necessary to build larger facilities or deny people the right to attend church. Naturally, the first choice is taken and the congregations are really "coming through."

Investing your capital in your church is a good way to insure certain dividends in a happy future for you and your children, not to mention your community. When people who visit this area take note of the bustling activities of all the churches, they must stop and ask themselves, "If I move there, I will find good people. Just look at the new churches and all the church activity."

To some people, this is not necessarily a criteria for moving to a town or city, but to the large majority of Americans, a religious community must be a good community in which to bring up one's children.

The Twin Cities are to be congratulated for this investment in a good future.

Quick! To The Dikes!

The European Continent and the British Isles have undergone a disastrous beating at the hands of mother nature this last several days and apparently, there is more to come. Probably the hardest nation hit is the hard-working, clean living little nation of Holland. Better known nowadays as the Netherlands, that nation has seen much terror in recent history. It has had better than its share of troubles and woes as the last ten years have dealt the daughty Dutch blows which would drive other nations under.

For instance, the mad Fuhrer in his race to world conquest found the little nation directly in his path. He overran Holland with his "Panzer" units but not after the Dutch had inflicted severe blows on those units and had flooded their entire coastal areas to insure that Hitler gained as little land as possible. In his terrible wrath, Hitler proceeded to reduce the open city of Rotterdam to rubble in an attack which will go down in history as a ruthless deed of a power-mad leader.

The German paratroops descended like locusts upon the Dutch that early morning in the spring of 1940 and literally chopped them to pieces but not until the Dutch had wrecked their own communications, storage bins, and had opened the dikes admitting the North Sea to land so recently claimed from that water. After the war, the ravages had begun to be patched up when the Indonesian nation of today, the Dutch East Indies of old, asked for and received semi-independence. Hotheads among the native islanders insisted upon complete independence, however, and a bloody war ensued which cost the Dutch nation a fearful amount of cash when they could ill afford to pay the cost. They worked however, and had reached a high degree of solvency when this new disaster hit them as hard a blow as possible for nature to inflict.

The Belgians and the British were not to be spared by these natural forces which are many times more destructive than any scientist's dream save perhaps the two "superbombs." Many English towns and cities were swept under water by high tides and destroyed by high winds. However, so serious was the situation in Holland that the premier of that nation termed the storms a "national catastrophe."

In serious trouble is the Dutch province of Zealand in which great amounts of land were being reclaimed every day from the North Sea and which in years past, had been reclaimed. This land was of necessity, lower than the level of the seas, but the dikes have held for so long that they were believed indestructible from the forces of nature. That awesome force has proved once again how foolish "we mortals be" and has in one fell swoop, reclaimed its land for the seas and as a result, many people have lost their lives, not to mention their farms and means of livelihood.

In this area, when the old Mississippi floods its banks, it eventually goes back down sometimes leaving the people better land than they had before, but when the North Sea ruins the dikes of the Dutch and Belgians, it takes years and years of pumping and drying out of the land to ever reclaim the soil if ever it is reclaimed.

The north of Belgium is in serious trouble also with many towns and villages flooded and out of contact with the world. In the three nations of Holland, Belgium, and England, there have been an estimated 2,000 deaths with the totals only starting to come in and the storms and high tides are not over. This is the season for high tides in this area and more trouble is on its way.

It is easy to sit back in your easy chair or recline in your bed this Sunday morning drinking your coffee, and think about the situation in terms of the abstract, but put yourself in the shoes of these nations. The British are borrowed to the hilt, and don't know what to do in the face of rising costs. The Dutch have only recently by stint of diligent effort and labor put themselves in the "black" and now, in order to survive, they will have to put their nation back in debt. On top of that, they will have much less land with which to work as most of the arable land of Zealand is again under water.

The Belgians are still in debt and will have to go in deeper. Naturally, all of this disaster throws a hitch in the plans for the rearming of Europe and the Western Defense Alliance. The United States will naturally be called upon for aid in this disaster and here's one instance where this nation should give the hand of assistance. Here's where the U. S. can gain friends, lasting friends.

When a people are in trouble, trouble they can see, smell, and find at every hand and a good neighbor asks to give him assistance with no ands, buts, or becauses, that neighbor generally has himself a real pal for life. The Communist bear is trouble over the mountain, trouble the Europeans sometimes can't see, but here's disaster at hand and it is up to this nation to deliver immediate aid.

There is one method of delivering it which the Europeans will know came from the hearts of the American people. Each small American community and its individual citizens could get together and as communities, send something to help alleviate the sufferings of these unfortunate peoples. They would certainly appreciate any help which could be given. Instead of making them a direct loan, which will probably have to be done anyway, gifts could be sent from you to them.

Regard yourselves this morning as Dutch, all your nation from Virginia in the North, to Georgia in the South and as far West as Mississippi under water. You'd need help. They need help as the worst is probably yet to come.

The Roast Senateur Is Splendid, Monsieur

There are alarming reports from French West Africa which hit the United States Senate like a bombshell last week when it was found that the West Africans had found a new and entirely untried method of disposing of their senators who had perhaps voted the wrong way. Senator Biaka - Boda of West Africa was discussing his chances of reelection, or perhaps the affairs of state and the world, in the back country when he mysteriously disappeared. Later, a searching party headed by some local investigating committee of African congressmen located a pile of what they believed to be senatorial bones.

Now this incident would probably have gone unnoticed had the senator been a portly man, as incidents of this sort are sometimes known to happen in West Africa, but the senator was little better than bones before the native constituents began their rather grisly work.

This can signify only one thing; something was wrong with the way Biaka - Boda voted. It may have been that he refused to pass a bill guaranteeing the price of heads, or he might have gone along with the group in the senate of West Africa which wanted to eliminate rent control for tree dwellings or, horrible as it may seem, he might have wanted to restrict the number of wives his people could own.

It is not known what the financial situation as regards to meat prices is in that area, and it may be that the campaigning official simply fell victim to hungry people, if the meat prices are as high as they are in the United States.

This whole situation has had fearful repercussions in the United States Senate. Perhaps a cordon of guards will surround the senate chambers. Since weight seems to be no object among the angry constituents, there need be no "slimming down" to protect oneself as this is more trouble than it's worth. Senators will have to watch where they go from now on.

Restaurants in New York and Chicago which specialize in delicacies will be on the lookout for such tasty morsels as: "Boiled Senator with Potatoes; Fried Filet of Congressman (guaranteed to give certain people indigestion); Leg of Senator, Au Jus; Cold Roast Representative with cheese; Senate Hash, Country Style; and for those who go in for foreign cookery, Senateur A' New Orleans Con Vin; Congress Paris Au Natural; Hassenpheffer der Representatif, and maybe even Chicken Chow Mein with a side order of Sirloin strips of Congress.

These are merely some suggestions for various future recipes and menus for American housewives should the West African method of retiring officials become "the mode."

There have been statements by various U. S. Senators in reply to anxious newsmen who are worried about the future of this problem and the terrible shortage of law makers which would naturally be the result. One august senator suggested that an investigation be started at once to get at "the meat of the thing." Senator Johnson of Texas said that Biaka - Boda had set an example in the highest traditions of statesmanship and he further stated that it was amazing how far the senator had gone in pleasing his constituents.

One senator said that the law makers could best be protected by the corrupt practices act under which this particular case would be certain to fall. In any case, when election time comes around, watch your step, Mr. Senator, vote right or you'll wind up in more than a political "pot". The American people will probably not devour you as such, because of the ptomaine poisoning likely to result, but they watch every step you make and there is always French West Africa!

'KISS ME KATE' HIGHLY POPULAR

Has Been Enjoyed By Over 800,000 In 3 Years On Broadway

The performance of the national company of "Kiss Me Kate" on February 12 at Neville auditorium marks another milestone in the number of audiences who have seen this attraction. During its three years run on Broadway, "Kiss Me Kate" played to over 800,000 people. After the first year of its New York engagement, a second company was sent to Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Dallas, Los Angeles, San Francisco and other large cities, coast to coast. At the same time, another company opened in London. Subsequently, the rights to produce the musical were leased to producers in France, Australia, Holland, Sweden and Denmark.

During the past summer, "Kiss Me Kate" was performed in stock or by a touring company in 87 summer theatres. It was also given showing by established musical groups such as th: St. Louis Municipal Opera Company, the Music Circus at Lambertville, N. J., the Cape Cod Melody Fair in Massachusetts, the Musical Tent of Toronto, Canada and at the Dallas Starlight Park.

Everywhere, the production repeated the great success it had attained in New York and was enthusiastically acclaimed by press and public.

All the flavor, verve and beauty of the original New York production have been retained; the audience will hear the complete score comprising such hit parade tunes as "Wunderbar," "So In Love With You Am I," "Always True To You In My Fashion," and many others; the truck load of scenery, though adapted to the rigors of touring creates the illusion of the misty Scottish glens and forests, wherein the musical is laid, and the colorful ballet numbers have been staged by Marcella Dodge who is assistant choreographer to Agnes De Mille, creator of the dance routines for "Oklahoma," "Brigadoon," and other big musicals.

The box office for the local presentation of "Kiss Me Kate" is located at Hewitt's. All seats are reserved.

Flood Tide Of Spending Rising Higher In States

CHICAGO, Feb. 7 (AP)—The flood tide of spending is rising to new high levels in the states.

Proposed budgets are higher in 21 states.

They are lower in only five.

In the other 18 states there is little change or, in most cases, the budgets still are being prepared.

These budgets are recommended plans for spending in the next fiscal period—a year or two years. The legislators can slash or hike the items.

But as the budgets now stand increases add up to 632 million dollars in the 21 states where boosts have been suggested. And in the five states where decreases have been proposed the reductions add up to 57 million.

Thus, the over-all result in these 26 states would be a net gain in spending of 575 million dollars.

The 48 states spent a record total of 13 billion dollars in 1951. The current trend indicates a new record is in the making.

Gov. Earl Warren has asked California lawmakers for a record one-year (1953-54) budget of $1,326,851,805—a sum $82,787,967 higher than 1952-53 expenditures. Most of the additional money was approved by the voters in November for further school support.

Gov. John S. Fine is asking Pennsylvania legislators to adopt a budget of $1,428,777,543 for a two-year period starting June 1. The total is $208,777,543 higher than the budget for the current biennium.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York has proposed appropriations for one year which total $1,072,484,440—a drop of $36,362,238 from the total of appropriations in the present fiscal year.

Those are the only billion-dollar budgets submitted to legislatures thus far.

Income and outgo for state governments have become uncomfortably close. In 1951, the latest year for which figures are available, the 48 states spent 13 billion and their revenues totalled $12,406,000,000.

This condition would seem to offer two fundamental choices: cut spending or raise taxes.

New or higher taxes are being considered in some states.

But under Gov. Dewey's plan there will be no change in any of New York's tax rates. Gov. Johnston Murray and top legislative leaders in Oklahoma are opposed to any hikes.

And Gov. J. Bracken Lee told Utah lawmakers:

"I urge again that you give first consideration to the long abused and forgotten taxpayers by reducing taxes."

Tallulah AF Colonel Faces Court-Martial

A Tallulah colonel will go on trial at Carswell Air Force Base on charges of violating the uniform code of military justice, according to the Associated Press.

The court-martial trial of Lt. Colonel Ralph R. Taylor will begin Wednesday at the Fort Worth, Tex., base. Taylor, special assistant to the commanding general of the 19th Air Division, is accused of falsifying a flight form in order to draw flight pay for the month of June, 1952, according to the Associated Press.

At that time the colonel was commanding officer of the 9th Bomb Squadron.

Maximum penalty on conviction is dismissal from the service, total forefiture of pay and allowances, and confinement for one year at hard labor.

First passenger trains in the United States to be lightened entirely by electricity were operated in 1887.

Your Credit Record is an Open Book

Preserving a good credit record is not only a matter of convenience, but of personal prestige.

For if you fall into the bad habit of not paying your bills promptly, the fact may become known to the merchant, physician, dentist, hospital, fuel dealer and other credit granters.

The files of the Credit Bureau show how you pay your bills. This record is available not only to the members of the Credit Bureau in your own community, but to the members of more than 1300 other Credit Bureaus throughout all the United States and Canada.

The Credit Bureau does not make your credit record. It merely keeps the record. If you are careful to buy only what you can pay for—and pay for it when it is due—the Credit Bureau will reflect your good reputation. If you buy more than you can afford—and don't pay promptly—these facts will be available to those from whom you may want to obtain further credit.

Your Credit Record is an open book—written by yourself in the way you meet your obligations. The only way to maintain it is by paying every bill on the date it is due.

'KISS ME KATE' HIGHLY POPULAR

Has Been Enjoyed By Over 800,000 In 3 Years On Broadway

The performance of the national company of "Kiss Me Kate" on February 12 at Neville auditorium marks another milestone in the number of audiences who have seen this attraction. During its three years run on Broadway, "Kiss Me Kate" played to over 800,000 people. After the first year of its New York engagement, a second company was sent to Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Dallas, Los Angeles, San Francisco and other large cities, coast to coast. At the same time, another company opened in London. Subsequently, the rights to produce the musical were leased to producers in France, Australia, Holland, Sweden and Denmark.

During the past summer, "Kiss Me Kate" was performed in stock or by a touring company in 87 summer theatres. It was also given showing by established musical groups such as the St. Louis Municipal Opera Company, the Music Circus at Lambertville, N. J., the Cape Cod Melody Fair in Massachusetts, the Musical Tent of Toronto, Canada and at the Dallas Starlight Park.

Everywhere, the production repeated the great success it had attained in New York and was enthusiastically acclaimed by press and public.

All the flavor, verve and beauty of the original New York production have been retained; the audience will hear the complete score comprising such hit parade tunes as "Wunderbar," "So In Love With You Am I," "Always True To You In My Fashion," and many others; the truck load of scenery, though adapted to the rigors of touring creates the illusion of the misty Scottish glens and forests, wherein the musical is laid, and the colorful ballet numbers have been staged by Marcella Dodge who is assistant choreographer to Agnes De Mille, creator of the dance routines for "Oklahoma," "Brigadoon," and other big musicals.

The box office for the local presentation of "Kiss Me Kate" is located at Hewitt's. All seats are reserved.

FIVE PRODUCERS ARE BROUGHT IN

Flood Tide Of Spending Rising Higher In States

CHICAGO, Feb. 7 (AP)—The flood tide of spending is rising to new high levels in the states.

Proposed budgets are higher in 21 states.

They are lower in only five.

In the other 18 states there is little change or, in most cases, the budgets still are being prepared.

These budgets are recommended plans for spending in the next fiscal period—a year or two years. The legislators can slash or hike the items.

But as the budgets now stand increases add up to 632 million dollars in the 21 states where boosts have been suggested. And in the five states where decreases have been proposed the reductions add up to 57 million.

Thus, the over-all result in these 26 states would be a net gain in spending of 575 million dollars.

The 48 states spent a record total of 13 billion dollars in 1951. The current trend indicates a new record is in the making.

Gov. Earl Warren has asked California lawmakers for a record one-year (1953-54) budget of $1,326,851,805—a sum $82,787,967 higher than 1952-53 expenditures. Most of the additional money was approved by the voters in November for further school support.

Gov. John S. Fine is asking Pennsylvania legislators to adopt a budget of $1,428,777,543 for a two-year period starting June 1. The total is $208,777,543 higher than the budget for the current biennium.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York has proposed appropriations for one year which total $1,072,484,440—a drop of $36,362,238 from the total of appropriations in the present fiscal year.

Those are the only billion-dollar budgets submitted to legislatures thus far.

Income and outgo for state governments have become uncomfortably close. In 1951, the latest year for which figures are available, the 48 states spent 13 billion and their revenues totalled $12,406,000,000.

This condition would seem to offer two fundamental choices: cut spending or raise taxes.

New or higher taxes are being considered in some states.

But under Gov. Dewey's plan there will be no change in any of New York's tax rates. Gov. Johnston Murray and top legislative leaders in Oklahoma are opposed to any hikes.

And Gov. J. Bracken Lee told Utah lawmakers:

"I urge again that you give first consideration to the long abused and forgotten taxpayers by reducing taxes."

Tallulah AF Colonel Faces Court-Martial

A Tallulah colonel will go on trial at Carswell Air Force Base on charges of violating the uniform code of military justice, according to the Associated Press.

The court-martial trial of Lt. Colonel Ralph R. Taylor will begin Wednesday at the Fort Worth, Tex., base. Taylor, special assistant to the commanding general of the 19th Air Division, is accused of falsifying a flight form in order to draw flight pay for the month of June, 1952, according to the Associated Press.

At that time the colonel was commanding officer of the 9th Bomb Squadron.

Maximum penalty on conviction is dismissal from the service, total forefiture of pay and allowances, and confinement for one year at hard labor.

First passenger trains in the United States to be lightened entirely by electricity were operated in 1887.

Your Credit Record is an Open Book

Preserving a good credit record is not only a matter of convenience, but of personal prestige.

For if you fall into the bad habit of not paying your bills promptly, the fact may become known to the merchant, physician, dentist, hospital, fuel dealer and other credit granters.

The files of the Credit Bureau show how you pay your bills. This record is available not only to the members of the Credit Bureau in your own community, but to the members of more than 1300 other Credit Bureaus throughout all the United States and Canada.

The Credit Bureau does not make your credit record. It merely keeps the record. If you are careful to buy only what you can pay for—and pay for it when it is due—the Credit Bureau will reflect your good reputation. If you buy more than you can afford—and don't pay promptly—these facts will be available to those from whom you may want to obtain further credit.

Your Credit Record is an open book—written by yourself in the way you meet your obligations. The only way to maintain it is by paying every bill on the date it is due.

GUY LOMBARDO COMING FEB. 27

Lions Sponsoring Famous Show To Raise Funds For Ki-Ro-Li

Guy Lombardo and his famous Royal Canadians will appear in Monroe, under the sponsorship of the Monroe Lions Club, February 27 at 8:30 p.m. in Neville auditorium.

The Lions Club is sponsoring the nationally famous show to raise funds towards construction of an administration building at Camp Ki-Ro-Li, Boy Scout camp in West Monroe. The local organization in the past has been a large contributor to the camp and hopes that proceeds from the Guy Lombardo show will be sufficient so that plans may be made for erection of the much needed building.

One of the biggest bombshells ever exploded in the music business was hurled in 1951, by Guy Lombardo when he announced that he and his orchestra would embark upon a concert tour — a tour in which his band would not play for dancers but for listeners.

No announcement could have been more startling when it is considered that Lombardo's tremendous reputation as the world's number one bandleader has been established over the past 25 years on the strength of the fact that it is the band to which people most enjoy dancing.

Consequently, the entire showbusiness world closely followed the results of the Lombardo concert tour to see how Lombardo would fare with people who just "listened."

It developed into the most triumphant tour ever, for a popular music organization. In 60 days Lombardo performed before almost 350,000 persons. In many of the cities he broke all existing attendance records for an entertainment event. Nowhere along the line did he "flop."

In 1952, Lombardo did a "repeat" concert tour with even better box office results.

Lombardo, himself, explains the phenomenal success of his concert appearances this way:

"I have felt for years that our fans were the entire family. We have always had legions of teenager fans as well as their parents and grandparents. I decided upon a concert tour because I felt we could in this manner play for the entire family at once. On dance dates a band plays primarily for teenagers and people in their twenties."

"I had no doubt from the outset that we would draw the crowds because I knew that families had too few opportunities to enjoy music together."

What pleased Lombardo most about his concert was the complete attention paid to the band during the performances.

"Needless to say we love to play for dancers. We always have, we always will. But an audience of dancers is by its very nature a noisy one. On the other hand, people who have attended our concerts have paid such wonderful attention that you could hear a pin drop. Nothing could be more gratifying to a musician."

Tickets can be purchased at Howard Brothers on DeSiard Street.

IN-SERVICE HAS TRAINING WORK

Rapides Parish Health Center Has Area Meeting

An informative and instructive training program for the clerks and clerical personnel of the northeastern region of the Louisiana State department of health was held at the Rapides Parish health center on Friday.

Miss Pearl Anding of the southern regional office, Lafayette, lead the group in an interesting and helpful discussion of the procedures, policies and records of the section of Crippled Children Services, a subject of much interest and importance of health department personnel. Mrs. Velma Brusse of the training center, N. O. also brought the group timely information on this subject.

M. E. Kossack of the division of public health education spoke on "Utilizing the Resources of the Division of Public Health Education." He told of the varied ways clerical personnel of the department can serve the public by helping to keep them informed of the services, facilities and materials available at the local units and through the division of public health education. Mr. Kossack stressed the excellent film library of the department of health and pointed out that these films can be obtained through the local health units or through the division of public health education. He also told of the many interesting and helpful phamplets, bulletins and booklets that are available at the local health units.

Anthony Ciascio, of the central office, New Orleans, spoke about the Louisiana State Public Health Workers associaton, the membership goals and plans for the annual meeting to be held in Lafayette in April. He also gave pertinent information concerning the Louisiana Public Health Workers Credit Association and its growth.

An engrossing film "Face of Youth" was shown by Jack Morrison, of the Rapides Parish health unit. The film dealt with the problems of two little boys, one over aggressive, the other too submissive and how they and their parents were helped in working out their difficulties.

Plans were discussed for the next program, which will be held in June at the health center in Monroe. Miss Dolly Reed of the Rapides Parish health unit was elected as chairman for the June program. Mrs. Ethel Jones of the Monroe regional laboratory served as chairman for the February meeting and Mrs. Minnie Defee of the Ouachita Parish health unit served as secretary.

Those in attendance at the meeting were: Velma P. Brusse, training center, New Orleans; Madge Kelly, Ouachita; Cecille Kiper, Franklin; Dorothy Walker, Ouachita; Beryl Strother, Ouachita; Mamie Ruth Harrington, Monroe district section of crippled children services; Reita B. Cockrell, Morehouse; Iris Jones, regional office, Monroe; Ethel Childress, Caldwell Merle Clary, Jackson; Mercier Ducote, Alexandria district, sectrict of crippled children services; Dolly M. Reed, Rapides; Minnie DeFee, Ouachita; Ethel W. Jones, Monroe regional laboratory; Pearl L. Anding, southern regional office, M. E. Kossack, New Orleans; Anthony Ciascio, New Orleans, central office, Mrs. Myrtle Michiels, Alexandria regional laboratory, Mrs Mildred Michels, Alexandria laboratory; Hazel Willis, Rapides.

'Buyer's Market' Aids Boom For Home Builders

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 —UP— Home builders, confronted for the first time since World War II with a "buyer's market," are placing new emphasis on sales programs and catering to the public.

Despite the tougher job of selling homes, however, industry leaders confidently expect their booming business to continue in 1953. Their estimates on housing starts for this year range from 1 million to 1.2 million.

In 1945 millions of Americans were "desperate" for "shelter" housing. Many had to double up with other families until the housing industry could build them homes.

Today this situation has been changed radically. The industry has built 7 million houses since the war and now a "surprisingly low" number of families are doubled up. Home buyers are more exacting and are shopping more carefully.

Added to the industry's problems in selling homes is a widespread shortage of mortgage funds at the interest rates required for government insurance. Home builders hope to convince congress to lower down payment requirements, extend mortgage terms and perhaps increase mortgage rates high enough to attract more mortgage money.

The rest of the selling job they feel they can handle themselves. But they know that many home buyers are going to need convincing that they are getting their money's worth.

Alan E. Brockbank, on retiring as president of the National Association of Home Builders, pledged that the industry will give the 1953 home buyer "more value than every before for his housing dollar."

The NAHB itself is conducting several programs to improve home building and to sell homes. Among these are the "trades secret" home aimed at spreading information about the industry's latest improvements and the "parades of homes," a promotional program to advertise the improved homes built.

Other related industries are becoming cautious because of the expanding "buyer's market" in housing.

Brown L. Whatley, president of the Mortgage Bankers Association, reported the buyer's market today extends to "most areas" of the country and that builders' prices are "not as firm as they were."

Roy Winzlick, housing analyst for the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association, advised lumbermen not to finance or build large developments of unsold houses because the real housing shortage in most communities no longer exists. He also advised that lumbermen keep their inventories low because new houses will be harder to sell.

The NAHB says that 30 groups will hold "parades of homes" this year. The association, representing 25,000 builders, calls this merchandising plan a "sure-fire" way to get public interest in builders' wares.

The NAHB now is distributing a film demonstrating to member groups how the parade of homes works. A member group buys a tract of land and then each member builder erect a sample home on it. The show lasts for a week generally and gives potential buyers the chance to see a dozen to 40 homes at first hand and with a minimum of effort.

INDUSTRY HOPES FOR EARLY END TO OIL CONTROLS

Spokesman Says Hope Springs From Ike's Decontrol Orders

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Hope for an early lifting of price controls on oil is held by Washington spokesman for the industry.

This hope springs from (1) What President Eisenhower said in his address to Congress this week and what he has since done toward ending all price controls; and (2) Views expressed by Oscar Chapman before he stepped out as Secretary of the Interior.

When the President lifted ceilings yesterday on a wide variety of goods, he made it plain that more and more decontrol orders would be coming soon. This was in line with his message to Congress advocating an orderly end to controls.

Chapman was quoted by Russell Brown, general counsel of the Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA), as saying that he did not believe removal of controls on crude oil and oil products would have any general inflationary effect.

These developments, Brown said in an interview, "seem to support our position that petroleum prices should be decontrolled."

The Office of Price Stabilization about a month ago denied the association's petition, filed a year ago, for lifting of the controls.

Brown said Chapman, who served as petroleum administrator, expressed his views in a letter written Jan. 13.

The IPAA contends the price control laws have not restrained inflation but have served as an "unnecessary detriment" to normal activities of the oil industry.

Brown said he now has every reason to hope that price controls on crude may be taken off in the near future. Similar views have been voiced by other oil representatives here.

The IPAA says in its "facts and forecasts" that there have been reports of new contracts for the importation of Middle East crude oil into the East Coast market of this country.

"This," the association declared, "would accelerate the trend toward closing this market to the domestic producers.

"There is serious question as to whether this is in accordance with the established national policy on imports to which both importers and domestic producers have subscribed."

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.), in a new attack on legislation to give states title to off-shore oil lands, asserted the proposal would "take away at least 40 billion dollars of oil resources which now belong to the people of the 48 states and give them to only three states."

In a speech recorded for radio broadcast in his state, Douglas urged instead legislation that would "stop the oil-grab and use the money to better the plight of our schools and our teachers."

He said the "oil for education" idea is in line with the land grant college policy first fostered by Illinoisans.

"There is nothing new in devoting the natural resources of this country to developing the human resources," the senator said. "It's a good thing to do in itself.

"But as an alternative to making an outright gift of 40 billion dollars, when the federal government has a debt of over a quarter of a trillion dollars, it is absolutely imperative."

VAN FLEET GETS WARM FAREWELL FROM UN TROOPS

Retiring General Pays Last Visit To Eastern Battlefront

SEOUL (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet paid his last visit to the Eastern Korean battlefront today and was welcomed with thundering gun salutes, honor guards, and the strains of "Auld Lang Syne."

Arm-in-arm with his successor, Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Van Fleet was honored with glittering military pageantry unprecedented since the Korean War began.

Mass formations, martial music and bright, waving banners greeted the two generals as they planehopped from one corps and division to another. They traveled from the east coast across half the battlefront.

Taylor, expected to inspect the front soon, stood back and smilingly joined in the tribute to the greying, but still boyish, 60-year-old commander.

It was a demonstration of genuine affection for the retiring Van Fleet by the American and South Korean forces.

Van Fleet was in a holiday mood himself, and had smiles and handshakes for every one, from ROK soldiers to corps commanders.

"General Taylor is the new captain of the team now," Van Fleet told one division staff. "You're getting a real commander."

Taylor replied that he hoped his record would be as successful as Van Fleet's.

The generals flew first from Seoul to the eastern end of the battlefront. They made a short helicopter flight to the battleship Missouri to visit with Vice Admiral J. J. Clark, commander of the Seventh Fleet.

They they went to the first ROK corps, where, for the first time since the Korean War began, a whole combat division — the ROK Fifth — stood in mass formation to greet the generals.

"This is a magnificent sight," Van Fleet said.

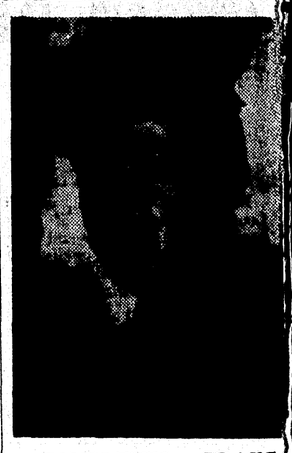

As Van Fleet walked to his plane after inspecting one American division, the band broke into "Auld Lang Syne" instead of the usual jaunty march.

Fines To Be Faced By Unlicensed Drivers

Here's How On Hot Dog Barbecue Sauce

Here are two fine barbecue sauce recipes to accompany frankfurters—preferably the large thick ones. We make our family sauce as follows:

1 chopped onion
2 tablespoons bacon fat
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup tomato catsup
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ cup water
½ cup chopped celery
Salt, garlic salt, chili powder, MSG to taste

Brown onion in fat and add remaining ingredients. Simmer for 30 minutes. Arrange frankfurters in baking dish, slit the top of each about 3 inches, cover with the sauce and bake for about 45 minutes at 300 degrees.

1 tablespoon melted butter
½ cup sliced onion
4 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon paprika
4 tablespoons vinegar
½ cup catsup
¾ cup cold water
4 teaspoons Worcestershire
½ teaspoon Tabasco sauce

Brown the onion in the butter, add remaining ingredients and bring to boil. Check the seasoning, pour over the frankfurters, and bake 25 minutes at 350 degrees.

Skilleteer Hugh N. Starnes, Birmingham News Chapter, and Executive Secretary of the Alabama Restaurant Association, sends us his "Alabama Spoon Bread." Mr. Starnes says "it sho' hits the spot!" And we says, "It Sho' do!"

1 cup boiling water
1 cup white corn meal
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon salt
1¼ cups sweet milk
1-3 cup melted butter or margarine
4 teaspoons baking powder

Pour boiling water over meal, and add other ingredients in above order. Beat until lumps are dissolved, pour into a well - buttered casserole, and bake 35 minutes at 350 degrees. Serves four he-men or six ladies.

Here is an elegant cole slaw to accompany the above:

1 head cabbage (small)
6 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
1 small bottle tiny pearl onions
6 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped celery
Mayonnaise

Chop cabbage very fine, stir in salt, vinegar, sugar and mustard and chill thoroughly for several hours. When ready to serve, drain most of liquid, add celery and pearl onions (1 1-3 cup finely chopped onion will do if you can't find the pearl onions.) Stir in enough mayonnaise to bind the slaw together. It may be served on lettuce leaves garnished with whipped cream and paprika if desired.

Charles Laughton Scouts Talent When Off Screen

Charles Laughton, currently starring opposite Bud Abbott and Lou Costello in "Abbott and Costello Meet Captain Kidd," is not only credited with discovering the Bible and Shakespeare for modern day audiences, but also gets the gold star for discovering many top screen personalities. The Supercinecolor comedy, due at the Paramount Theatre on Sunday, Feb. 8, is a Woodley production distributed by Warner Bros.

Laughton's one - man reading tour, in which he simply reads from The Bible, Dickens, Thomas Wolfe, etc., has proved a boon to the public's understanding of these great literary works.

In the field of putting the finger on live talent, Laughton is recorded as being the first to "see" Maureen O'Hara and James Mason, among others.

Miss O'Hara's screen debut was in "Jamaica Inn," which Laughton produced and in which he played the starring role. Laughton had tested dozens of actresses but couldnt' find the one he wanted. In the middle of one night he suddenly recalled a face that intrigued him. He couldn't pin-point the face's name but the next day he ran all the tests again. There he found the girl. She was over-made up, she had adopted an exaggerated strut, but Laughton says, "her face was beautiful."

She was recalled, told to act natural in the next test, won the lead, and was on her way to film fame.

Laughton saw James Mason in an Old Vic appearance and told Sir Alexander Korda that here was an actor "with the most magnificent head" in show business. Korda was not sold on Mason's acting ability at that time, and let him slip by.

The Shakespearean classes conducted by Laughton at his home helped many young players, and attending them was Shelley Winters. But Laughton disclaims any credit for "furthering" Shelley's career. "We only adied her appetite,' Laughton grinned, "because our ice - box was open for raiding during the classes."

DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS FEATURE

Will Participate In 20th Anniversary Program At Barksdale

SHREVEPORT, Feb. 7(Special) The United States air force drum and bugle corps, the only one of its kind in the world, is scheduled to make several appearances throughout the afternoon during the open house ceremonies commemorating the twentieth anniversary of Barksdale air force base, Saturday Feb. 14.

Wherever the corps has marched it has been acclaimed by thousands as the acme of marching skill — the pride of the air force. Here is a unit of 61 men who move as one; a colorful, spectacular group of perfectionists whose show is unique in many respects. From a modest beginning in December of 1949 at headquarters command, Bolling Air Force base the corps is today internationally recognized, eagerly sought - after. It never fails to put on a "Showman's Show" or win the unanimous plaudits of those for whom it plays.

Although this highly versatile organization does on occasion divide itself into a concert group, glee club or bagpipe band, it is as a marching unit in the field that the corps excels.

As a marching unit there are 60 men, six across and 10 deep. Out in front setting a smart pace, is the drum major. The percussion section consists of six tenor drums, 12 snare drums, two scotch bass drums, two sets of cymbals and two bass drums played with such exactness that the stick work looks like a well - oiled machine. The bugle section is 29 - strong and of this number, six are bass bugles, the only ones in existence and especially designed by Capt. Herbert J. Gall, leader of the group.

The Cincinnati Reds have had 27 pitchers who won 20 or more games in one season. The last to reach that mark was Ewell Blackwell in 1947. Blackie won 22 games while losing eight.

President's Religious Demonstrations Hailed

HOUSTON, Miss. (AP)—President Dwight Eisenhower's religious demonstrations were praised in a message sent him by the Methodist ministers of the District Preachers Association.

The Rev. S. E. Ashmore of Houston, president, said:

"The ministers felt the President should know the nation appreciates his repeated references to faith in God."

"The entire group warmly expressed high commendation of your stand for the church and good religion, and your repeated references to our need of a great faith in God and your uniting with the church," the message said.

Youth Over-Attains Life-Long Ambition

CANTERBURY, England, Feb. 7 —UP—Seventeen-year-old Michael Nash worried throughout childhood he wound't grow tall enough to relize his dream of joining Britain's crack Regiment of Guards, whose members must measure six feet or more.

But he kept on growing until he was accepted. Friday the guards sent him home. The youth now stands six feet, nine inches, and officers said he was too tall for the regiment.

Christian Science Lecture To Be Given

The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend the free public lecture on Christian Science at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium today at 3 p.m.

The address by Theodore Wallach, of Chicago, member of the Christian Science board of lectureship, is presented through the auspices of Monroe First Church of Christ, Scientist.

He will discuss: "Christian Science; the Key to Happiness."

Franklin Dam Is Reality After Wait Of 15 Years

WINNSBORO, Feb. 6 (Special) —The Turkey Creek Dam — first proposed in a bill introduced in the State Legislature in 1938—has become a reality after 15 years.

The dam, across Turkey Creek seven miles west of Wisner in the southwest part of Franklin parish, has created a lake which covers approximately 1500 acres. The lake will be one of the best fishing spots in north Louisiana.

Almost every spring back water from Boeuf river comes up Turkey Creek, filling the creek and adjoining brake and bringing thousands of fish of all kinds with it. While the water was up this was a fisherman's paradise but when the water went down, tons of fish were left stranded to die in stagnant pools or on dry land.

To remedy this situation, Representative J. C. Buie introduced a bill in the State Legislature in 1938 to create the Turkey Creek Game and Fish commission and appropriate $40,000 for construction of the dam. The bill passed but Governor Dick Leche vetoed the appropriation, so nothing could be done about it then.

It was after World War II that Senator Dr. R. E. King and Rep. Phillip Montgomery, secured an appropriation of $100,000 for construction of the dam and bids were advertised for its construction. T. L. James and Co., Inc. of Ruston was low bidder and the bid was $131,109.

Senator King secured the extra $31,000 which was needed from the State Board of Liquidation and the contract was awarded to T. L. James & Co. on August 31, 195 Two spring back waters caused delay in construction and it has just now been completed. Each year, backwater will restock the lake with fish.

In 1952, Rep. Buie attempted to secure an additional $25,000 to make the dam higher and create a larger lake, but the bill was vetoed by Governor Robert Kennon.

J. C. Buie, Dr. R. E. King and Phillip Montgomery have been appointed by the Franklin parish police jury as a committee in charge of the Turkey Creek Game and Fish commission and the have full control of the project.

The Department of Public Work has accepted the dam for the state from T. L. James and Co. and it will be turned over to the State Wildlife Department.

Representative Buie advises that plans now (if necessary funds can be obtained) are to build gravel roads to the lake on both east and west sides, landscape it, and make the project one of the best recreational centers in the south.

TURKEY CREEK DAM — The much-delayed Turkey Creek Dam in Franklin parish has been accepted for the state, opening up a new fishing spot for Northeast Louisiana anglers. The dam, designed to handle spring overflows, has created a lake which covers about 1500 acres. It is located in the southwest part of the parish.

"I have felt for years that our fans were the entire family. We have always had legions of teenager fans as well as their parents and grandparents. I decided upon a concert tour because I felt we could in this manner play for the entire family at once. On dance dates a band plays primarily for teenagers and people in their twenties."

"I had no doubt from the outset that we would draw the crowds because I knew that families had too few opportunities to enjoy music together."

What pleased Lombardo most about his concert was the complete attention paid to the band during the performances.

"Needless to say we love to play for dancers. We always have, we always will. But an audience of dancers is by its very nature a noisy one. On the other hand, people who have attended our concerts have paid such wonderful attention that you could hear a pin drop. Nothing could be more gratifying to a musician."

Tickets can be purchased at Howard Brothers on DeSiard Street.

IN-SERVICE HAS TRAINING WORK

Rapides Parish Health Center Has Area Meeting

An informative and instructive training program for the clerks and clerical personnel of the northeastern region of the Louisiana State department of health was held at the Rapides Parish health center on Friday.

Miss Pearl Anding of the southern regional office, Lafayette, lead the group in an interesting and helpful discussion of the procedures, policies and records of the section of Crippled Children Services, a subject of much interest and importance of health department personnel. Mrs. Velma Brusse of the training center, N. O. also brought the group timely information on this subject.

M. E. Kossack of the division of public health education spoke on "Utilizing the Resources of the Division of Public Health Education." He told of the varied ways clerical personnel of the department can serve the public by helping to keep them informed of the services, facilities and materials available at the local units and through the division of public health education. Mr. Kossack stressed the excellent film library of the department of health and pointed out that these films can be obtained through the local health units or through the division of public health education. He also told of the many interesting and helpful phamplets, bulletins and booklets that are available at the local health units.

Anthony Ciascio, of the central office, New Orleans, spoke about the Louisiana State Public Health Workers associaton, the membership goals and plans for the annual meeting to be held in Lafayette in April. He also gave pertinent information concerning the Louisiana Public Health Workers Credit Association and its growth.

An engrossing film "Face of Youth" was shown by Jack Morrison, of the Rapides Parish health unit. The film dealt with the problems of two little boys, one over aggressive, the other too submissive and how they and their parents were helped in working out their difficulties.

Plans were discussed for the next program, which will be held in June at the health center in Monroe. Miss Dolly Reed of the Rapides Parish health unit was elected as chairman for the June program. Mrs. Ethel Jones of the Monroe regional laboratory served as chairman for the February meeting and Mrs. Minnie Defee of the Ouachita Parish health unit served as secretary.

Those in attendance at the meeting were: Velma P. Brusse, training center, New Orleans; Madge Kelly, Ouachita; Cecille Kiper, Franklin; Dorothy Walker, Ouachita; Beryl Strother, Ouachita; Mamie Ruth Harrington, Monroe district section of crippled children services; Reita B. Cockrell, Morehouse; Iris Jones, regional office, Monroe; Ethel Childress, Caldwell Merle Clary, Jackson; Mercier Ducote, Alexandria district, sectrict of crippled children services; Dolly M. Reed, Rapides; Minnie DeFee, Ouachita; Ethel W. Jones, Monroe regional laboratory; Pearl L. Anding, southern regional office, M. E. Kossack, New Orleans; Anthony Ciascio, New Orleans, central office, Mrs. Myrtle Michiels, Alexandria regional laboratory, Mrs Mildred Michels, Alexandria laboratory; Hazel Willis, Rapides.

'Buyer's Market' Aids Boom For Home Builders

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 —UP— Home builders, confronted for the first time since World War II with a "buyer's market," are placing new emphasis on sales programs and catering to the public.

Despite the tougher job of selling homes, however, industry leaders confidently expect their booming business to continue in 1953. Their estimates on housing starts for this year range from 1 million to 1.2 million.

In 1945 millions of Americans were "desperate" for "shelter" housing. Many had to double up with other families until the housing industry could build them homes.

Today this situation has been changed radically. The industry has built 7 million houses since the war and now a "surprisingly low" number of families are doubled up. Home buyers are more exacting and are shopping more carefully.

Added to the industry's problems in selling homes is a widespread shortage of mortgage funds at the interest rates required for government insurance. Home builders hope to convince congress to lower down payment requirements, extend mortgage terms and perhaps increase mortgage rates high enough to attract more mortgage money.

The rest of the selling job they feel they can handle themselves. But they know that many home buyers are going to need convincing that they are getting their money's worth.

Alan E. Brockbank, on retiring as president of the National Association of Home Builders, pledged that the industry will give the 1953 home buyer "more value than every before for his housing dollar."

The NAHB itself is conducting several programs to improve home building and to sell homes. Among these are the "trades secret" home aimed at spreading information about the industry's latest improvements and the "parades of homes," a promotional program to advertise the improved homes built.

Other related industries are becoming cautious because of the expanding "buyer's market" in housing.

Brown L. Whatley, president of the Mortgage Bankers Association, reported the buyer's market today extends to "most areas" of the country and that builders' prices are "not as firm as they were."

Roy Winzlick, housing analyst for the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association, advised lumbermen not to finance or build large developments of unsold houses because the real housing shortage in most communities no longer exists. He also advised that lumbermen keep their inventories low because new houses will be harder to sell.

The NAHB says that 30 groups will hold "parades of homes" this year. The association, representing 25,000 builders, calls this merchandising plan a "sure-fire" way to get public interest in builders' wares.

The NAHB now is distributing a film demonstrating to member groups how the parade of homes works. A member group buys a tract of land and then each member builder erect a sample home on it. The show lasts for a week generally and gives potential buyers the chance to see a dozen to 40 homes at first hand and with a minimum of effort.

INDUSTRY HOPES FOR EARLY END TO OIL CONTROLS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Hope for an early lifting of price controls on oil is held by Washington spokesman for the industry.

This hope springs from (1) What President Eisenhower said in his address to Congress this week and what he has since done toward ending all price controls; and (2) Views expressed by Oscar Chapman before he stepped out as Secretary of the Interior.

When the President lifted ceilings yesterday on a wide variety of goods, he made it plain that more and more decontrol orders would be coming soon. This was in line with his message to Congress advocating an orderly end to controls.

Chapman was quoted by Russell Brown, general counsel of the Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA), as saying that he did not believe removal of controls on crude oil and oil products would have any general inflationary effect.

These developments, Brown said in an interview, "seem to support our position that petroleum prices should be decontrolled."

The Office of Price Stabilization about a month ago denied the association's petition, filed a year ago, for lifting of the controls.

Brown said Chapman, who served as petroleum administrator, expressed his views in a letter written Jan. 13.

The IPAA contends the price control laws have not restrained inflation but have served as an "unnecessary detriment" to normal activities of the oil industry.

Brown said he now has every reason to hope that price controls on crude may be taken off in the near future. Similar views have been voiced by other oil representatives here.

The IPAA says in its "facts and forecasts" that there have been reports of new contracts for the importation of Middle East crude oil into the East Coast market of this country.

"This," the association declared, "would accelerate the trend toward closing this market to the domestic producers.

"There is serious question as to whether this is in accordance with the established national policy on imports to which both importers and domestic producers have subscribed."

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.), in a new attack on legislation to give states title to off-shore oil lands, asserted the proposal would "take away at least 40 billion dollars of oil resources which now belong to the people of the 48 states and give them to only three states."

In a speech recorded for radio broadcast in his state, Douglas urged instead legislation that would "stop the oil-grab and use the money to better the plight of our schools and our teachers."

He said the "oil for education" idea is in line with the land grant college policy first fostered by Illinoisans.

"There is nothing new in devoting the natural resources of this country to developing the human resources," the senator said. "It's a good thing to do in itself.

"But as an alternative to making an outright gift of 40 billion dollars, when the federal government has a debt of over a quarter of a trillion dollars, it is absolutely imperative."

VAN FLEET GETS WARM FAREWELL FROM UN TROOPS

Retiring General Pays Last Visit To Eastern Battlefront

SEOUL (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet paid his last visit to the Eastern Korean battlefront today and was welcomed with thundering gun salutes, honor guards, and the strains of "Auld Lang Syne."

Arm-in-arm with his successor, Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Van Fleet was honored with glittering military pageantry unprecedented since the Korean War began.

Mass formations, martial music and bright, waving banners greeted the two generals as they planehopped from one corps and division to another. They traveled from the east coast across half the battlefront.

Taylor, expected to inspect the front soon, stood back and smilingly joined in the tribute to the greying, but still boyish, 60-year-old commander.

It was a demonstration of genuine affection for the retiring Van Fleet by the American and South Korean forces.

Van Fleet was in a holiday mood himself, and had smiles and handshakes for every one, from ROK soldiers to corps commanders.

"General Taylor is the new captain of the team now," Van Fleet told one division staff. "You're getting a real commander."

Taylor replied that he hoped his record would be as successful as Van Fleet's.

The generals flew first from Seoul to the eastern end of the battlefront. They made a short helicopter flight to the battleship Missouri to visit with Vice Admiral J. J. Clark, commander of the Seventh Fleet.

They they went to the first ROK corps, where, for the first time since the Korean War began, a whole combat division — the ROK Fifth — stood in mass formation to greet the generals.

"This is a magnificent sight," Van Fleet said.

As Van Fleet walked to his plane after inspecting one American division, the band broke into "Auld Lang Syne" instead of the usual jaunty march.

Fines To Be Faced By Unlicensed Drivers

Has your driver's or chauffer's license expired?

State police warned all motorists that anyone found with expired license would be fined $25 and cost of court for failing to abide by the law.

Officials reported that approximately 35 per cent of all drivers in the state were operating vehicles with expired licenses or no licenses at all.

Franklin Dam Is Reality After Wait Of 15 Years

WINNSBORO, Feb. 6 (Special) —The Turkey Creek Dam — first proposed in a bill introduced in the State Legislature in 1938—has become a reality after 15 years.

The dam, across Turkey Creek seven miles west of Wisner in the southwest part of Franklin parish, has created a lake which covers approximately 1500 acres. The lake will be one of the best fishing spots in north Louisiana.

Almost every spring back water from Boeuf river comes up Turkey Creek, filling the creek and adjoining brake and bringing thousands of fish of all kinds with it. While the water was up this was a fisherman's paradise but when the water went down, tons of fish were left stranded to die in stagnant pools or on dry land.

To remedy this situation, Representative J. C. Buie introduced a bill in the State Legislature in 1938 to create the Turkey Creek Game and Fish commission and appropriate $40,000 for construction of the dam. The bill passed but Governor Dick Leche vetoed the appropriation, so nothing could be done about it then.

It was after World War II that Senator Dr. R. E. King and Rep. Phillip Montgomery, secured an appropriation of $100,000 for construction of the dam and bids were advertised for its construction. T. L. James and Co., In of Ruston was low bidder and the bid was $131,109.

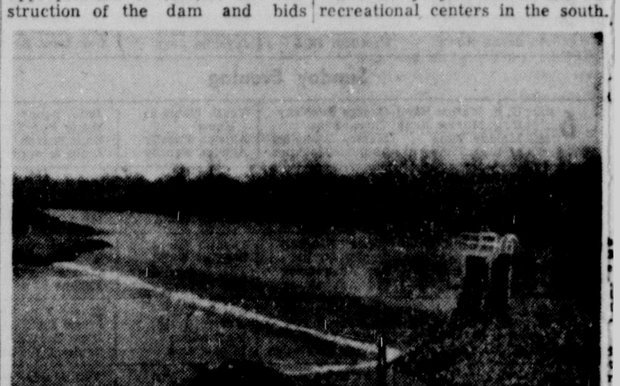

Senator King secured the extr $31,000 which was needed fro the State Board of Liquidation an the contract was awarded to T. L James & Co. on August 31, 195 Two spring back waters caus delay in construction and it ha just now been completed. Eac year, backwater will restock th lake with fish.

In 1952, Rep. Buie attempted secure an additional $25,000 make the dam higher and crea a larger lake, but the bill was v toed by Governor Robert Kenno

J. C. Buie, Dr. R. E. King an Phillip Montgomery have bee appointed by the Franklin pari police jury as a committee charge of the Turkey Creek Gam and Fish commission and the have full control of the project.

The Department of Public Work has accepted the dam for th state from T. L. James and Co and it will be turned over to th State Wildlife Department.

Representative Buie advise that plans now (if necessary fund can be obtained) are to build gra el roads to the lake on both eas and west sides, landscape it, an make the project one of the bes recreational centers in the south.

TURKEY CREEK DAM — The much-delayed Turkey Creek Dam in Franklin parish has been accepted for the state, opening up a new fishing spot for Northeast Louisiana anglers. The dam, designed to handle spring overflows, has created a lake which covers about 1500 acres. It is located in the southwest part of the parish.

Charles Laughton Scouts Talent When Off Screen

Charles Laughton, currently starring opposite Bud Abbott and Lou Costello in "Abbott and Costello Meet Captain Kidd," is not only credited with discovering the Bible and Shakespeare for modern day audiences, but also gets the gold star for discovering many top screen personalities. The Supercinecolor comedy, due at the Paramount Theatre on Sunday, Feb. 8, is a Woodley production distributed by Warner Bros.

Laughton's one - man reading tour, in which he simply reads from The Bible, Dickens, Thomas Wolfe, etc., has proved a boon to the public's understanding of these great literary works.

In the field of putting the finger on live talent, Laughton is recorded as being the first to "see" Maureen O'Hara and James Mason, among others.

Miss O'Hara's screen debut was in "Jamaica Inn," which Laughton produced and in which he played the starring role. Laughton had tested dozens of actresses but couldnt' find the one he wanted. In the middle of one night he suddenly recalled a face that intrigued him. He couldn't pin-point the face's name but the next day he ran all the tests again. There he found the girl. She was over-made up, she had adopted an exaggerated strut, but Laughton says, "her face was beautiful."

She was recalled, told to act natural in the next test, won the lead, and was on her way to film fame.

Laughton saw James Mason in an Old Vic appearance and told Sir Alexander Korda that here was an actor "with the most magnificent head" in show business. Korda was not sold on Mason's acting ability at that time, and let him slip by.

The Shakespearean classes conducted by Laughton at his home helped many young players, and attending them was Shelley Winters. But Laughton disclaims any credit for "furthering" Shelley's career. "We only adied her appetite,' Laughton grinned, "because our ice - box was open for raiding during the classes."

Here's How On Hot Dog Barbecue Sauce

Here are two fine barbecue sauce recipes to accompany frankfurters—preferably the large thick ones. We make our family sauce as follows:

1 chopped onion
2 tablespoons bacon fat
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup tomato catsup
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ cup water
½ cup chopped celery
Salt, garlic salt, chili powder, MSG to taste

Brown onion in fat and add remaining ingredients. Simmer for 30 minutes. Arrange frankfurters in baking dish, slit the top of each about 3 inches, cover with the sauce and bake for about 45 minutes at 300 degrees.

1 tablespoon melted butter
½ cup sliced onion
4 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon paprika
4 tablespoons vinegar
½ cup catsup
¾ cup cold water
4 teaspoons Worcestershire
½ teaspoon Tabasco sauce

Brown the onion in the butter, add remaining ingredients and bring to boil. Check the seasoning, pour over the frankfurters, and bake 25 minutes at 350 degrees.

Skilleteer Hugh N. Starnes, Birmingham News Chapter, and Executive Secretary of the Alabama Restaurant Association, sends us his "Alabama Spoon Bread." Mr. Starnes says "it sho' hits the spot!" And we says, "It Sho' do!"

1 cup boiling water
1 cup white corn meal
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon salt
1¼ cups sweet milk
1-3 cup melted butter or margarine
4 teaspoons baking powder

Pour boiling water over meal, and add other ingredients in above order. Beat until lumps are dissolved, pour into a well - buttered casserole, and bake 35 minutes at 350 degrees. Serves four he-men or six ladies.

Here is an elegant cole slaw to accompany the above:

1 head cabbage (small)
6 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
1 small bottle tiny pearl onions
6 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped celery
Mayonnaise

Chop cabbage very fine, stir in salt, vinegar, sugar and mustard and chill thoroughly for several hours. When ready to serve, drain most of liquid, add celery and pearl onions (1 1-3 cup finely chopped onion will do if you can't find the pearl onions.) Stir in enough mayonnaise to bind the slaw together. It may be served on lettuce leaves garnished with whipped cream and paprika if desired.

DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS FEATURE

Will Participate In 20th Anniversary Program At Barksdale

SHREVEPORT, Feb. 7(Special) The United States air force drum and bugle corps, the only one of its kind in the world, is scheduled to make several appearances throughout the afternoon during the open house ceremonies commemorating the twentieth anniversary of Barksdale air force base, Saturday Feb. 14.

Wherever the corps has marched it has been acclaimed by thousands as the acme of marching skill — the pride of the air force. Here is a unit of 61 men who move as one; a colorful, spectacular group of perfectionists whose show is unique in many respects. From a modest beginning in December of 1949 at headquarters command, Bolling Air Force base the corps is today internationally recognized, eagerly sought - after. It never fails to put on a "Showman's Show" or win the unanimous plaudits of those for whom it plays.

Although this highly versatile organization does on occasion divide itself into a concert group, glee club or bagpipe band, it is as a marching unit in the field that the corps excels.

As a marching unit there are 60 men, six across and 10 deep. Out in front setting a smart pace, is the drum major. The percussion section consists of six tenor drums, 12 snare drums, two scotch bass drums, two sets of cymbals and two bass drums played with such exactness that the stick work looks like a well - oiled machine. The bugle section is 29 - strong and of this number, six are bass bugles, the only ones in existence and especially designed by Capt. Herbert J. Gall, leader of the group.

The Cincinnati Reds have had 27 pitchers who won 20 or more games in one season. The last to reach that mark was Ewell Blackwell in 1947. Blackie won 22 games while losing eight.

President's Religious Demonstrations Hailed

HOUSTON, Miss. (AP)—President Dwight Eisenhower's religious demonstrations were praised in a message sent him by the Methodist ministers of the District Preachers Association.

The Rev. S. E. Ashmore of Houston, president, said:

"The ministers felt the President should know the nation appreciates his repeated references to faith in God."

"The entire group warmly expressed high commendation of your stand for the church and good religion, and your repeated references to our need of a great faith in God and your uniting with the church," the message said.

Youth Over-Attains Life-Long Ambition

CANTERBURY, England, Feb. 7 —UP—Seventeen-year-old Michael Nash worried throughout childhood he wound't grow tall enough to relize his dream of joining Britain's crack Regiment of Guards, whose members must measure six feet or more.

But he kept on growing until he was accepted. Friday the guards sent him home. The youth now stands six feet, nine inches, and officers said he was too tall for the regiment.

Christian Science Lecture To Be Given

The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend the free public lecture on Christian Science at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium today at 3 p.m.

The address by Theodore Wallach, of Chicago, member of the Christian Science board of lectureship, is presented through the auspices of Monroe First Church of Christ, Scientist.

He will discuss: "Christian Science; the Key to Happiness."

Belgium To Hold Up On European Defense Action Until French Make Move

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Feb. 7 (AP)—Belgian leaders told Secretary of State Dulles today they will take no further action on the European Army Treaty until they know how France wants to change it.

Premier Jean Van Houtte and Foreign Minister Paul Van Zeeland made this clear in a relatively brief meeting in the Belgian Foreign Ministry with Dulles and Harold Stassen, mutual security administrator, who are seeking to hurry up European unity.

The Belgians were referring to the proposed amendments to the European Defense Community Treaty which France expects to circulate to the other EDC nations—West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg—sometime next week. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault presented these amendments to the French Cabinet in Paris today.

Belgium is particularly interested in reports that one new proposal would allow France to retain a national Army. She would like to have the same privilege.

Van Zeeland also insisted that the other nations of the EDC bring their military training up to Belgian standards before the partners begin merging their armies.

By law, conscription is for a 21-month period in Belgium, but the government recently began freeing troops after the 18th month because other continental powers were not retaining their conscripts any longer. The issue of length of military service has been a touchy one in Belgian politics.

In this, Van Zeeland was on good ground. President Eisenhower himself, when he was supreme commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe, urged NATO partners to keep their men in uniform two years. He argued that, in view of the months it takes to train recruits in handling complicated modern military machinery, two-year service was needed to make an army effective.

During the course of the meeting, which lasted only 2½ hours, Dulles met privately with Van Zeeland, a fellow Princetonian, and invited the foreign minister to visit Washington this spring.

The U. S.-Belgian discussions were continued briefly during dinner in the home of the U. S. ambassador, Myron Cowen.

Belgian public opinion is sharply divided on the wisdom of drowning Belgium's national army in a combined defense force and the dinner guests reflected this split.

Another guest was Franz Van Cauwelaert, president of the Belgian House of Representatives, who is cool to the EDC idea.

Officials said Van Zeeland conceded that the EDC should be put into effect as soon as possible to enlist West German manpower in Western defense. But he pointed out Belgium could not finally adopt the scheme until she knew exactly what it would be.

Van Zeeland made no promises of an early ratification of the EDC even after the French amendments have been received. He offered no date by which he thought ratification might be completed, and the Americans did not ask for one, according to reliable informants. In other capitals, the word has been that the Americans want real progress by April 30.

Van Zeeland said when the amendments are received, he and other members of the government and Parliament want to study them thoroughly.

Domestic Belgian politics figured in Van Zeeland's attitude. The Belgian State Council recently gave an opinion that ratification of the EDC treaty will require an amendment of the Belgian constitution. Such a step would mean dissolution of Parliament and new general elections, which might cost Van Zeeland his political head.

His party now holds a narrow margin of four and two seats in the Senate and House respectively.

A constitutional amendment is required, said the Council of State, because the Belgian constitution now says the King alone is commander of Belgian armies.

REV. TRUMAN ALDREDGE

MINDEN PASTOR GUEST SPEAKER

Will Address Baptists Associational Meet Monday Night

Rev. Truman Aldredge, pastor of First Baptist Church, Minden, La. is to be the guest speaker at the First Baptist Church on February 9th at 7:30 p.m. for the monthly associational meeting. This meeting will include the combined groups of the Sunday School, B. T. U., W. M. U., and Brotherhood of the Ouachita parish association. Rev. C. Roger Johnson, pastor of Central Baptist Church, is the moderator of the Ouachita Parish Association.

This is the first meeting which will include all the above units. This month's meeting will be largely sponsored by the Brotherhood, but the other groups will have a portion of this program.

Brother Aldredge is a man's pastor, and feels vitally interested in the place and responsibility of the men of our churches. He is a frequent speaker at various men's groups in his ministry for the Lord.

Rev. Aldredge is a graduate of the Southwest Seminary of Fort Worth, Tex.; coming to Louisiana approximately three years ago to the Minden pastorate.

Various items of Brotherhood work, and other associational work will be discussed at this meeting. Everybody connected with the work of the Lord in any church in the Ouachita Parish Association is urged to be present.

Remember the time, place and date. 7:30 p.m. at First Baptist Church, Monroe, February 9.

research, education and community service. A large part of funds collected will remain right here at home, states Lloyd E. Lenard, 1953 Heart Fund chairman.

Speakers for the various clubs will be provided by Dr. C. Prentice Gray, member of the executive committee in charge of securing speakers.

Boy Scouts of America will observe their anniversary week from February 7 to 13. The membership now stands at an all time high with 3,250,000 Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts at this time, which is a record at this, the 43rd birthday of the organization.

This year there is to be stressed "The Scout Family" and will show how parents fit in to the general setup of the Boy Scouts and how they are able to assist in the development of the all - round growing up youngster. At "Open House" evenings, Scouts will introduce members of their family to their fellow members. There will be paid a special tribute to the home and to home life.

The birthday itself will be on Sunday (today) when churches of all denominations will gladly welcome Scouts and Scout leaders in full uniform. Parents and Scouts will be seated together.

At the First Methodist Church the evening service will be devoted to Scouting when troop 34, sponsored by the church, will be honored. The service will be called "Boy's Night" and the pastor, Dr. H. L. Johns, will speak on "A Boy's Religion."

"The Key To Happiness," the condition that everyone desires and not too many find, will be discussed at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium at 3 p.m. today by Theodore Wallach, of Chicago, in a Christian Science lecture to which the public is cordially invited.

The speaker has had an extended experience as Christian Science healer and is now on an extended tour as authorized lecturer.

Doodling Results In Music Aid For Handless People

NEW YORK, N. Y. (AP) — When Eve Welbourne sat doodling on the piano one evening last October, she never thought she might be developing a system to teach handless people to play.

She believes it now. She hopes it will fling wide the doors of musical expression to many handicapped people.

Her doodling was playing with one finger of each hand. The melody note (played by the right finger) was sustained by the pedal. The chord (played by the left finger) was played as an arpeggio, the component notes struck singly. Then she tried playing with the right elbow and the left thumb of a hand clenched tightly, as an arthritic's hand sometimes is. She put rubber-tipped pencils in clenched fists and played with them.

Her husband, P. A. Welbourne, who is in the real estate business, stopped beside the piano in amazement to watch Mrs. Welbourne's technique.

"Could you teach that?" he asked.

Mrs. Welbourne, who operated the Krasny School of Piano and Voice in Brooklyn many years, was sure she could. After practicing awhile she showed the system to 10 handicapped patients at Goldwater Memorial Hospital and one at the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation here. Six to seven weeks of study cannot make a finished performer, but Mrs. Welbourne is much heartened by results.

"One of the things that gave me the greatest satisfaction," she said, "was to see how happy it made them to express themselves musically in a way they had never dreamed they could do.

"My aim is to teach teachers. I already have given a number of lectures and demonstrations for various organizations and parent-teachers associations. I expect to give a great many more."

"The idea behind the system is to work with what you have and forget about what you have not," Mrs. Welbourne said.

"A player can learn without any hands—but he must have one foot for pedal work. Without the pedal the effect is too choppy. The smooth flow of the music is lost.

"With this system the player can play such music as the Mozart sonatas, the Chopin waltzes and any popular air or hymn. I use the same written music that I would for normal playing but sometimes I have to play one or two notes of the right hand part with the left hand."

Deaths

PAUL RHODES

Paul Rhodes died in a veterans' hospital in New Orleans Friday. There was a short funeral service held in that city at 11 a.m. Saturday after which the body was brought to Monroe and a graveside service will be held in Memorial Park cemetery Sunday at 9 a.m. Dr. H. L. Johns will officiate. The Mulhearn Funeral home will have charge of arrangements.

Mr. Rhodes is survived by his wife, of New Orleans and a daughter, Mrs. Fred Landry.

JOHN B. JENKINS

FERRIDAY, Feb. 7 (Special) — Services were held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in Marshall, Tex., for John Burt Jenkins, 83, of Ferriday, who died at the home of his son in Ferriday Thursday, at 1 p.m. after a lingering illness.

Besides his son here, he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Andrew Odom, of Hartsell, Ala.; Mrs. Louis K. Cato of Birmingham, Ala. and Mrs. Louise J. Willis of Montgomery, Ala.; one sister, Mrs. Mattie Mae Cromer of Seattle, Wash.

The body was carried overland by the Young Funeral Home of Ferriday to Marshall for last rites and interment with the local home in charge of the funeral arrangements.

AUBREY DURWOOD WOMACK

Funeral services for Aubrey Durwood Womack, 603 Vick Street, West Monroe, Louisiana, will be held Sunday 2:00 p.m. at the Trinity Baptist Church, with Rev. H. J. Mott, officiating.

Interment, under direction of Hall Funeral Home, will be in the Chatham Cemetery.

The body will remain at the residence until time for services.

He is survived by his wife: Mrs. Virginia Womack; two sons: Prentice Durwood and Charles Herbert Womack, of West Monroe, La., two brothers: Herbert C. Womack, Chatham, Wilford Dowe Womack, San Antonio, Tex., one sister, Mrs. Margaret Musick, Shreveport, La., his mother: Mrs. Bell Womack, Shreveport, La.

The pallbearers will be C. C. Shackelford, Calvin Guillory, F. M. Perkins, Johnnie Bowman, Pete Cobb, Bill Blazier.

US Produces More Oil Than All Of Non-Red Countries Put Together

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP) —The U. S. produces about six million metric tons more crude oil every month than the rest of the non-Communist world put together, a U. N. survey shows.

The U. N.'s monthly bulletin of statistics gave the latest figures as 6,659,000 for the U. S. with a total for other countries of 30,622,210.

Communist countries rarely give figures to the U. N. and they were not included in the survey.

Second ranking producer was Venezuela with 7,555,000 metric tons followed by the Middle East states of Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and Iran in that order.

The decline of Iranian production was startling. Before the government nationalized Iranian properties of the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company production was 2,688,000 metric tons a month in 1950. It fell to 94,000 metric tons in October 1952 under the National Iranian Oil Co.

A huge increase in Kuwait and Iraq made up the difference for the Western World. Iraq, for instance, produced only 540,000 metric tons a month in 1950 and Kuwait 1,441,000.

Red Minister Warns Troops Of Do Or Die Battle In Korean War

TOKYO, Sunday, Feb. 8—UP—and supreme army commander Kim Il Sung told his troops Sunday they must prepare for a "do or die" battle against United Nations soldiers.

Pyongyang radio broadcast Kim's "general order" to his forces on the Fifth anniversary of the North Korean army.

"All the conditions are ready," Kim said.

However he did not prophesy any major Communist offensive. He seemed more concerned with defense and with stirring up trouble with guerilla activity behind UN lines.

He said his troops must build up an "iron like" defense and not yield an inch if the UN should launch any "new military action."

Kim urged officers to maintain closest liaison with Chinese "volunteers" who — although he didn't mention it—are manning almost the entire red battlefront.

He credited "advance military science and battle experience" of Russian advisers for much of the improvement in Communist forces.

Two Missing In Cave Are Found Uninjured

FRANKLIN, W. Va., Feb. 7 —UP—Two Washington, D.C. men, missing for three days in the dark passages of a huge cave used by the Confederate Army, were found Saturday by a search party, exhausted but unhurt.

The explorers, Kenneth Sterner, 19, and Harry C. Breeden Jr., 30, told authorities they entered the cavern Wednesday afternoon and became lost when their flashlight burned out.

"We tried to follow air passages and bats to find a way out, but we couldn't find the entrance," Breeden explained.

The pair were without food, water and sleep during the ordeal, but were able to walk out of the cave without assistance. After a meal at Pendleton county jail, a bath and a change of clothing, the two quickly fell asleep.

Sterner and Breeden are members of a Washington cave-exploring society, and are known as speliologists — or spelunkers. The term applies to those who look for and explore caves as a hobby.

POLICE PUZZLED BY 'ROBIN HOOD'

Youthful Robber Spends Loot On Presents For School Chums

CHICAGO, Feb. 7—UP—Juvenile authorities were puzzled Saturday about what to do with a youthful "Robin Hood" who stole $1,400 and then bought cowboy outfits and toys for his school chums.

Larry Sauseda got a reputation as the freest spender who ever attended Dante school on the near West Side. Police said he bought at least a dozen pairs of $8.50 cowboy boots for his 10-year-old classmates.

Then he furnished cowboy pants, shirts and hats. And threw in guns, gun belts and hosters.

Then he topped it off with gaudy cowboy rings, costing $2 each.

But Larry's band became disgruntled. He learned no matter how much you do for some fellows, they are never satisfied.

His pals said they sure would like to have some $10 and $20 bills and Larry obligingly came across.

When the boys started flashing the bills in front of teachers, they notified police, and the incident was turned over to detective James O'Donnell and Bernard Brown who had been working on a mysterious "phantom burglary" case.

Mrs. Anna Reithal, 54, a widow, had been robbed of $1,400 last week, but her doors were locked and none of them had appeared to be disturbed. Fingerprint experts were stymied.

Larry and his family live in the apartment behind Mrs. Anna Reithal. A door between the apartments was fastened by a latch and wooden pegs on Mrs. Reithal's side.

The policemen questioned Larry and he showed them how he lifted the latch with a wire and removed the wooden pegs from his side of the door.

He told them he found the money in a box under the sink and stole back to his "hideout," first replacing the latch and pegs.

Larry told the officers he never bothered to buy a cowboy suit or guns for himself and that the whole roll was stolen before he had a chance to spend any of it for personal belongings.

Paul Esparza, 12, asked him for $10 Larry said. He took Paul under the front porch, dug up the roll and peeled off a bill for him. The bigger boy shoved him and ran away with the roll, Larry said.

Officers found the money in Paul's basement, $1,145 was left.

senatorial nomination last year to succeed the late Sen. Brien McMahon, Democrat. A special GOP state convention, however, nominated Prescott Bush, who subsequently was elected.

Bush, in a statement today, said Eisenhower had picked for the Italian post "a person of remarkably proven ability." Mrs. Luce, Bush said, "is one of the most highly distinguished of women in public life."

Gov. John Lodge of Connecticut issued a statement saying he, his wife and other Connecticut citizens were proud the administration has chosen a woman of such "great talents of intelligence and resourcefulness." Mrs. Lodge is the former Francesca Braggiotti of Italy.

Mrs. Luce will succeed Ellsworth Bunker, present ambassador to Italy, but the White House said Ellsworth would remain at his post for a time. Presumably this means until the Italian elections are over, at the end of April or early in May.

Eisenhower's announcement of Mrs. Luce's selection indicated that, as customary, he advised Rome of the intended appointment and got the Italian government's assurance that it would be welcome.

Mrs. Luce has been outspoken in her opposition to communism. Some pro-Communist newspapers in Italy have used the occasion to disparage the naming of any woman as ambassador to Italy.

Since her conversion a few years ago to the Roman Catholic faith, Mrs. Luce has taken an active part in church affairs. In 1951 she was chosen for the Cardinal Newman Award, given by a federation of 520 clubs for Catholic college students.

Mrs. Luce campaigned actively for Eisenhower.

She was born April 10, 1903, in New York City, the daughter of William Boothe, a violinist, and granddaughter of the Rev. Dr. Boothe, a Baptist minister, of White Plains, N. Y., and Holyoke, Mass.

In her early years Mrs. Luce knew poverty.

After her father's death, her mother married Dr. Albert E. Austin, a physician who at one time also served in the House from Connecticut. Conditions were improved and Clare was educated in exclusive girls' schools.

At 18, she worked for Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, famed suffragette.

A few months later she married George Tuttle Brokaw, New York financier who died in 1933. Their only child, Ann Clare, was killed in an automobile accident in 1944. The marriage ended in divorce in 1929.

Resuming her maiden name she went on the staff of Vogue at $20 a week. By 1933 she was managing editor of Vanity Fair, and two years later she married Luce.

Among her plays which have had successful Broadway runs are "The Women," "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" and "Margin for Error."

Ike Rushing Conant To German Post

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Dr. James B. Conant, new high commissioner to Western Germany, disclosed today that President Eisenhower has directed him to speed to Germany, where decisions critical to the defense of the Western world against communism are soon to be made.

The retiring Harvard president, one of the nation's leading scientist-educators and a figure in development of the atomic bomb, was sworn into his new job today in the office of acting Secretary of State H. Freeman Matthews. He had been confirmed by the Senate yesterday after controversy over his World War II attitude toward Germany.

In a statement, Conant made clear that his initial major effort will be to work on the European defense problem. This centers on the question whether Germany and France will approve a treaty to create a European defense force under which West Germany would be rearmed.

But while Conant said there must be "continual progress" on defense plans, he declared the German people would have to make their own decisions.

The European Defense Treaty would create an international, six-nation army to which Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg would contribute troops. The United States has been pressing for this defense force for many months. It is the only device now backed by American policy as a means of bringing Germany into North Atlantic Treaty defenses against Soviet communism. But Secretary of State Dulles warned recently that if progress was not made soon the United States would have to reconsider its policies.

Conant gave the Germans a carefully muffled, indirect warning of his own with respect to the defense organization. The decisions which the Western Germans must take in the near future, he declared, "will affect their future political status and their membership in the council of free nations."

"The outcome of these decisions will also have a direct bearing on the nature of the relationship between the United States and Germany," he added.

"It is not for me to suggest or to predict the course of action which Germany will decide to take. But I am anxious to be in Germany to represent the U. S. government during the coming critical weeks.

"I shall meet with leaders of the major political parties and offer such assistance to the federal government (of Western Germany) as may be desired by the Chancellor and his associates and as is warranted by the general purposes of my mission."

Conant also spoke of his hopes for further strengthening cultural and political ties between Germany and the United States and he praised the achievements of his predecessors—under the Truman administration — in laying the groundwork for the present close relations. The effect of his comments in this connection was to assure the Germans of continuity of American policy during his tenure as the chief United States representative in their country.

Conant will leave for Frankfurt from New York Monday afternoon and is due to arrive there Tuesday. He made clear to newsmen that was the earliest he could make the trip and still make necessary preparations. Mrs. Conant will fly from Boston to Frankfurt next Thursday.

He told questioners that he would visit the city of Berlin—a Western outpost in the heart of Soviet Germany—as soon as he could possibly do so and he hoped that Mrs. Conant would be able to accompany him. He described Berlin as "one of the most significant cities in the world today," an evident reference to its importance as an arena of Soviet-free world conflict.

Conant recalled that he first lived in Germany for eight months in 1925, his purpose then being to study Germany university organization in the field of organic chemistry. He is a chemist.

Sister Of Local Woman Succumbs In Vicksburg

VICKSBURG, Miss., Feb. 7 (Special) — Miss Nellie Curphey, 68, sister of Mrs. John Hardin of Monroe, died suddenly early Saturday morning at her home in Vicksburg.

Miss Curphey was born in Vicksburg and had lived there her entire life. She taught in the public schools for 45 years, retiring about five years ago. She was a member of the Episcopal Church.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Monday at the Fisher Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Warwick Aiken, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, officiating. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery in Vicksburg.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. John Hardin of Monroe and Mrs. J. H. Pearson of Ottawa, Ill.; one niece, Mrs. R. N. Main of Okaloosa, Iowa; four nephews, Joe Pearson of Ottawa, Ill., John F. Hardin, Jr., of Odessa, Tex., William Hardin of Monroe and Robert Hardin of Ruston.

Bill Odeneal, Florida State volleyball coach, has directed his teams to two Florida AAU titles, now coaching the Belleville, Ontario team in the OHA B class. He is also the director of recreation for the city.

MORRISON CALLS FOR FEDERAL AID TO TORNADO AREA

Estimates Of Damage In Strawberry Belt Exceed Million Dollar Mark

HAMMOND, La., Feb. 7 (AP) —Estimates of damage caused by a tornado that roared through four towns in this area were revised upward today after widespread destruction to the strawberry crop was discovered.

At least three people were killed and 10 injured in the blow that damaged or destroyed some 75 houses and buildings in Hammond, Albany, Pumpkin Center and Centerville yesterday.

In Washington, Rep. Morrison (D-La) called on President Eisenhower to use every federal agency at his command to aid the disaster-stricken people of the area.

Morrison said he made an urgent appeal to the National Red Cross for all possible assistance.

Estimates of damage ran up to 31 million as the black twister scattered commercial structures, houses, trees and power lines in its path.

Police identified the dead as Mrs. Corinne Stewart, about 60, who was killed at Pumpkin Center when her farmhouse collapsed; Cordelia Williams about 35, of Hammond; and an unidentified Negro man who died after being struck by a piece of flying timber in Hammond.

An Albany man, Peter Aronyosi, 68, was seriously injured and taken to New Orleans for treatment of leg and rib fractures and possible internal injuries.

Red Cross field workers moved into the area today to survey the damages and arrange for food and shelter. Neighbors provided for persons whose homes were destroyed.

The Allen Cross crate and box plant in Hammond suffered the heaviest damage and plant owner, Allen Cross, narrowly escaped serious injury.

Cross leaped into his automobile when he saw the front wall of his warehouse begin to topple. The 13-inch - thick brick wall slammed down on the car and rescuers had to cut away the car to free him. He received only minor lacerations.

At Southeastern Louisiana College in Hammond, students were warned of the approach of the tornado by the ominous black clouds. They took refuge in the brick buildings and none was reported injured.

The college baseball park and wooden bleachers were wrecked and shingles and tarpaper from students' houses and dormitories were blown away.

B. A. Tucker, chairman of the Tangipahoa Parish disaster committees, said he counted 25 houses destroyed or unroofed in Hammond, six in Pumpkin Center and many others in the area.

SPARKMAN

that this country plans no aggressive action in the Far East.

"But it seems to me that his order to the Seventh Fleet implies that we will furnish an umbrella for any attacks the Chinese Nationalists might make on the coast, and I think the country ought to know how far any attacks the Chinese Nationalists might make on the coast and I think the Country ought to know how far we are planning to go."

"I intend to ask Mr. Dulles flatly if the administration plans to put such a blockade in effect and what the consequenres would be," Sparkman said.

Knowland disagreed with those who contend that a blockade would be likely to spread the Korean War. The Californian added he expects Dulles to keep the foreign relations group "fully informed" of contemplated moves in Asia, but he insisted the administration can't tip its hand publicly on some plans.

Rep. Short said he believes Eisenhower and the military leaders have considered several "measures short of all-out shooting war that would bring pressure on the Communists" to end the Korean stalemate.

Among possible moves he listed increased rearmament of the Chinese Nationalists and more use of other Asian troops, as well as a naval blockade.

Short emphasized he has not discussed strategy with the President and could not speak officially for him.

He added:

"Americans are too impatient to stand a stalemate in Korea, and we don't have to. A stalemate is accomplishing nothing, except to build up the Chinese Communists."

Rep. Yorty (D-Calif) suggested the Chinese Nationalists themselves could apply a naval blockade against Red China if supplied with some American ships.

Yorty, who visited the Far East last year, said the Nationalist Navy now includes destroyer escorts, minesweepers, gunboats, armored junks and landing craft.

"It could include other good blockade craft if we decided, for instance, to give or loan some of our overage warships" to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, he said in a speech prepared for House delivery Monday.

Belgium To Hold Up On European Defense Action Until French Make Move

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Feb. 7 (AP)—Belgian leaders told Secretary of State Dulles today they will take no further action on the European Army Treaty until they know how France wants to change it.

Premier Jean Van Houtte and Foreign Minister Paul Van Zeeland made this clear in a relatively brief meeting in the Belgian Foreign Ministry with Dulles and Harold Stassen, mutual security administrator, who are seeking to hurry up European unity.

The Belgians were referring to the proposed amendments to the European Defense Community Treaty which France expects to circulate to the other EDC nations —West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg—sometime next week. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault presented these amendments to the French Cabinet in Paris today.

Belgium is particularly interested in reports that one new proposal would allow France to retain a national Army. She would like to have the same privilege.

Van Zeeland also insisted that the other nations of the EDC bring their military training up to Belgian standards before the partners begin merging their armies.

By law, conscription is for a 21-month period in Belgium, but the government recently began freeing troops after the 18th month because other continental powers were not retaining their conscripts any longer. The issue of length of military service has been a touchy one in Belgian politics.

In this, Van Zeeland was on good ground. President Eisenhower himself, when he was supreme commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe, urged NATO partners to keep their men in uniform two years. He argued that, in view of the months it takes to train recruits in handling complicated modern military machinery, two-year service was needed to make an army effective.

During the course of the meeting, which lasted only 2½ hours, Dulles met privately with Van Zeeland, a fellow Princetonian, and invited the foreign minister to visit Washington this spring.

The U. S.-Belgian discussions were continued briefly during dinner in the home of the U. S. ambassador, Myron Cowen.

Belgian public opinion is sharply divided on the wisdom of drowning Belgium's national army in a combined defense force and the dinner guests reflected this split.

Another guest was Franz Van Cauwelaert, president of the Belgian House of Representatives, who is cool to the EDC idea.

Officials said Van Zeeland conceded that the EDC should be put into effect as soon as possible to enlist West German manpower in Western defense. But he pointed out Belgium could not finally adopt the scheme until she knew exactly what it would be.

Van Zeeland made no promises of an early ratification of the EDC even after the French amendments have been received. He offered no date by which he thought ratification might be completed, and the Americans did not ask for one, according to reliable informants. In other capitals, the word has been that the Americans want real progress by April 20.

Van Zeeland said when the amendments are received, he and other members of the government and Parliament want to study them thoroughly.

Domestic Belgian politics figured in Van Zeeland's attitude. The Belgian State Council recently gave an opinion that ratification of the EDC treaty will require an amendment of the Belgian constitution. Such a step would mean dissolution of Parliament and new general elections, which might cost Van Zeeland his political head.

His party now holds a narrow margin of four and two seats in the Senate and House respectively.

A constitutional amendment is required, said the Council of State, because the Belgian constitution now says the King alone is commander of Belgian armies.

REV. TRUMAN ALDREDGE

MINDEN PASTOR GUEST SPEAKER

Will Address Baptists Associational Meet Monday Night

Rev. Truman Aldredge, pastor of First Baptist Church, Minden, La. is to be the guest speaker at the First Baptist Church on February 9th at 7:30 p.m. for the monthly associational meeting. This meeting will include the combined groups of the Sunday School, B. T. U., W. M. U., and Brotherhood of the Ouachita parish association. Rev. C. Roger Johnson, pastor of Central Baptist Church, is the moderator of the Ouachita Parish Association.

This is the first meeting which will include all the above units. This month's meeting will be largely sponsored by the Brotherhood, but the other groups will have a portion of this program.

Brother Aldredge is a man's pastor, and feels vitally interested in the place and responsibility of the men of our churches. He is a frequent speaker at various men's groups in his ministry for the Lord.

Rev. Aldredge is a graduate of the Southwest Seminary of Fort Worth, Tex.; coming to Louisiana approximately three years ago to the Minden pastorate.

Various items of Brotherhood work, and other associational work will be discussed at this meeting. Everybody connected with the work of the Lord in any church in the Ouachita Parish Association is urged to be present.

Remember the time, place and date, 7:30 p.m. at First Baptist Church, Monroe, February 9.

research, education and community service. A large part of funds collected will remain right here at home, states Lloyd E. Lenard, 1953 Heart Fund chairman.

Speakers for the various clubs will be provided by Dr. C. Prentice Gray, member of the executive committee in charge of securing speakers.

Boy Scouts of America will observe their anniversary week from February 7 to 13. The membership now stands at an all time high with 3,250,000 Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts at this time, which is a record at this, the 43rd birthday of the organization.

This year there is to be stressed "The Scout Family" and will show how parents fit in to the general setup of the Boy Scouts and how they are able to assist in the development of the all - round growing up youngster. At "Open House" evenings, Scouts will introduce members of their family to their fellow members. There will be paid a special tribute to the home and to home life.

The birthday itself will be on Sunday (today) when churches of all denominations will gladly welcome Scouts and Scout leaders in full uniform. Parents and Scouts will be seated together.

At the First Methodist Church the evening service will be devoted to Scouting when troop 34, sponsored by the church, will be honored. The service will be called "Boy's Night" and the pastor, Dr. H. L. Johns, will speak on "A Boy's Religion."

"The Key To Happiness," the condition that everyone desires and not too many find, will be discussed at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium at 3 p.m. today by Theodore Wallach, of Chicago, in a Christian Science lecture to which the public is cordially invited.

The speaker has had an extended experience as Christian Science healer and is now on an extended tour as authorized lecturer.

Impounded Stock To Be Sold At Auction

Stock impounded by troop F. of the state police will be sold at a public auction Wednesday at 1 p.m. at the horse and mule pound on Coleman avenue in West Monroe.

Stock impounded by state police is sold eight days after impoundment to the highest bidder.

The stock to be sold Wednesday was picked up in Jackson, Winn, Lincoln, Union, Morehouse, Ouachita, Caldwell and LaSalle parishes.

Doodling Results In Music Aid For Handless People

Her husband, P. A. Welbourne, who is in the real estate business, stopped beside the piano in amazement to watch Mrs. Welbourne's technique.

"A player can learn without any hands—but he must have one foot for pedal work. Without the pedal the effect is too choppy. The smooth flow of the music is lost.

"With this system the player can play such music as the Mozart sonatas, the Chopin waltzes and any popular air or hymn. I use the same written music that I would for normal playing but sometimes I have to play one or two notes of the right hand part with the left hand."

members will be Samuel Reeks, Metairie Times; M. A. Wolcott, New Iberia Daily Iberian; Charles Cunningham, Natchitoches Times, Leroy Miller, Denham Springs News, and Gordon Nelson, Coushatta Citizen.

Clinic roundup panel discussion, with President Thomas acting as chairman, will close the meeting. Panel members for the clinic roundup will be Vic Portmann, Kentucky Press Association, J. G. Terry, Wolf and Company, Chicago, Roland Huson, Jonesville Booster, Matt Vernon, Eunice News, and Bruce McCoy, manager of the LPA.

A panel discussion on Newspaper Financing was the first item on the program for Saturday's meeting. Ken Walker, of the Colfax Chronicle, acted as chairman of Saturday afternoon's discussion on Newspaper Insurance and Credit.

J. G. Terry, manager, Newspaper Division of Wolf and Company, certified public accountants of Chicago, delivered a major address yesterday afternoon on "Newspaper Taxes," followed by a discussion on employee relations.

Red Minister Warns Troops Of Do Or Die Battle In Korean War

TOKYO, Sunday, Feb. 8—UP—and supreme army commander Kim Il Sung told his troops Sunday they must prepare for a "do or die" battle against United Nations soldiers.

Pyongyang radio broadcast Kim's "general order" to his forces on the Fifth anniversary of the North Korean army.

"All the conditions are ready," Kim said.

However he did not prophesy any major Communist offensive. He seemed more concerned with defense and with stirring up trouble with guerilla activity behind UN lines.

He said his troops must build up an "Iron like" defense and not yield an inch if the UN should launch any "new military action."

Kim urged officers to maintain closest liaison with Chinese "volunteers" who — although he didn't mention it—are manning almost the entire red battlefront.

He credited "advance military science and battle experience" of Russian advisers for much of the improvement in Communist forces.

US Produces More Oil Than All Of Non-Red Countries Put Together

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP) —The U. S. produces about six million metric tons more crude oil every month than the rest of the non-Communist world put together, a U. N. survey shows.

The U. N.'s monthly bulletin of statistics gave the latest figures as 6,659,000 for the U. S. with a total for other countries of 30,622,210.

Communist countries rarely give figures to the U. N. and they were not included in the survey.

Second ranking producer was Venezuela with 7,555,000 metric tons followed by the Middle East states of Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and Iran in that order.

The decline of Iranian production was startling. Before the government nationalized Iranian properties of the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company production was 2,688,000 metric tons a month in 1950. It fell to 94,000 metric tons in October 1952 under the National Iranian Oil Co.

A huge increase in Kuwait and Iraq made up the difference for the Western World. Iraq, for instance, produced only 540,000 metric tons a month in 1950 and Kuwait 1,441,000.

Two Missing In Cave Are Found Uninjured

FRANKLIN, W. Va., Feb. 7 —UP—Two Washington, D.C. men, missing for three days in the dark passages of a huge cave used by the Confederate Army, were found Saturday by a search party, exhausted but unhurt.

The explorers, Kenneth Sterner, 19, and Harry C. Breeden Jr., 30, told authorities they entered the cavern Wednesday afternoon and became lost when their flashlight burned out.

"We tried to follow air passages and bats to find a way out, but we couldn't find the entrance," Breeden explained.

The pair were without food, water and sleep during the ordeal, but were able to walk out of the cave without assistance. After a meal at Pendleton county jail, a bath and a change of clothing, the two quickly fell asleep.

Sterner and Breeden are members of a Washington cave-exploring society, and are known as speliologists — or spelunkers. The term applies to those who look for and explore caves as a hobby.

POLICE PUZZLED BY 'ROBIN HOOD'

Youthful Robber Spends Loot On Presents For School Chums

CHICAGO, Feb. 7—UP—Juvenile authorities were puzzled Saturday about what to do with a youthful "Robin Hood" who stole $1,400 and then bought cowboy outfits and toys for his school chums.

Larry Sauseda got a reputation as the freest spender who ever attended Dante school on the near West Side. Police said he bought at least a dozen pairs of $8.50 cowboy boots for his 10-year-old classmates.

Then he furnished cowboy pants, shirts and hats. And threw in guns, gun belts and hosters.

Then he topped it off with gaudy cowboy rings, costing $2 each.

But Larry's band became disgruntled. He learned no matter how much you do for some fellows, they are never satisfied.

His pals said they sure would like to have some $10 and $20 bills and Larry oblingingly came across.

When the boys started flashing the bills in front of teachers, they notified police, and the incident was turned over to detective James O'Donnell and Bernard Brown who had been working on a mysterious "phantom burglary" case.

Mrs. Anna Reithal, 54, a widow, had been robbed of $1,400 last week, but her doors were locked and none of them had appeared to be disturbed. Fingerprint experts were stymied.

Larry and his family live in the apartment behind Mrs. Anna Reithal. A door between the apartments was fastened by a latch and wooden pegs on Mrs. Reithal's side.

The policemen questioned Larry and he showed them how he lifted the latch with a wire and removed the wooden pegs from his side of the door.

He told them he found the money in a box under the sink and stole back to his "hideout," first replacing the latch and pegs.

Larry told the officers he never bothered to buy a cowboy suit or guns for himself and that the whole roll was stolen before he had a chance to spend any of it for personal belongings.

Paul Esparza, 12, asked him for $10 Larry said. He took Paul under the front porch, dug up the roll and peeled off a bill for him. The bigger boy shoved him and ran away with the roll, Larry said.

senatorial nomination last year to succeed the late Sen. Brien McMahon, Democrat. A special GOP state convention, however, nominated Prescott Bush, who subsequently was elected.

Bush, in a statement today, said Eisenhower had picked for the Italian post "a person of remarkably proven ability." Mrs. Luce, Bush said, "is one of the most highly distinguished of women in public life."

Gov. John Lodge of Connecticut issued a statement saying he, his wife and other Connecticut citizens were proud the administration has chosen a woman of such "great talents of intelligence and resourcefulness." Mrs. Lodge is the former Francesca Braggiotti of Italy.

Mrs. Luce will succeed Ellsworth Bunker, present ambassador to Italy, but the White House said Ellsworth would remain at his post for a time. Presumably this means until the Italian elections are over, at the end of April or early in May.

Eisenhower's announcement of Mrs. Luce's selection indicated that, as customary, he advised Rome of the intended appointment and got the Italian government's assurance that it would be welcome.

Mrs. Luce has been outspoken in her opposition to communism. Some pro-Communist newspapers in Italy have used the occasion to disparage the naming of any woman as ambassador to Italy.

Since her conversion a few years ago to the Roman Catholic faith, Mrs. Luce has taken an active part in church affairs. In 1951 she was chosen for the Cardinal Newman Award, given by a federation of 520 clubs for Catholic college students.

Mrs. Luce campaigned actively for Eisenhower.

She was born April 10, 1903, in New York City, the daughter of William Boothe, a violinist, and granddaughter of the Rev. Dr. Boothe, a Baptist minister, of White Plains, N. Y., and Holyoke, Mass.

In her early years Mrs. Luce knew poverty.

After her father's death, her mother married Dr. Albert E. Austin, a physician who at one time also served in the House from Connecticut. Conditions were improved and Clare was educated in exclusive girls' schools.

At 18, she worked for Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, famed suffragette.

A few months later she married George Tuttle Brokaw, New York financier who died in 1933. Their only child, Ann Clare, was killed in an automobile accident in 1944. The marriage ended in divorce in 1929.

Resuming her maiden name she went on the staff of Vogue at $20 a week. By 1933 she was managing editor of Vanity Fair, and two years later she married Luce.

Among her plays which have had successful Broadway runs are "The Women," "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" and "Margin for Error."

Ike Rushing Conant To German Post

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Dr. James B. Conant, new high commissioner to Western Germany, disclosed today that President Eisenhower has directed him to speed to Germany, where decisions critical to the defense of the Western world against communism are soon to be made.

The retiring Harvard president, one of the nation's leading scientist-educators and a figure in development of the atomic bomb, was sworn into his new job today in the office of acting Secretary of State H. Freeman Matthews. He had been confirmed by the Senate yesterday after controversy over his World War II attitude toward Germany.

In a statement, Conant made clear that his initial major effort will be to work on the European defense problem. This centers on the question whether Germany and France will approve a treaty to create a European defense force under which West Germany would be rearmed.

But while Conant said there must be "continual progress" on defense plans, he declared the German people would have to make their own decisions.

The European Defense Treaty would create an international, six-nation army to which Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg would contribute troops. The United States has been pressing for this defense force for many months. It is the only device now backed by American policy as a means of bringing Germany into North Atlantic Treaty defenses against Soviet communism. But Secretary of State Dulles warned recently that if progress was not made soon the United States would have to reconsider its policies.

Conant gave the Germans a carefully muffled, indirect warning of his own with respect to the defense organization. The decisions which the Western Germans must take in the near future, he declared, "will affect their future political status and their membership in the council of free nations."

"The outcome of these decisions will also have a direct bearing on the nature of the relationship between the United States and Germany," he added.

"It is not for me to suggest or to predict the course of action which Germany will decide to take. But I am anxious to be in Germany to represent the U. S. government during the coming critical weeks.

"I shall meet with leaders of the major political parties and offer such assistance to the federal government (of Western Germany) as may be desired by the Chancellor and his associates and as is warranted by the general purposes of my mission."

Conant also spoke of his hopes for further strengthening cultural and political ties between Germany and the United States and he praised the achievements of his predecessors—under the Truman administration — in laying the groundwork for the present close relations. The effect of his comments in this connection was to assure the Germans of continuity of American policy during his tenure as the chief United States representative in their country.

Conant will leave for Frankfurt from New York Monday afternoon and is due to arrive there Tuesday. He made clear to newsmen that was the earliest he could make the trip and still make necessary preparations. Mrs. Conant will fly from Boston to Frankfurt next Thursday.

He told questioners that he would visit the city of Berlin—a Western outpost in the heart of Soviet Germany—as soon as he could possibly do so and he hoped that Mrs. Conant would be able to accompany him. He described Berlin as "one of the most significant cities in the world today," an evident reference to its importance as an arena of Soviet-free world conflict.

Conant recalled that he first lived in Germany for eight months in 1925, his purpose then being to study Germany university organization in the field of organic chemistry. He is a chemist.

Sister Of Local Woman Succumbs In Vicksburg

VICKSBURG, Miss., Feb. 7 (Special) — Miss Nellie Curphey, 66, sister of Mrs. John Hardin of Monroe, died suddenly early Saturday morning at her home in Vicksburg.

Miss Curphey was born in Vicksburg and had lived there her entire life. She taught in the public schools for 45 years, retiring about five years ago. She was a member of the Episcopal Church.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday at the Fisher Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Warwick Aiken, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, officiating. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery in Vicksburg.

She is survived by two sisters: Mrs. John Hardin of Monroe and Mrs. J. H. Pearson of Ottawa, Ill.; one niece, Mrs. R. N. Main of Okaloosa, Iowa; four nephews, Joe Pearson of Ottawa, Ill., John F. Hardin, Jr., of Odessa, Tex., William Hardin of Monroe and Robert Hardin of Ruston.

Bill Odeneal, Florida State volleyball coach, has directed his teams to two Florida AAU titles, now coaching the Belleville, Ontario team in the OHA B class. He is also the director of recreation for the city.

MORRISON CALLS FOR FEDERAL AID TO TORNADO AREA

Estimates Of Damage In Strawberry Belt Exceed Million Dollar Mark

HAMMOND, La., Feb. 7 (AP) —Estimates of damage caused by a tornado that roared through four towns in this area were revised upward today after widespread destruction to the strawberry crop was discovered.

At least three people were killed and 10 injured in the blow that damaged or destroyed some 75 houses and buildings in Hammond, Albany, Pumpkin Center and Centerville yesterday.

In Washington, Rep. Morrison (D-La) called on President Eisenhower to use every federal agency at his command to aid the disaster-stricken people of the area.

Morrison said he made an urgent appeal to the National Red Cross for all possible assistance.

Estimates of damage ran up to 31 million as the black twister scattered commercial structures, houses, trees and power lines in its path.

Police identified the dead as Mrs. Corinne Stewart, about 60, who was killed at Pumpkin Center when her farmhouse collapsed; Cordelia Williams about 35, of Hammond; and an unidentified Negro man who died after being struck by a piece of flying timber in Hammond.

An Albany man, Peter Aronyosi, 68, was seriously injured and taken to New Orleans for treatment of leg and rib fractures and possible internal injuries.

Red Cross field workers moved into the area today to survey the damages and arrange for food and shelter. Neighbors provided for persons whose homes were destroyed.

The Allen Cross crate and box plant in Hammond suffered the heaviest damage and plant owner, Allen Cross, narrowly escaped serious injury.

Cross leaped into his automobile when he saw the front wall of his warehouse begin to topple. The 13-inch - thick brick wall slammed down on the car and rescuers had to cut away the car to free him. He received only minor lacerations.

At Southeastern Louisiana College in Hammond, students were warned of the approach of the tornado by the ominous black clouds. They took refuge in the brick buildings and none was reported injured.

The college baseball park and wooden bleachers were wrecked and shingles and tarpaper from students' houses and dormitories were blown away.

B. A. Tucker, chairman of the Tangipahoa Parish disaster committees, said he counted 25 houses destroyed or unroofed in Hammond, six in Pumpkin Center and many others in the area.

that this country plans no aggressive action in the Far East.

"But it seems to me that his order to the Seventh Fleet implies that we will furnish an umbrella for any attacks the Chinese Nationalists might make on the coast, and I think the country ought to know how far any attacks the Chinese Nationalists might make on the coast and I think the Country ought to know how far we are planning to go."

"I intend to ask Mr. Dulles flatly if the administration plans to put such a blockade in effect and what the consequenres would be," Sparkman said.

Knowland disagreed with those who contend that a blockade would be likely to spread the Korean War. The Californian added he expects Dulles to keep the foreign relations group "fully informed" of contemplated moves in Asia, but he insisted the administration can't tip its hand publicly on some plans.

Rep. Short said he believes Eisenhower and the military leaders have considered several "measures short of all-out shooting war that would bring pressure on the Communists" to end the Korean stalemate.

Among possible moves he listed increased rearmament of the Chinese Nationalists and more use of other Asian troops, as well as a naval blockade.

Short emphasized he has not discussed strategy with the President and could not speak officially for him.

He added:

"Americans are too impatient to stand a stalemate in Korea, and we don't have to. A stalemate is accomplishing nothing, except to build up the Chinese Communists."

Rep. Yorty (D-Calif) suggested the Chinese Nationalists themselves could apply a naval blockade against Red China if supplied with some American ships.

Yorty, who visited the Far East last year, said the Nationalist Navy now includes destroyer escorts, minesweepers, gunboats, armored junks and landing craft.

"It could include other good blockade craft if we decided, for instance, to give or loan some of our overage warships" to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, he said in a speech prepared for House delivery Monday.

6 AIRMEN HELD FOR STEALING FROM VETERANS

Enlisted Men Charged With Taking Equipment Of Wounded Canadians

MCCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash., Feb. 7 (AP)—An Air Force enlisted man has been arrested and an investigation is under way into charges that equipment was stolen from wounded Canadian veterans brought here from Korea for treatment.

McChord officials denied through their public information office, however, that a theft ring is in operation or that there had been wholesale pilfering of wounded veterans equipment and souvenirs.

Thirteen Canadian veterans who arrived in Toronto on furlough charged that their equipment had been pilfered. One veteran, Craftsman George J. Burns of London, Ont., said 16 of 19 Canadians who arrived here had all or part of their equipment stolen after it had been checked in at McChord Field. They said some of it was recovered after the U. S. airman was arrested.

At McChord, the PIO office said that on Jan. 31 a Canadian aircraft landed and that some of the veterans aboard were taken to Madigan General Hospital. Others proceeded on to Canada.

The next day, they said, an 18-year-old airman was found in possession of $75 to $100 worth of souvenirs from the Far East. Later nine Canadians at Madigan reported articles had been taken.

Name of the man arrested was withheld until he is arraigned.

The PIO office said the complaint of the nine men involved the largest amount reported stolen at the base near Tacoma.

They said the investigation is continuing.

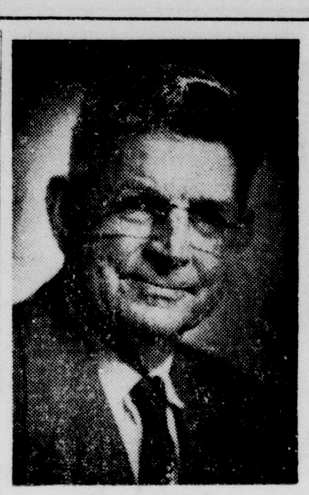

Funeral Rites Held For Suicide Victim

BASTROP, Feb. 7 (Special) — Funeral services held at the Holly Ridge Baptist Church at 11 a.m. today for Willie L. Copeland, 47, who took his own life with a gunshot early Friday.

The Rev. Jim Mathos of Bethlehem, La., officiated at the services. Burial, under direction of the Hall Funeral Home of Monroe, was in the Unity Church Cemetery near Jones.

In addition to his widow, Copeland is survived by one son, Paul, of Jones; and two daughters, Mrs. Mary Ferrell of Jones and Mrs. Estelle Johnson of Bastrop. Three brothers, three sisters, and two grandchildren also survive.

Twin City Motor Co. Hires New Personnel

Walter Schubert, manager of Twin City Motor Co. local Cadillac - Oldsmobile announces the enlargement of their used car department this week.

J. W. Clark has joined the firm as used car manager. Clark is well known to Twin City residents having been associated with various local automobile firms for the past 25 years. Much of this time has been spent in a mangerial capacity. For the past year, he has been used car manager for the automobile firm of Griffin-Loftin.

George Clark and Spencer (Bit) Collie have joined the firm as used car salesmen. Both of these men are lifelong Twin City residents and have proven themselves as well qualified automobile salesmen.

Schubert stated that they have stepped up facilities in the used car department to give the public quick, competent service. They have a very large stock of clean, late model trade - ins and they all carry the "safety - tested" guarantee to insure you complete protection in your purchase.

Vaccination Schedule For Dogs Is Released

Vaccination of the entire dog population of Ouachita parish gets underway Monday at 8:30 a. m. with the opening of a 30-minute clinic at White's store, White's Ferry Road, West Monroe, according to Dr. W. C. Summer, director of the Ouachita Parish Health unit.

A schedule of additional clinics throughout the parish is listed below. Vaccinations are to be administered by local veterinarians and the fee for each dog is $1, the director said, stating that "A parish and city ordinance requires every dog to be vaccinated and licensed once a year. Dog owners who do not obey the law will have their pets picked up and impounded."

Stressing the importance of immunization, Dr. Summer pointed out that often it is necessary to destroy as many as 30 un - vaccinated dogs that have been in contact with a single rabid animal. "Needless to say," he said, "people who love their pets will give them the protection of vaccination and keep them off the streets where they might come in contact with stray dogs."

Anyone suspecting his dog of rabies should not kill the dog if he can avoid it, the director said, but should pen it up and then notify the local health unit. Killing the dog, he pointed out, often mad."

makes it impossible to tell if the animal actually was rabid, since symptoms may not have had a chance to develop.

"If the dog is prematurely killed," Dr. Summer stated, "every person who was in contact with the animal will have to be treated on the assumption that he was mad."

The following schedule will be observed for the vaccinations:

The American Bowling Congress three-game record series rolled by a five man team is 3,797. That's an average of 253 per man.

During the 1952 season Pee Wee Reese of the Dodgers stole 30 bases and was caught only five times.

OFFICERS FISH BODY FROM POOL

Game Rangers Retrieve Corpse, Victim Of Heart Attack

FERRIDAY, Feb. 7 (Special) — Women wailing atop a levee led Louisiana Wildlife officers to recover the apparently drowned body of a Negro man near Deerpark.

Captain Hartwell Love and Ranger Eugene Fairbanks of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fish Commission recovered the body from a seven foot pool of water with a heavy cane pole and large fishing hook.

They identified the Negro man as James Davis, 35, of Natchez, Miss. A coroner's inquest was held at the scene, located on the Surget - Ashley Plantation near Deerpark.

Captain Love and Ranger Fairbanks made an inspection of waters and woods in the area for violations when they heard the women wailing atop the levee.

Upon arrival at the scene, they said the women pointed to a hat floating upon the water before they said it belonged to Davis.

The Wildlife commission officers took the heavy cane and grappled for the body near the hat, finding and pulling out the corpse from a pool of about seven feet of water.

Dr J. H. Panket, of Ferriday, parish corner summoned a jury and they returned a verdict that the Negro came to his death of a heart attack before his body hit the water.

Youth Suspected Of Trying To Poison Successful Rival

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A young college science student—on the short end of a love triangle — was booked today on suspicion of trying to poison the husband of the girl he lost.

Moreover, sheriff's investigators quoted Richard C. La Force, 19, as saying he tried five times to administer poison to former classmate Robert P. Hayden, 19, in the last two months.

La Force, a physics major at California Institute of Technology, said he put either arsenic, cyanide, potassium cyanide or arsenic trioxide in liquids that Hayden might drink, Sgt. Bert Wood and Det. A. S. Martin reported. They quoted La Force:

"I always wanted Joyce (Hayden's wife, also 19) for my wife. I've loved her since the sixth grade."

The two officers, alerted by the young wife, said they caught La Force putting an arsenic compound in a water bottle in the Hayden's refrigerator last night. They said Mrs. Hayden became suspicious after surprising La Force at the refrigerator last week.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

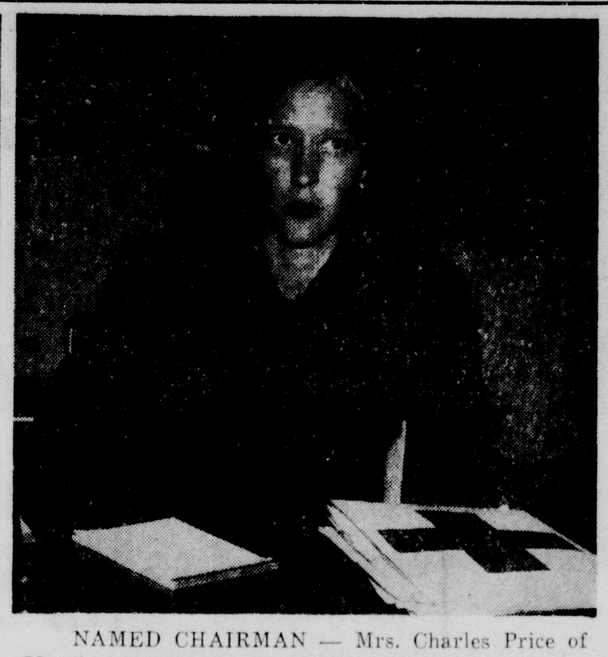

By SUE SHARMAN

The only trouble with a column is, and this is a very drastic admission, some days you scrape the bottom of the barrel so to speak in the interest of public interest, other days you find the trusty 'ole note pad bulging with items that can't be held over for slimmer days (mainly for fear somebody else will tell you first).

First on the agenda we are planning a very exciting column on "audience behavior" at theatre-in-the-round. Consulting Emily Post, she doesn't have anything to offer on this subject; however, it must have been a little matter she overlooked in writing her etiquette "bible." The Monroe Little Theatre's "Bell, Book and Candle" opens this next Wednesday for an eight - night engagement, so all Little Theatre fans should have an in-look and an out-look on what their audience participation will mean to the show. We hope, after much research and consultation, to bring you in Monday's column the low-down on what's expected of the local theatre wise.

"Bell, Book and Candle" on its run of eight nights, has an expected audience figure of much more than a thousand people, so be patient if we go back to the old plea "get your reservations in early" . . .Plan to see it as soon as you can and then you'll be sure. . .sure that is to get a reservation. . .Remember Wednesday, February 11, is First Nighters night.

Random Notes. . .Blanche Oliver, charter member, former director, and inspiration of Little Theatre Monroe is very happily playing her third role as grandmother and is she enjoying her part (yes, yes). The cause of Miss Blanche's enthusiasm is young son McVay, born recently to Bobby Oliver and his wife the former Jane Rhymes. He makes a trio of grandsons for Blanche to enjoy. . . Congratulations to Little Theatre member Ninon Tanguis who now answers to the name, Mrs. Loren Weyand. Ninon appeared on Little Theatre stage in Noel Coward's "Blythe Spirit" and we are happy to tell you that the couple is making their home in Monroe. . .We spotted several ex-Little Theatrelites in town last week, Mrs. Charles Jacobs of Bastrop, the former Carre Mae Calder and Mrs Dean McCormick of Oak Grove, the former Bonita Allen, both of whom graced the local stage in the late '30's. . .Made two new friends in Rayville, Nitsie Guines and Jess Stodghill, who are fast becoming Little Theatre enthusiasts. . .Makes us feel real good to realize that our Monroe Little Theatre is fast becoming a northeast Louisiana institution. At any show and most every show, we find people from Bastrop, Collinston, Mer Rouge, Oak Ridge, Lake Providence, Tallulah, Rayville, Gilbert, Winnsboro, Columbia, Calhoun, Ruston and Farmerville. If any Little Theatre fans living in these towns has any suggestions to offer, we'll welcome lttters and post cards. . .Little Theatre director Stocker Fontelieu extended his theatre devotion to a Wednesday morning engagement as guest lecturer to the Calhoun Drama Club . . .Little Theatre member Mrs. Corrine Bernstein has been very ill for the past few weeks and now it is a pleasure to tell you that she is on the mend. . .Dr. and Louise Klam left Thursday for New Orleans where they will combine business and pleasure this weekend. . .Little Theatre is wooing the attention of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McWhorter. She is a very attractive blonde and sings in the First Presbyterian choir. . .Miss America, Neva Jane Langley, is coming to Monroe on March 6. Henry Biedenharn is chairman of the local Jaycee committee who are sponsoring her appearance here. She is accompanying the famous Wesleyan Choir of Wesleyan College, Ga., who will also be in Natchez, Miss., in connection with the annual Pilgrimage before they arrive in Monroe. Neva Jane won her coveted title of Miss America in competition with fifty-two other beauties including Little Theatre's Barbara "Abbie's Irish Rose" Barker, who placed fifth as Miss Louisiana. . .And that about winds up another session with theatre and it's personalities in what we are now beginning to class "Theatre Northeast Louisiana."

NAMED CHAIRMAN — Mrs. Charles Price of Monroe has been elected chairman of the Central Louisiana Hospital Council, composed of 12 parishes which work directly with the Veteran's hospital in Alexandria.

Mrs. Price Will Lead La. Hospital Council

Mrs. Charles Price of Monroe has been elected chairman of the Central Louisiana Hospital Council.

This council is composed of 12 parishes which work directly with the Veteran's hospital in Alexandria. The Council meets bi-monthly and plans with the manager of the hospital for procuring additional recreation supplies.

Mrs. Price, a native of Henderson, Ky., began her work with the Red Cross in 1945 with the New Orleans chapter.

She moved to Monroe in 1948 and has worked with the Gray Lady organization since the first year of its organization, serving for the past two years as chairman of the Adams Street Home for the Aged.

Mrs. Price will start a class at Neville High School for senior girls Monday.

The agenda for the night will also include the organization's annual report, and a listing of projects for the next year.

DEAN SMITH TO ADDRESS O. E. A.

Northeast State Educator Will Talk On 1953 Problems

Dean William Smith, of the department of teacher education at Northeast State College, will be guest speaker Monday evening when the OEA meets in regular session at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium. Dean Smith has chosen for his topic of discussion "Problems Facing Louisiana Education in 1953." This subject should be of paramount interest to every school person. Mrs. John P. Zoll, president, in urging the members and other teachers and administrators to attend says, "Dean Smith is an able speaker and well - versed in such matters and we believe every teacher and administrator in the parish should make an effort to be present Monday evening February 9 when he discusses this topic."

Director Solon King will present his 40 - piece all parish band as the entertaining feature. This band is composed of students from Crosley Elementary School, Millsaps Elementary School and Highland Elementary School. This program promises to be the best of the year.

Over 89 Million In '52 Contracts

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7 (Special)—Louisiana firms were awarded 254 unclassified federal government contracts for materials and supplies amounting to $89,949,000 during the calendar year 1952, according to figures just announced here by the wage and hour and public contracts divisions of the U. S. Department of Labor.

The Louisiana total included 50 prime contracts and 204 contracts on which Louisiana firms acted as suppliers in whole or in part, Field Office Supervisor J. Sidney Gonsoulin said. For the five states of Region VIII, there were 1,630 contracts of both types, valued at $348,760,000.

Such figures were compiled from weekly reports of contract awards made to the wage and hour and public contracts divisions which are charged by law with enforcement of both the fair labor standards act (or wage-hour law) and the Walsh - Healey Public Contracts Act.

Local Pair To Attend Employment Meeting

Two Monroe members of the Louisiana advisory council on employment security will attend a meeting of that group in Baton Rouge Feb. 13.

Jiles N. Davis of Monroe is vice-chairman of the council and A. H. Salisbury of Monroe is a member of the council.

The meeting has been called to discuss problems encountered in administering the 1953 amendments to the Louisiana employment security law.

A FRANK STARR
ORIGINAL

PROMINENT DESIGNER—Star of Frank Starr's spring collection, this fashion with the graceful scoop of neckline and whirling width of skirt. Created by American designer Peg Endersby — a lady who believes in figure-flattery first and foremost. Note how beautifully she molds the bodice to give you that nice l-o-n-g line through the middle. The original of Pattern M201 was a print, black tracery of leaves delicately etched on white silk shantung. But here's where you, the home dressmakers, have the greatest advantage. With this well-designed and beautifully cut pattern, you can make this enchanting dress in silk taffeta or polished cotton or any of the exciting new spring fabrics. And best of all, you'll have an Original from the house of Frank Starr—a name that's highly prized in America's most exclusive stores.

Pattern M201 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. See your pattern for required yardages.

Enlisted Men Charged With Taking Equipment Of Wounded Canadians

MCCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash., Feb. 7 (AP)—An Air Force enlisted man has been arrested and an investigation is under way into charges that equipment was stolen from wounded Canadian veterans brought here from Korea for treatment.

McChord officials denied through their public information office, however, that a theft ring is in operation or that there had been wholesale pilfering of wounded veterans equipment and souvenirs.

Thirteen Canadian veterans who arrived in Toronto on furlough charged that their equipment had been pilfered. One veteran, Craftsman George J. Burns of London, Ont., said 16 of 19 Canadians who arrived here had all or part of their equipment stolen after it had been checked in at McChord Field. They said some of it was recovered after the U. S. airman was arrested.

At McChord, the PIO office said that on Jan. 31 a Canadian aircraft landed and that some of the veterans aboard were taken to Madigan General Hospital. Others proceeded on to Canada.

The next day, they said, an 18-year-old airman was found in possession of $75 to $100 worth of souvenirs from the Far East. Later nine Canadians at Madigan reported articles had been taken.

Name of the man arrested was withheld until he is arraigned.

The PIO office said the complaint of the nine men involved the largest amount reported stolen at the base near Tacoma.

They said the investigation is continuing.

Funeral Rites Held For Suicide Victim

BASTROP, Feb. 7 (Special) — Funeral services held at the Holly Ridge Baptist Church at 11 a.m. today for Willie L. Copeland, 47, who took his own life with a gunshot early Friday.

The Rev. Jim Mathos of Bethlehem, La., officiated at the services. Burial, under direction of the Hall Funeral Home of Monroe, was in the Unity Church Cemetery near Jones.

In addition to his widow, Copeland is survived by one son, Paul, of Jones; and two daughters, Mrs. Mary Ferrell of Jones and Mrs. Estelle Johnson of Bastrop. Three brothers, three sisters, and two grandchildren also survive.

NEW PERSONNEL—Three men have been added to the Twin City Motor Co. personnel staff. J. W. Clark has been named used car manager. George Clark and Spencer Coolie have been named used car salesmen.

Twin City Motor Co. Hires New Personnel

Walter Schubert, manager of Twin City Motor Co. local Cadillac - Oldsmobile announces the enlargement of their used car department this week.

J. W. Clark has joined the firm as used car manager. Clark is well known to Twin City residents having been associated with various local automobile firms for the past 25 years. Much of this time has been spent in a mangerial capacity. For the past year, he has been used car manager for the automobile firm of Griffin-Loftin.

George Clark and Spencer (Bill) Collie have joined the firm as used car salesmen. Both of these men are lifelong Twin City residents and have proven themselves as well qualified automobile salesmen.

Schubert stated that they have stepped up facilities in the used car department to give the public quick, competent service. They have a very large stock of clean, late model trade - ins and they all carry the "safety - tested" guarantee to insure you complete protection in your purchase.

Vaccination Schedule For Dogs Is Released

Vaccination of the entire dog population of Ouachita parish gets underway Monday at 8:30 a. m. with the opening of a 30-minute clinic at White's store, White's Ferry Road, West Monroe, according to Dr. W. C. Summer, director of the Ouachita Parish Health unit.

A schedule of additional clinics throughout the parish is listed below. Vaccinations are to be administered by local veterinarians and the fee for each dog is $1, the director said, stating that "A parish and city ordinance requires every dog to be vaccinated and licensed once a year. Dog owners who do not obey the law will have their pets picked up and impounded."

Stressing the importance of immunization, Dr. Summer pointed out that often it is necessary to destroy as many as 30 un - vaccinated dogs that have been in contact with a single rabid animal. "Needless to say," he said, "people who love their pets will give them the protection of vaccination and keep them off the streets where they might come in contact with stray dogs."

Anyone suspecting his dog of rabies should not kill the dog if he can avoid it, the director said, but should pen it up and then notify the local health unit. Killing the dog, he pointed out, often makes it impossible to tell if the animal actually was rabid, since symptoms may not have had a chance to develop.

"If the dog is prematurely killed," Dr. Summer stated, "every person who was in contact with the animal will have to be treated on the assumption that he was mad."

The following schedule will be observed for the vaccinations:

FERRIDAY, Feb. 7 (Special) — Women wailing atop a levee led Louisiana Wildlife officers to recover the apparently drowned body of a Negro man near Deerpark.

Captain Hartwell Love and Ranger Eugene Fairbanks of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fish Commission recovered the body from a seven foot pool of water with a heavy cane pole and large fishing hook.

They identified the Negro man as James Davis, 35, of Natchez, Miss. A coroner's inquest was held at the scene, located on the Surget - Ashley Plantation near Deerpark.

Captain Love and Ranger Fairbanks made an inspection of waters and woods in the area for violations when they heard the women wailing atop the levee.

Upon arrival at the scene, they said the women pointed to a hat floating upon the water before they said it belonged to Davis.

The Wildlife commission officers took the heavy cane and grappled for the body near the hat, finding and pulling out the corpse from a pool of about seven feet of water.

Dr J. H. Panket, of Ferriday, parish corner summoned a jury and they returned a verdict that the Negro came to his death of a heart attack before his body hit the water.

Youth Suspected Of Trying To Poison Successful Rival

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A young college science student—on the short end of a love triangle — was booked today on suspicion of trying to poison the husband of the girl he lost.

Moreover, sheriff's investigators quoted Richard C. La Force, 19, as saying he tried five times to administer poison to former classmate Robert P. Hayden, 19, in the last two months.

La Force, a physics major at California Institute of Technology, said he put either arsenic, cyanide, potassium cyanide or arsenic trioxide in liquids that Hayden might drink, Sgt. Bert Wood and Det. A. S. Martin reported. They quoted La Force:

"I always wanted Joyce (Hayden's wife, also 19) for my wife. I've loved her since the sixth grade."

The two officers, alerted by the young wife, said they caught La Force putting an arsenic compound in a water bottle in the Hayden's refrigerator last night. They said Mrs. Hayden became suspicious after surprising La Force at the refrigerator last week.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By SUE SHARMAN

The only trouble with a column is, and this is a very drastic admission, some days you scrape the bottom of the barrel so to speak in the interest of public interest, other days you find the trusty 'ole note pad bulging with items that can't be held over for slimmer days (mainly for fear somebody else will tell you first).

First on the agenda we are planning a very exciting column on "audience behavior" at theatre-in-the-round. Consulting Emily Post, she doesn't have anything to offer on this subject; however, it must have been a little matter she overlooked in writing her etiquette "bible." The Monroe Little Theatre's "Bell, Book and Candle" opens this next Wednesday for an eight - night engagement, so all Little Theatre fans should have an in-look and an out-look on what their audience participation will mean to the show. We hope, after much research and consultation, to bring you in Monday's column the low-down on what's expected of the local theatre wise.

"Bell, Book and Candle" on its run of eight nights, has an expected audience figure of much more than a thousand people, so be patient if we go back to the old plea "get your reservations in early" . . .Plan to see it as soon as you can and then you'll be sure. . .sure that is to get a reservation. . .Remember Wednesday, February 11, is First Nighters night.

Random Notes. . .Blanche Oliver, charter member, former director, and inspiration of Little Theatre Monroe is very happily playing her third role as grandmother and is she enjoying her part (yes, yes). The cause of Miss Blanche's enthusiasm is young son McVay, born recently to Bobby Oliver and his wife the former Jane Rhymes. He makes a trio of grandsons for Blanche to enjoy. . . Congratulations to Little Theatre member Ninon Tanguis who now answers to the name, Mrs. Loren Weyand. Ninon appeared on Little Theatre stage in Noel Coward's "Blythe Spirit" and we are happy to tell you that the couple is making their home in Monroe. . .We spotted several ex-Little Theatreites in town last week. Mrs. Charles Jacobs of Bastrop, the former Carre Mae Calder and Mrs Dean McCormick of Oak Grove, the former Bonita Allen, both of whom graced the local stage in the late '30's. . .Made two new friends in Rayville, Nitsie Guines and Jess Stodghill, who are fast becoming Little Theatre enthusiasts. . .Makes us feel real good to realize that our Monroe Little Theatre is fast becoming a northeast Louisiana institution. At any show and most every show, we find people from Bastrop, Collinston, Mer Rouge, Oak Ridge, Lake Providence, Tallulah, Rayville, Gilbert, Winnsboro, Columbia, Calhoun, Ruston and Farmerville. If any Little Theatre fans living in these towns has any suggestions to offer, we'll welcome letters and post cards. . .Little Theatre director Stocker Fontelieu extended his theatre devotion to a Wednesday morning engagement as guest lecturer to the Calhoun Drama Club . . .Little Theatre member Mrs. Corrine Bernstein has been very ill for the past few weeks and now it is a pleasure to tell you that she is on the mend. . .Dr. and Louise Klam left Thursday for New Orleans where they will combine business and pleasure this weekend. . .Little Theatre is wooing the attention of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McWhorter. She is a very attractive blonde and sings in the First Presbyterian choir. . .Miss America, Neva Jane Langley, is coming to Monroe on March 6. Henry Biedenharn is chairman of the local Jaycee committee who are sponsoring her appearance here. She is accompanying the famous Wesleyan Choir of Wesleyan College, Ga., who will also be in Natchez, Miss., in connection with the annual Pilgrimage before they arrive in Monroe. Neva Jane won her coveted title of Miss America in competition with fifty-two other beauties including Little Theatre's Barbara "Abbie's Irish Rose" Barker, who placed fifth as Miss Louisiana. . .And that about winds up another session with theatre and it's personalities in what we are now beginning to class "Theatre Northeast Louisiana."

NAMED CHAIRMAN — Mrs. Charles Price of Monroe has been elected chairman of the Central Louisiana Hospital Council, composed of 12 parishes which work directly with the Veteran's hospital in Alexandria.

Mrs. Price Will Lead La. Hospital Council

Mrs. Charles Price of Monroe has been elected chairman of the Central Louisiana Hospital Council.

This council is composed of 12 parishes which work directly with the Veteran's hospital in Alexandria. The Council meets bi-monthly and plans with the manager of the hospital for procuring additional recreation supplies.

Mrs. Price, a native of Henderson, Ky., began her work with the Red Cross in 1945 with the New Orleans chapter.

She moved to Monroe in 1948 and has worked with the Gray Lady organization since the first year of its organization, serving for the past two years as chairman of the Adams Street Home for the Aged.

Mrs. Price will start a class at Neville High School for senior girls Monday.

DEAN SMITH TO ADDRESS O. E. A.

Northeast State Educator Will Talk On 1953 Problems

Dean William Smith, of the department of teacher education at Northeast State College, will be guest speaker Monday evening when the OEA meets in regular session at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium. Dean Smith has chosen for his topic of discussion "Problems Facing Louisiana Education in 1953." This subject should be of paramount interest to every school person. Mrs. John P. Zoll, president, in urging the members and other teachers and administrators to attend says, "Dean Smith is an able speaker and well - versed in such matters and we believe every teacher and administrator in the parish should make an effort to be present Monday evening February 9 when he discusses this topic."

Director Solon King will present his 40 - piece all parish band as the entertaining feature. This band is composed of students from Crosley Elementary School, Millsaps Elementary School and Highland Elementary School. This program promises to be the best of the year.

Over 89 Million In '52 Contracts

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7 (Special)—Louisiana firms were awarded 254 unclassified federal government contracts for materials and supplies amounting to $89,949,000 during the calendar year 1952, according to figures just announced here by the wage and hour and public contracts divisions of the U. S. Department of Labor.

The Louisiana total included 50 prime contracts and 204 contracts on which Louisiana firms acted as suppliers in whole or in part, Field Office Supervisor J. Sidney Gonsoulin said. For the five states of Region VIII, there were 1,630 contracts of both types, valued at $348,760,000.

Such figures were compiled from weekly reports of contract awards made to the wage and hour and public contracts divisions which are charged by law with enforcement of both the fair labor standards act (or wage-hour law) and the Walsh - Healey Public Contracts Act.

Local Pair To Attend Employment Meeting

Two Monroe members of the Louisiana advisory council on employment security will attend a meeting of that group in Baton Rouge Feb. 13.

Jiles N. Davis of Monroe is vice-chairman of the council and A. H. Salisbury of Monroe is a member of the council.

The meeting has been called to discuss problems encountered in administering the 1953 amendments to the Louisiana employment security law.

OLD BRICKS WORTH MORE TO HIM THAN NEW ONES — That worn brick exhibited by W. C. (Bill) Baker, third from left, was salvaged in the demolition of the old St. Francis Sanitarium of Monroe and it's 40 years old, but it's worth twice as much as a new one. Through Houston and Dallas markets, wealthy Texans will pay up to $70 per thousand for the used brick for the "effect" they will provide for palatial new mansions, says Baker, although they could buy new ones for as little as $23. The Mangham, La., demolition specialist is discussing the project with key men of the Southeastern Construction Company, here planning erection of the beautiful new hospital. From left to right they are W. H. Sanderson, engineer; W. Frank Boyles, superintendent and (far right) Bert Harmon, assistant superintendent.

Constructive Destruction Pays Off For Contractor

BY DENNIS SHELL

A man who tears buildings down from the bottom up and sells the old bricks for twice as much money as new ones is doing some constructive destruction at the site of the old St. Francis hospital.

W. C. Baker, a contractor from Mangham, La., is a specialist in wrecking used buildings. But the materials he salvages sooner or later will find themselves in brand new structures.

Like a slaughter-house that sells even the hooves of the cow, Baker finds a market for everything that's left in a discarded building. He culls nothing. He disposes of it all, from the steel beams at the top to the pipes in the basement.

And who do you suppose uses this second-hand stuff?

Oil-rich millionaires and tenement dwellers, and lots of people in between.

Bill Baker is the destructive partner in a building and wrecking enterprise known as Saucier & Baker. They play both ends against the middle in this business, Baker tearing down old buildings, Saucier erecting new ones.

It will cost approximately $40,000 to demolish the 40-year-old building that housed the St. Francis Sanitarium. They'll get a small portion of it back as payment from the new hospital's general contractors for clearing the site and for excavation, but how successfully they peddle the salvage from the old structure will determine their profit.

They will sell the floors, the ceilings, the walls, the doors and windows, the plumbing and lighting systems and the old familiar fountain. And they promised to tear it apart and move it all in 30 days.

It takes some fast wrecking to fill a bill like that. But Baker is a wrecking specialist, and the demolition crew with which he surrounds himself knows the business from top to bottom—or, in Baker's case, from bottom to top.

With methodical precision, they are tearing the building apart. There's no confusion, no lost motion; it's all being done according to a carefully - formulated system that spells wrecking efficiency. There's a system even in the way salvaged materials are distributed on the lot — bricks here, windows there, steel girders somewhere else and doors at still another spot. Those materials are going to be sold "as is."

Who wants that old stuff?

Well, some wealthy Texans want to buy the brick (there are about a quarter of a million of them) and they're willing to pay $58 to $70 per thousand for them although they can buy brand new ones for something like $23. They like the "effect" old bricks provide for palatial new mansions.

"We got premium prices in Texas for bricks from an old Y. W. C. A. building in Jackson, Miss.," Baker said. "Those rich Texans were willing to pay hundreds of dollars extra just for the privilege of boasting that their homes were constructed from bricks made by Mississippi slave labor a hundred years ago."

The scrap metal will be disposed of here in Monroe. A local welding firm, for example, already has purchased the steel girders, which are still as good as new. Some day you may drive your car across a bridge constructed with those old St. Francis beams.

The windows — there are some 300 of them — are too large for use as such in private residences and too small to be converted to those popular "picture" windows, but they're being sold and when next they're seen they'll probably be in the breezeways or on the glassed-in porches of some homes here and there.

The 7,000 feet of pipe and the 240 doors are practically all sold and probably will be used locally in buildings in which sound materials that don't have to be brand new are permitted. The same goes for light fixtures and the rubber tile flooring, and about 140,000 feet of salvagable lumber.

The plumbing fixtures? They'll end up in some private homes or in some apartment houses or tenements where lower costs are desired.

And regardless of what's left, you can bet it will be sold.

Buildings are built from the ground up, and they're torn down from the top the way most everybody does it. But Saucier & Baker depart from convention in their demolition work.

"It makes an easier job, and a quicker one, to start at the bottom and work up," says Baker.

So after removing all non-essentials such as windows, doors and baseboards — which have nothing to do with holding up the building —his demolition men start at the ground and remove floor by floor, letting the debris from each settle within the enclosing walls. "This keeps the stuff all together instead of allowing it to spread out further and further and become more difficult — and more costly — to gather up for transportation," Baker pointed out.

Once the interior has been cleared and the roof removed, the walls are ready for their special treatment; and this is the most unique operation of them all.

Baker threads a cable through a couple of windows on the bottom story, secures it to a bulldozer and yanks. That section of the lower wall comes apart and all the sections above disintegrate. And instead of a mess of bricks and mortar all over the yard, as would be the case if the wall were pulled down from the top, there is just a pile of them and a cloud of dust right where the wall stood.

"A very quiet operation," says Baker. "Very little noise like there would be the other way."

Saucier & Baker use 30 men on a project the size of the St. Francis demolition. There are three heavy equipment operators, three truck drivers and a salesman, with common laborers constituting the balance. They form a smooth-working crew of wreckers.

Are there ever any hitches in their system?

There was one agonizing moment, Baker said, when he thought many thousands of dollars were going up in a cloud of mortar dust.

That was when a portion of the east wall, a section that was not being demolished at the time, decided to spill. And after swaying backward and forward, it did just that — with a tremendous crash.

Fortunately, it fell westward. Had it gone the other way, much of the hospital's handsome new kitchen and cafeteria would have been destroyed.

Demolition and clearing of the site is expected to be completed by February 13, and excavation by the middle of March. Construction of the beautiful new hospital will get underway immediately thereafter, according to W. Frank Boyles, of the Southeastern Construction Company, contract superintendent who already is on the spot with his assistant, Bert Harmon, and his engineer, W. H. Sanderson.

The modern medical center, which now is expected to cost more than $2,500,000, is due for completion in approximately two years.

Political Reporters Fear 'Honeymoon' Won't Last

By CHARLES O. GRIDLEY

WASHINGTON D.C. — Old time political reporters here are receiving the same lift from this new Eisenhower administration as the rest of the country, with the difference that they shake their heads and say "It can't last."

When asked why, one of those who has seen them come and go for almost half a century said: "Too much sweetness and light. This is a political government."

The important thing is — whether it be exciting news or not—that President Eisenhower is away to a running start, and that he has the close and apparently respectful addition of a world torn by wars, terrible catastrophes and horrible oppression.

The forecast here is that under present world conditions, this moment of flexing our muscles will not last for more than six months, but for this nation, beset for years by political controversy, it is a welcome breathing spell.

Such phrases as "unruly Congress," "resentment of executive dictation," "administration bogged down– no solution in sight" have been put on the shelf.

The closest parallels of the last 30 years are the beginnings of the Harding administration in 1921 and the Hoover administration in 1929, but in the first instance, the Democrats had been so badly beaten that their opposition was crushed, and in the second, the country was in such seemingly prosperous condition that few wanted to disturb it.

In both those precedents for this temporary release from feudin', the farmers disturbed the illusion. They came to Washington demanding help. They got it through old device of a tariff for farm products.

Today the only uneasiness among Republicans is over declining farm prices, particularly on beef. While consumers are taking advantage of the drop in increased meat buying, reported from most parts of the country, political historians are recalling that the "little de pression" of 1921-1922 began in much the same way, with prices of cattle and sheep skidding so rapidly that stockmen lost fortunes.

Agriculture was in a decline when Herbert Hoover took office, which prompted farm state Republicans to demand more tariff protection. That developed into the Smoot-Hawley general tariff raise. Soon after its enactment, the country began sliding into another depression.

The situation tends to put Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson on the first hotspot of any cabinet officer, but the White House is involved because the administration farm policy has not yet been established. With price controls already doomed, and Secretary Benson uncommitted on future price supports, the attempt to assure farmers losing money for the first time in years that the present market reaction contains no cause for alarm has not been very convincing.

President Eisenhower within the next week may make some further announcement of farm prices, though his advisors have counseled further study of the situation until he administration commits itself to anything of broad scope. Meanwhile, both senators and representatives from the Southwest and West report "growing alarm" from their agricultural constituents, but so far there is none here.

As one senator from an agricultural section put it: "They are just not having it as good as they have had it."

The urban representatives, as is usual in such cases, cannot become excited about the difficulties of their agricultural colleagues, and for once do not have to answer complaints of consumers about the high prices of meat.

The job seekers, it appears, have been below the earlier estimate. Party leaders are complaining, but not too bitterly because 25 per cent of President Eisenhower's appointments to top jobs are from New York state.

The South has only about ten percent, and the far west has about the same number. But there have been assurances from White House sources that everything will be worked out as time goes on.

One surprising thing has been the lack of furor as Republicans replace Democrats in the upper brackets of the big executive departments. Names go off doors one day and new ones go up the next but the ticket agencies report no rush of business from departing Democrats. In other words, there is no confusion on the Potomac.

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Gov. Robert Kennon's highway administration is thinking about a switch in highway financing that could turn up some $15 million to meet rural lawmakers' demands for blacktopping country roads.

It's still in the "let's-see-what-can-be-done" stage, aimed at the new fiscal year beginning July 1.

When the 1952 Legislature approved the Kennon two-cent cut in the gasoline tax, highway spending was curbed.

Highway Director George S. Covert says his department had about $35 million including federal aid to use this year for construction, maintenance and department operations, compared with the average $56 million a year previously.

"We realized we did not have any money to do anything about rural roads because our highways are wearing out," he explains.

In view of plans shaping up for rural road money, legislators have been told to outline a sort of "one-two-three" priority for their farm-to-market roads, against the day when funds became available.

Covert gave this general picture of what is in mind';

Roughly, about $18 million of the $35 million the highway department received this year was used for highway construction.

The idea is to turn over all but about $3 million of the $18 million during the next fiscal year to rural roads. The goal is an average 10 miles of blacktopping in each parish. The $3 million is needed for bridges at Grand Ecore and Amelia.

To make up for the loss in highway construction funds to rural roads, the department would make use of $12 million designated for primary highways, part of the $30 million bond issue which provides for approaches to the proposed New Orleans bridge.

Since this $12 million could not carry on an effective highway construction program next year by itself, other funds would have to be found.

Legislators are still talking about a special session this summer, with road money the object.

The state general fund is expected to have a surplus of about $15 million by June 30. Some administration leaders want to keep most of this for a financial cushion.

Some lawmakers are talking about diverting up to $7 million or $8 million of the surplus to the highway fund. That would provide the department with $12 million from the surplus. Such action could restore or even increase the level of funds for primary highway construction next year compared with the present level .

Parish delegations are knocking on the door regularly at the Highway Department; rural legislators keep pressing for blacktopping.

One rural representative, favorable to the administration, says several lawmakers think the two-cent gas cut was a mistake.

"We'll have to find other sources of revenue," he explained.

Gasoline revenues, better than expected, are climbing despite the two-cent cut. For instance, December gasoline revenues were higher than December a year ago.

Always in the background is hope of favorable tidelands legislation in Congress which could mean a spurt in Louisiana revenues.

Some Louisiana legislators have been examining the state sales tax as a possible extra source of road money. It is now dedicated to welfare and a smaller share to cost-of-living pay increases for teachers. The lawmakers found the two programs were taking just about all sales tax revenue.

OLD BRICKS WORTH MORE TO HIM THAN NEW ONES — That worn brick exhibited by W. C. (Bill) Baker, third from left, was salvaged in the demolition of the old St. Francis Sanitarium of Monroe and it's 40 years old, but it's worth twice as much as a new one. Through Houston and Dallas markets, wealthy Texans will pay up to $70 per thousand for the used brick for the "effect" they will provide for palatial new mansions, says Baker, although they could buy new ones for as little as $23. The Mangham, La., demolition specialist is discussing the project with key men of the Southeastern Construction Company, here planning erection of the beautiful new hospital. From left to right they are W. H. Sanderson, engineer; W. Frank Boyles, superintendent and (far right) Bert Harmon, assistant superintendent.

Constructive Destruction Pays Off For Contractor

BY DENNIS SHELL

A man who tears buildings down from the bottom up and sells the old bricks for twice as much money as new ones is doing some constructive destruction at the site of the old St. Francis hospital.

W. C. Baker, a contractor from Mangham, La., is a specialist in wrecking used buildings. But the materials he salvages sooner or later will find themselves in brand new structures.

Like a slaughter-house that sells even the hooves of the cow, Baker finds a market for everything that's left in a discarded building. He culls nothing. He disposes of it all, from the steel beams at the top to the pipes in the basement

And who do you suppose uses this second-hand stuff?

Oil-rich millionaires and tenement dwellers, and lots of people in between.

Bill Baker is the destructive partner in a building and wrecking enterprise known as Saucier & Baker. They play both ends against the middle in this business, Baker tearing down old buildings, Saucier erecting new ones.

It will cost approximately $40,000 to demolish the 40-year-old building that housed the St. Francis Sanitarium. They'll get a small portion of it back as payment from the new hospital's general contractors for clearing the site and for excavation, but how successfully they peddle the salvage from the old structure will determine their profit.

They will sell the floors, the ceilings, the walls, the doors and windows, the plumbing and lighting systems and the old familiar fountain. And they promised to tear it apart and move it all in 30 days.

It takes some fast wrecking to fill a bill like that. But Baker is a wrecking specialist, and the demolition crew with which he surrounds himself knows the business from top to bottom—or, in Baker's case, from bottom to top.

With methodical precision, they are tearing the building apart. There's no confusion, no lost motion; it's all being done according to a carefully - formulated system that spells wrecking efficiency. There's a system even in the way salvaged materials are distributed on the lot — bricks here, windows there, steel girders somewhere else and doors at still another spot. Those materials are going to be sold "as is."

Who wants that old stuff?

Well, some wealthy Texans want to buy the brick (there are about a quarter of a million of them) and they're willing to pay $58 to $70 per thousand for them although they can buy brand new ones for something like $23. They like the "effect" old bricks provide for palatial new mansions.

"We got premium prices in Texas for bricks from an old Y. W. C. A. building in Jackson, Miss.," Baker said. "Those rich Texans were willing to pay hundreds of dollars extra just for the privilege of boasting that their homes were constructed from bricks made by Mississippi slave labor a hundred years ago."

The scrap metal will be disposed of here in Monroe. A local welding firm, for example, already has purchased the steel girders, which are still as good as new. Some day you may drive your car across a bridge constructed with those old St. Francis beams.

The windows — there are some 300 of them — are too large for use as such in private residences and too small to be converted to those popular "picture" windows, but they're being sold and when next they're seen they'll probably be in the breezeways or on the glassed-in porches of some homes here and there.

The 7,000 feet of pipe and the 240 doors are practically all sold and probably will be used locally in buildings in which sound materials that don't have to be brand new are permitted. The same goes for light fixtures and the rubber tile flooring, and about 140,000 feet of salvagable lumber.

The plumbing fixtures? They'll end up in some private homes or in some apartment houses or tenements where lower costs are desired.

And regardless of what's left, you can bet it will be sold.

Buildings are built from the ground up, and they're torn down from the top the way most everybody does it. But Saucier & Baker depart from convention in their demolition work.

"It makes an easier job, and a quicker one, to start at the bottom and work up," says Baker.

So after removing all non-essentials such as windows, doors and baseboards — which have nothing to do with holding up the building —his demolition men start at the ground and remove floor by floor, letting the debris from each settle within the enclosing walls. "This keeps the stuff all together instead of allowing it to spread out further and further and become more difficult — and more costly — to gather up for transportation," Baker pointed out.

Once the interior has been cleared and the roof removed, the walls are ready for their special treatment; and this is the most unique operation of them all.

Baker threads a cable through a couple of windows on the bottom story, secures it to a bulldozer and yanks. That section of the lower wall comes apart and all the sections above disintegrate. And instead of a mess of bricks and mortar all over the yard, as would be the case if the wall were pulled down from the top, there is just a pile of them and a cloud of dust right where the wall stood.

"A very quiet operation," says Baker. "Very little noise like there would be the other way."

Saucier & Baker use 30 men on a project the size of the St. Francis demolition. There are three heavy equipment operators, three truck drivers and a salesman, with common laborers constituting the balance. They form a smooth-working crew of wreckers.

Are there ever any hitches in their system?

There was one agonizing moment, Baker said, when he thought many thousands of dollars were going up in a cloud of mortar dust.

That was when a portion of the east wall, a section that was not being demolished at the time, decided to spill. And after swaying backward and forward, it did just that — with a tremendous crash.

Fortunately, it fell westward. Had it gone the other way, much of the hospital's handsome new kitchen and cafeteria would have been destroyed.

Demolition and clearing of the site is expected to be completed by February 13, and excavation by the middle of March. Construction of the beautiful new hospital will get underway immediately thereafter, according to W. Frank Boyles, of the Southeastern Construction Company, contract superintendent who already is on the spot with his assistant, Bert Harmon, and his engineer, W. H. Sanderson.

The modern medical center, which now is expected to cost more than $2,500,000, is due for completion in approximately two years.

Political Reporters Fear 'Honeymoon' Won't Last

By CHARLES O. GRIDLEY

WASHINGTON D.C. — Old time political reporters here are receiving the same lift from this new Eisenhower administration as the rest of the country, with the difference that they shake their heads and say "It can't last."

When asked why, one of those who has seen them come and go for almost half a century said: "Too much sweetness and light. This is a political government."

The important thing is — whether it be exciting news or not—that President Eisenhower is away to a running start, and that he has the close and apparently respectful addition of a world torn by wars, terrible catastrophes and horrible oppression.

The forecast here is that under present world conditions, this moment of flexing our muscles will not last for more than six months, but for this nation, beset for years by political controversy, it is a welcome breathing spell.

Such phrases as "unruly Congress," "resentment of executive dictation," "administration bogged down– no solution in sight" have been put on the shelf.

The closest parallels of the last 30 years are the beginnings of the Harding administration in 1921 and the Hoover administration in 1929, but in the first instance, the Democrats had been so badly beaten that their opposition was crushed, and in the second, the country was in such seemingly prosperous condition that few wanted to disturb it.

In both those precedents for this temporary release from feudin', the farmers disturbed the illusion. They came to Washington demanding help. They got it through old device of a tariff for farm products.

Today the only uneasiness among Republicans is over declining farm prices, particularly on beef. While consumers are taking advantage of the drop in increased meat buying, reported from most parts of the country, political historians are recalling that the "little de pression" of 1921-1922 began in much the same way, with prices of cattle and sheep skidding so rapidly that stockmen lost fortunes.

Agriculture was in a decline when Herbert Hoover took office, which prompted farm state Republicans to demand more tariff protection. That developed into the Smoot-Hawley general tariff raise. Soon after its enactment, the country began sliding into another depression.

The situation tends to put Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson on the first hotspot of any cabinet officer, but the White House is involved because the administration farm policy has not yet been established. With price controls already doomed, and Secretary Benson uncommitted on future price supports, the attempt to assure farmers losing money for the first time in years that the present market reaction contains no cause for alarm has not been very convincing.

President Eisenhower within the next week may make some further announcement of farm prices, though his advisors have counseled further study of the situation until he administration commits itself to anything of broad scope. Meanwhile, both senators and representatives from the Southwest and West report "growing alarm" from their agricultural constituents, but so far there is none here.

As one senator from an agricultural section put it: "They are just not having it as good as they have had it."

The urban representatives, as is usual in such cases, cannot become excited about the difficulties of their agricultural colleagues, and for once do not have to answer complaints of consumers about the high prices of meat.

The job seekers, it appears, have been below the earlier estimate. Party leaders are complaining, but not too bitterly because 25 per cent of President Eisenhower's appointments to top jobs are from New York state.

The South has only about ten percent, and the far west has about the same number. But there have been assurances from White House sources that everything will be worked out as time goes on.

One surprising thing has been the lack of furor as Republicans replace Democrats in the upper brackets of the big executive departments. Names go off doors one day and new ones go up the next but the ticket agencies report no rush of business from departing Democrats. In other words, there is no confusion on the Potomac.

Camera Catches Pirate Scourge Of The Caribbees

Far-flung colonies of the Crown in the 1600s were issued placards: "Reward: for Blackbeard, The Pirate, 500 Pounds," etc., and that meant for his capture. Now the sinister marauder is the motion picture subject of "Blackbeard, the Pirate," an Edmund Grainger production in color by Technicolor, dramatizing a climax in the career of Captain Edward Teach, spectacular scourge of the Caribbean. This picture starts Wednesday at the Tem.

Starred are Robert Newton in the title role, Linda Darnell as the story's heroine, William Bendix as the pirate's right-hand man, and Keith Andes as an under-cover hero on the pirate ship. The latter is on a secret mission investigating the loyalty of Sir Henry Morgan, reformed pirate, a role that features Torin Thatcher in the film. It seems that the Crown suspected that Morgan's reform was a pretty brittle article in the 17th century period.

Historical accuracy is generally adhered to in this RKO Radio picture, but with added material that develops a romance between Andes and Miss Darnell who plays a ward of Morgan. A dramatic fate overtakes Blackbeard as the climax of the melodrama, which involves intrigue, sea battles, much golden loot, and much romantic adventure involving Morgan's ward, who has been made a captive by Blackbeard.

An interesting detail in the show is an adaptation of Blackbeard's reputed fancy for wearing firecrackers or tallow wicks braided into his whiskers, some tradition being that he used to light the device as a blazing refinement of menace.

Supporting characters in the show, which was directed by Raoul Walsh, have the names of original crewmen of Blackbeard's ship, dreaded members of the old Brotherhood of the Coast, the most desperate sea-fighters in the world, but whom Blackbeard belittles as "wormy scrapings dredged out of the slops — sorriest-looking gaggle of out-scourings that ever fouled a deck."

Blackbeard was of Welsh extraction. In the motion picture he lapses several times into his native tongue and the effect is doubly sinister because it is unintelligible to his hearers. His flow of abuse is shut off when the crew mutinies, his wounds in the melee adding up to four bullets in his body and twenty-four cutlass wounds, including one slash that severed the muscles of his neck on one side.

"Oh, Blackbeard lived a wicked life,
And all men wished him dead;
But his ship was lost
At frightful cost,
And high—hangs—his—head!"

So goes the ballad: "Blackbeard, the Pirate; His Wicked Life and Awful Death," all wrote out artistic, a tuppence.

Jet Crash

RAMSGATE, Eng., Feb. 6—UP—Two U.S. jet pilots were killed today when their F-84 thunderjet fighters collided in flight over this south-coast English city. Bits of wreckage from the crash plummeted into gardens and splintered roofs, but no residents were injured.

"ABBOTT AND COSTELLO MEET CAPTAIN KIDD" — In the Woodley production filmed in Supercinecolor for Warner Bros. Bud and Lou match wits with Charles Laughton in the pirate comedy which bows into the Paramount Theatre on Sunday, February 8th.

Abbott-Costello Play Pirates In New Comedy

The famed comedy team, Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, combine their talents again in what is reportedly their funniest screen offering. It's "Abbott and Costello Meet Captain Kidd," a Woodley production in Supercinecolor for Warner Bros. With Charles Laughton playing Captain Kidd in the new film. It opens Sun. Feb. 8th at the Paramount Theatre.

The story tells how Captain Kidd, with his pirate crew, sails to the island of Tortuga for a rendezvous with a beautiful blonde buccaneer competitor and then becomes involved with two tavern writers. When Kidd mistakenly receives a love note, and the map to a hidden treasure falls into the hands of the waiters, hilarious complications result. As the tavern waiters who vie with Captain Kidd in the search for buried treasure, comics Abbott and Costello are given ample opportunities to display their zany antics.

The successful partnership of Abbott and Costello began in the burlesque circuit seventeen years ago. The turning point in their career occurred when Kate Smith signed them for her radio shows. They became an instant sensation. From the Kate Smith program, the pair went into the Broadway musical, "Streets of Paris," As a result of their performances, they were signed to a film contract and have been in the movies ever since.

Co-starring with Bud and Lou is Charles Laughton, noted for his out-standing dramatic portrayals in "Mutiny On The Bounty," "The Paradine Case" and "The Blue Veil." However, the dignified Mr. Laughton gets a decided change of pace in "Abbott and Costello Meet Captain Kidd." Besides serving as the perfect foil for the routines of the zany duo, Laughton renders the song,"Meet Captain Kidd," written especially for the film by ace tune-smiths Bob Russell and Lester Lee.

Hillary Brooke, Bill Shirley, Leif Erickson and Fran Warren, popular vocalist of radio, records and the stage, head the large supporting cast of "Abbott and Costello Meet Captain Kidd."

Charles Lamont directed.

June Haver Said Considering Giving Up Film Career

Blonde June Haver, twice disappointed in love, plans to give up her film career and became a nun, her friends and church authorities said Wednesday.

"I will neither confirm or deny it," the actress said.

But her friends and Catholic church sources explained "she is just waiting until the final details are set, and she already has started her training."

Miss Haver had to get special permission from the church, it was pointed out, since her marriage to musician Jimmy Zito ended in divorce in 1948.

Furthermore, the tiny actress was told by a church superior that "they didn't want her to do this on the rebound" because of her unhappy personal life.

After her divorce from Zito, Miss Haver made plans for the second time to marry handsome Dr. John Duzik, whom she'd jilted to wed the trumpet player. But before she and the dentist could set the date, he died following an abdominal operation.

The fragile-looking dancer has been one of Hollywood's brightest stars in frothy musicals since 20th Century Fox Studio signed her 10 years ago. Her contract ends Feb. 20, and she has informed the studio she does not wish to renew it, a Fox spokesman said.

CARNIVAL BAND UPSETS MAESTRO

Stokowski Threatens To Walk Out On N. O. Concert

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3 (AP) — Noted conductor Leopold Stokowski threatened today to walk out on tonight's symphony concert if he hears even "a peep" from a carnival ball orchestra in the same auditorium.

At a rehearsal this afternoon, Stokowski heard the sound of the carnival orchestra warming up in the other section.

He stepped from the podium. He motioned the orchestra into silence and was quoted as saying:

"It's been a nice rehearsal. I'm sorry I won't be with you tonight."

He said he would not rehearse or conduct in competition with a carnival band, playing for an early Mardi Gras ball.

A few minutes later, he agreed to return later this afternoon and try another rehearsal.

But, he was quoted as adding:

"If I hear one peep out of that band tonight, I walk off the stage and we are through."

A spokesman for the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony Society said nothing could be done about the carnival band.

"We've had to put up with that for years," the woman said.

"Why, last year it almost got to be a joke. The symphony orchestra would finish a movement and you could hear the carnival band blaring out on the other side."

Camera Catches Pirate Scourge Of The Caribbees

Far-flung colonies of the Crown in the 1600s were issued placards: "Reward: for Blackbeard, The Pirate, 500 Pounds," etc., and that meant for his capture. Now the sinister marauder is the motion picture subject of "Blackbeard, the Pirate," an Edmund Grainger production in color by Technicolor, dramatizing a climax in the career of Captain Edward Teach, spectacular scourge of the Caribbean. This picture starts Wednesday at the Tem.

Starred are Robert Newton in the title role, Linda Darnell as the story's heroine, William Bendix as the pirate's right-hand man, and Keith Andes as an under-cover hero on the pirate ship. The latter is on a secret mission investigating the loyalty of Sir Henry Morgan, reformed pirate, a role that features Torin Thatcher in the film. It seems that the Crown suspected that Morgan's reform was a pretty brittle article in the 17th century period.

Historical accuracy is generally adhered to in this RKO Radio picture, but with added material that develops a romance between Andes and Miss Darnell who plays a ward of Morgan. A dramatic fate overtakes Blackbeard as the climax of the melodrama, which involves intrigue, sea battles, much golden loot, and much romantic adventure involving Morgan's ward, who has been made a captive by Blackbeard.

An interesting detail in the show is an adaptation of Blackbeard's reputed fancy for wearing firecrackers or tallow wicks braided into his whiskers, some tradition being that he used to light the device as a blazing refinement of menace.

Supporting characters in the show, which was directed by Raoul Walsh, have the names of original crewmen of Blackbeard's ship, dreaded members of the old Brotherhood of the Coast, the most desperate sea-fighters in the world, but whom Blackbeard belittles as "wormy scrapings dredged out of the slops — sorriest-looking gaggle of out-scourings that ever fouled a deck."

Blackbeard was of Welsh extraction. In the motion picture he lapses several times into his native tongue and the effect is doubly sinister because it is unintelligible to his hearers. His flow of abuse is shut off when the crew mutinies, his wounds in the melee adding up to four bullets in his body and twenty-four cutlass wounds, including one slash that severed the muscles of his neck on one side.

"Oh, Blackbeard lived a wicked life,
And all men wished him dead;
But his ship was lost
At frightful cost,
And high—hangs—his—head!"

So goes the ballad: "Blackbeard, the Pirate: His Wicked Life and Awful Death," all wrote out artistic, a tuppence.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The sportsmen who take racoon hunting seriously are going to have to be just as serious about assistance in enforcing Louisiana's laws concerning wild 'coon hunting if they want to enjoy the privilege of following their hounds on the chase these nights.

Racoon hunters are on probation in Louisiana which recently declared open season on the game for sportsmen, and wildlife rangers, the new name for game wardens in the state, inform us that the 'coon hunters are their own worst enemies. The season has been open only a few short weeks and already the violations are piling up.

Jewel P. McKeller, wildlife ranger and state investigator for the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission, has pointed out that although wild 'coon hunts are now permitted, the law forbids the taking of 'coon with any weapon. That's where the 'coon hunters are slipping up. They're using all kinds of weapons to take the game or force it out of trees.

"Some hunters seem to feel the word 'weapon' is restricted to guns, "McKeller said. "So, they are taking other means which are still violations. We've caught hunters using Roman candles to drive 'coon out of trees, others shooting firecrackers with slingshots, and others using clubs. All are violations of the law.

"For sport, hunters are permitted the chase and the pleasure they get listening to their hounds run. If a hunter wants to drive a 'coon out of a tree, he may climb up and do the job barehanded. Then it becomes sport for the 'coon. Few hunters, most of them greenhorns, relish moving in on a wild coon with anything but his bare hands.

"But the 'coon hunters are going to have to watch their step. There is no law granting them an open season. They have simply been offered a probationary season, and any enactment of law giving them a season will have to come before the next session of state legislature. The violations that are piling up will be placed before the legislature as well, and if our lawmakers feel the hunters have not adhered to the law while on probation they may be reluctant to grant a permanent open season."

With this to think about, you can be sure Eddie Ross, publisher of the 'coon hunters' magazine "Mountain Music," is going to take advantage of a ripe opportunity to warn the racoon sportsmen of the threat to their sport when the "gang" assembles here this week for the United States Championship Wild Coon Hunt.

There are a lot of hunters like Ross who work to protect the 'coon as well as hunt it. They like the chase as well as some other sportsmen like to fish, follow beagles, concentrate on bird hunting, relish a football game, or play checkers. Every man to his own liking, but every game has a set of rules. If you can't obey the rules, you can't qualify.

While we're on this 'coon business our local rangers, W. P. Oxley, C. B. "Chili" Baur, and Horace Buckley (the latter removed in the political changes since our meeting Wednesday) are concerned about conflicting trapping seasons that permit an animal on which there is a closed season to be caught in the trap set for another on which the season is open.

They refer to the situation on mink and racoon. The trapping season for mink and racoon opened November 15. The trapping of mink legally ended January 20. 'Coon trapping ends Feburary 15. Sets for both animals are similar. Thus, although the mink season is closed, many are still being caught in 'coon sets.

As ex-ranger Buckley pointed out, a motto of the game enforcers is "do not destroy the resources of our state." So the trapper must not throw away mink caught out of season in racoon sets, but bring them in to get the full benefit of those resources. The trapper did not wilfully break the law. He was trapping for racoon with the full privilege of his license. It was just unfortunate for the mink. What the rangers are arguing for is a trapping season that will coincide, both opening and closing at the same time.

3-Day U. S. Championship Wild 'Coon Hunt To Be Run Off Here This Week

1,000 Hounds Promised For Big Parade On Friday

The United States Championship Wild Coon Hunt will be held here Thursday, Friday and Saturday with hounds from at least a dozen states competing, according to Eddie Ross, publisher of the racoon hunters' magazine "Mountain Music" which is sponsoring the event.

Ross said entries are already assured from South Carolina, Ohio, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Mississippi, Texas, Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky in addition to Louisiana. He said entries are still open and other states are likely to be represented before the races start Thursday night.

As a special attraction, Ross said a race of 1,000 hounds on a prepared trail will be made through the business districts of Monroe and West Monroe Friday afternoon. The parade will be restricted to hounds only, but all types of hounds, whether coon dogs or not, will be accepted. Thus the fox hounds, deer dogs, and beagle hounds are welcomed to parade with their coon-hunting cousins in what Ross declares "will be the biggest concentration of hounds ever assembled in the United States."

The Friday parade is scheduled to begin at 2:30 o'clock at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds in West Monroe and move along Cypress Street to Wood Street, thence to Trenton and north along Trenton to Bridge Street. The parade will cross the Louisville Avenue bridge to Monroe, move up Walnut Street to DeSiard, along DeSiard to Sixth Street, thence to Louisville Avenue and back to the fair grounds.

Headquarters for the wild coon hunt will be established at George McCormick's farm on the "new" Natchitoches Road in West Monroe between the Brown Paper Mill and old Natchitoches Road. Dogs will be raced at night in heats of four, and after the Saturday night races points for all dogs will be totalled, and points against subtracted to determine the winners.

"Mountain Music" will present first and second place trophies and rosettes for two divisions of dogs — registered class and "grade" dog division. Rosettes will also go to dogs finishing third in the two classes.

A meeting of the Ouachita Coon Hunters Association is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night at the Ouachita parish court house to make final plans for the parade and field events.

KROLL, HARDEN, BLOMQUIST TWO STROKES BEHIND

Final Round Of 54-Hole $10,000 Event Comes Up Today

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 7 (AP) — Young Leo Biagetti of Baltimore, making his first dash toward golf glory, and baldish Chandler Harper of Portsmouth Va., a veteran of the tournament trail, went into a tie for the lead in the $10,000 El Paso Open Golf Tournament today with a 54-hole total of 206.

Both shot two-under-par 69 over the blistering 6,309 - yard El Paso Country Club course to take the lead from Jackie Burke who led at the halfway mark with 136. Burke soared to a three-over par 74 today, saying he couldn't putt a lick. It was putting that had shoved him to the front yesterday.

The 25-year-old Biagetti, a chunky blond who never has won a tournament, barely missed a chance to take over undisputed first place when his four-foot putt for a birdie rimmed the cup on the eighteenth green.

Biagetti and Harper, former National P. G. A. champion, shooting some of his best golf, came in in the last threesomes and took over the lead held up to that time by Ralph Blomquist of Eagle Rock, Calif., Jack Harden of El Paso and Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y.

Blomquist was the sensation of the day—he shot a six-under-par 65—the lowest score of the tournament—to make his 54-hole total 208. Blomquist, a giant blond who has won only $92.50 on the winter tour of six tournaments to date, came from far back to surge into a tie for third with Harden and Kroll. Hardin had a 69 today while Kroll shot a 70.

Fourteen of the field of 71 players bettered par as the tournament moved into its last round, several more withdrawals, bringing the total of 30 to date, an unusually high number for any tournament.

Many of those who quit did so in protest over the condition of the course, which is powder dry and has very poor greens. It has rained less than a half-inch here in six months.

So many picked up or withdrew from the tournament that it was reported here that Horton Smith, president of the P. G. A., would make an investigation. Harvey Raynor, tournament supervisor, said he would meet Smith in San Antonio next week where the golf tour moves for the Texas Open but that Smith hadn't informed him of an investigation.

The leaders:

Leo Biagetti, Baltimore, Md. 70-67-69—206.

Ralph Blomquist, Eagle Rock, Calif., Jack Harden of El Calif. 73-70-65—208.

Jack Harden, El Paso, Tex. 68-71-69—208.

Wally Ulrich, Austin, Minn. 71-70-69—210.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Ardmore, Okla. 69-70-7—210.

Jimmy Clark, Laguna Beach, Calif. 68-73-70—211.

Joe More Jr., White Plains, N. Y. 69-70-72—211.

Bill Ogden, Chicago, 71-71-70—212.

Willie Goggin, Upper Montclair, N. J. 71-70-71—212.

Ostler's time today was 2:31.97 minutes for the two runs. His first run was made in 1:14.91 and his second in 1:17.06, another German team was second. Five teams were entered.

Johnson's total time today was 2:33.26 with runs of 1:17.37 and 1:15.89. Riding with him were Sgt. Pat Biesiadecki, Ware, Mass.; Lt. Joseph Smith, Cullman, Okla., and Capt. Hubert Miller, Saranac Lake, N.Y.

The race was run over the same course that claimed the life of Felix Endrich of Switzerland, former two-man bob world champion, during a practice run Jan.31.

If so, then be on hand at the Central High School gymnasium Tuesday night when Central's cage teams take on Crowville High in a double header.

Central High of Franklin parish is coming up with something unique in basketball promotions with an auction sale of farm products between the two games. The auction will culminate the school's polio drive and all proceeds will go to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

People of the community are bringing in hay, chickens, oats, cotton seed, corn, pies, cakes and anything else they feel will be salable. Sponsors are urging every one attending to bring something to sell and be prepared to take something home.

LEAGUE FOLDS, TV GETS BLAME

Interstate Joins Growing List Of Defunct Eastern Loops

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 7 (AP)— George M. Trautman avoided pointing an accusing finger at television today, but declared "there must be a reason" for last night's folding of the 14-year-old Class B Interstate League.

The red-haired president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (the minors), commenting on Interstate President Gerald Nugent's remark that the loop "can no longer compete with television," observed:

"I'm not saying what caused the Interstate to disband. The folks over there know the reasons much better than I.

"But there must be a reason—a big reason — hy, in this era of prosperity, a fine league like the Interstate can't make a go of it. It's just too bad.

"With the passing of the Interstate, that whole area is rather barren of minor league ball. The Eastern Shore, the North Atlantic, Colonial and New England leagues have disappeared — along with Jersey City and Newark of the International.

"Only the International Eastern and Pony leagues, all on the fringe, are still operating."

Trautman said there was still a "thin chance" that some method of keeping the Interstate in existence might be found, but that it was a remote one.

Bill Jennings Seeking Eskimo Coaching Post

EDMONTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — Bill Jennings, 36, member of the coaching staff of the University of Oklahoma, will arrive in Edmonton late Monday for talks with Eskimo football club officials.

Place Payoff On Long Shot Second Avenue Is $26.40

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7 (AP)—B. W. Landy's Spur On, a stretch-running son of the famed Whirlaway, thrilled 12,000 racing fans at the New Orleans Fair Grounds today by winning the $10,000 - added Louisiana Handicap with a blazing finish.

The five-year-old horse was far off the pace in the early running as M. and J. Bauer's Sedgeview set a torrid pace with a 1:12 1-5 mark at the six furlong mark.

But Jockey Otto Grohs gave the Landy entry the go-ahead sign as the field of 12 swung into the stretch and Spur On took the lead to win the 10th running of the handicap by three lengths.

Spur On's time for the mile and 1-16 feature was a sparkling 1:45 4-5.

Installed as favorite by the crowd which bet $608,707 on the nine-race program, Spur On returned $4.80, $4 and $3.20. Second Avenue, a 26-1 shot in the betting, paid $26.40 and $12.80 and Thelma Berger $5.

MISS RILEY COPS 3 AND 2 VICTORY

Beats Pat Garner In Finals Of Palm Beach Women's Golf

Miss Riley took this event in 1951 and was co-favored all this week with Miss Garner, the medalist.

The meeting between the two did not produce the expected fireworks, however, for Miss Riley out-steadied her fellow Texan in an over par match at the Palm Beach Golf Club.

Miss Garner went one up on the third hole when Miss Riley flubbed a chip shot. On the fifth, Miss Garner's second shot went into a palm tree and her third into a trap. Miss Riley was on in two and Miss Garner picked up, handing the hole to her rival.

The turn of events apparently unnerved Miss Garner for she lost the next hole with a six to her opponent's four.

Then Miss Garner steadied and they halved the next three holes and made the turn with Miss Riley one up.

On the back nine Miss Riley really hit her stride and won the first three holes with pars for a four up margin.

Miss Garner rallied, carding a two on the short 15th, but a pair of sixes on the 16th closed out the match.

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—There's a boom and a depression going on in boxing today and how the whole thing is going to wind up nobody seems to know.

That new debbil, television, has the boxing boys in just as big a whirl as the bigwigs in baseball and football.

The boxing boom is on in popularity. Television webs spin across the country with four boxing TV shows a week, increasing the number of fans by the thousands every showing A fifth network show may be operating soon.

But the rust is gathering on the turnstiles in the arenas and the depression is heavy in the small clubs, spawning grounds for fistic talent. One by one the clubs have been falling by the wayside. The Broadway Arena, St. Nicholas Arena, Ridgewood Grove, in New York City, have given up the ghost. Of 22 clubs operating in New York state last year, only seven are in business now and only four schedule regular shows.

Cleveland, Buffalo, Syracuse, Pittsburgh, Scranton, Detroit, St. Louis, Washington, Baltimore, St. Paul, New Haven, Hartford, Jersey City, Elizabeth, N. J., Atlantic City, Trenton, Camden and various other cities in New England, once were hotbeds of boxing interest. Most of these cities had clubs operating regularly, many of them once a week. Now few of them have live boxing except for occasional shows.

How you gonna get them out to the fight clubs when they can see it better and for free at home?

Some cities such as New York get boxing shows by TV every day of the week except Sunday. Many cities get boxing programs at least three times a week.

As a result, boxing is being seen and talked about by millions of viewers each week. The sport is riding a tidal wave in popularity. But most of these new fans, made by TV, watch their fights comfortably at home. Result: Much interest, low gate receipts.

At the moment, the sponsoring beer companies, razor blade manufacturers, cigar companies and other advertisers, are taking up the financial slack.

It reached a point last year when the radio-TV sponsors paid more money for fights than came in through the box office. Figures compiled by Ring magazine, the boxing monthly, show that $4,800,000 was distributed last year by the sponsors while only $4,600,000 was collected at the gate.

Gates at Madison Square Garden, the Mecca of boxing, dipped from an average of $29,275 in '51 to $15,726 for '52. Just as in football and baseball, it takes an outstanding attraction to make the turnstiles whir merrily.

To meet the ever present demands for TV, many boxers are signed for main events today who wouldn't have rated a six-rounder in the not-so-long - ago days. In many cases, you can't blame the fight fan for remaining at home. When the late Mike Jacobs, for instance, didn't have a good enough attraction in the old days, he just didn't put on a fight. That's a luxuary the promoter in these TV days can no longer afford.

SIGN VILLANOVA CAGER

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7 —UP— The Philadelphia Warriors of the National Basketball Association Mooney, captain of the Villanova basketball team, will be signed to a professional contract Sunday. The 22-year-old red-haired center played his last game for the Wildcats against Fordham in New York Saturday night.

L. S. U. Asks Bids For Enlargement Of Football Stadium, Alterations

Two-Year-Old Controversy May Be Ready For Last Chapter

By EDWARD W. STAGG

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 7—UP—Bids will be received by Louisiana State University on Feb. 25 for adding about 20,000 seats to its football stadium by enclosing the south end and making some other changes.

This will presumably be the last chapter in a controversy that has raged for more than two years. If bids are received and a contract awarded, further discussion can have only an academic flavor.

This controversy began in the 1950 session of the Legislature.

At that time, LSU was earnestly seeking money for expansion of the medical school in New Orleans and a library on the main campus. These were considered by the University officials to be the primary needs.

At the same time, there was a group interested in getting the stadium enlarged.

The desires of both groups seemed to have merged in a bill providing a $6 million bond issue, based on the excess revenues of the corporation franchise tax which included these three things plus a gym for what was then Northeast Junior College under LSU.

The act stipulated that the medical school expansion should come first, the stadium next, the Northeast Junior College gym next with its cost not to exceed $300,000 and then the library.

This, then, gave LSU $5.7 million for the medical school, stadium and library.

Architects were started immediately on plans for the medical school and stadium, since they were given first priority in the law.

The stadium project was held up when the Korean war prevented a steel allocation until very recently. Plans went ahead for the medical school and a contract was let for it for about $3.4 million.

It was originally estimated the stadium expansion would cost about $1.5 million, which would leave only $800,000 for a library whose cost was estimated at upwards of $3 million.

An effort was made in the last session of the Legislature to change the dedication to place the library ahead of the stadium.

Sen. Charles Tooke of Shreveport introduced a bill to do this. But his bill was reported unfavorably by the Education Committee after university officials differed on the matter.

University president Troy Middleton supported the stadium over the library. But he was opposed by LSU Athletic Director T. P. Heard who stated he was "speaking for the athletic department."

The committee voted against the bill on the stated ground the Legislature in 1950 should not upset the decision of a prior Legislature. An effort to get the bill advanced on the floor of the Senate through a minority report was defeated primarily on this premise.

Baltimore Colts; Pro Draft Choices; Unable To Agree On Salaries

NORMAN, Okla., Feb. 7 (AP)— Don Kellett, general manager of the Baltimore Colts, had another fruitless conference today with All-America halfback Billy Vessels and two of his Oklahoma football teammates.

Kellett failed to come to terms with Vessels, center To mCatlin or fullback Buck McPhail, the Colt's choice in the National Football League pro draft.

The Colts executive left town without scheduling further talks with the trio, Catlin said.

Vessels, Baltimore's No. 1 draft choice, is considering an offer — a very atractive one, he says — from the Edmondton Eskimos of the Canadian League. He said he didn't intend to announce a decision on signing with either team for some time.

The Canadian offer has been reported to be $14,000.

Catlin said no final decision was made by anyone today.

"We were still a little way apart on salary," he commented.

Kellett said he would like to land the trio for Baltimore, but couldn't pay anything astronomical.

Brownies To Have Heavy Night Schedule At Home

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 7 —UP—Bill Veeck announced Saturday night that his St. Louis Browns, first club to hit the road for spring training, will play a heavy night-game schedule at home but a light one on the road because of his "no television" policy.

A party of Brownies led by traveling secretary Bill Durney will entrain Sunday for San Bernardino, Calif., where the club has set up camp at Perris Hill Park.

Veeck announced the Browns will play nine regular season doubleheaders, one holiday twin bill and 49 night games at home. The lone holiday bill is against Chicago on July 4.

Rookie Bob Hertel Inks N. Y. Yank Contract

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP) — Bob Hertel, 22 - year - old rookie outfielder, returned his signed 1953 contract, the New York Yankees announced today.

Hertel, a former star athlete at the University of Southern California, batted .393 for MacAlester of the Sooner State League last year after joining the club in midseason. He led the loop with 22 home rums.

LSU RUNS INTO GREENIE FREEZE BUT WINS, 48-31

Bayou Bengals Roll On Unbeaten In Conference Play

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 7 (AP) —Louisiana State University kept its spotless Southeastern Conference basketball record intact here tonight by downing arch rival Tulane 48-31 in a deathly slow game that brought boos and catcalls from a near capacity crowd of 11,000.

The Tigers, used to scoring 80 and 90 points a game, ran into an ever patient, seldom-shooting Tulane quintet that hoped to eke out a victory by making the opposition come to them.

The Greenies' famed fast break turned out to be the misnomer of the year as Coach Cliff Wells, ever a strategist, resorted to a new offensive weapon — basketball in waltz time.

From beginning to end the New Orleans team slowed the game to a literal walk, concentrating on a monotonous, methodical workout in holding, dribbling and passing.

It was L. S. U.'s seventh straight S. E. C. victory against no defeats and their 15th victory in 16 starts, and it was also their lowest scoring effort of the campaign. Tulane had only five field goals.

Pittsburgh Sportsmen No Longer Interested In Acquiring Cardinals

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 7 (AP) — Charles M. Morris, Pittsburgh real estate operator, said today he no longer is interested in heading a syndicate to purchase the St. Louis Cardinals.

Earlier this week Morris said his syndicate had been offered the franchise for $4,250,000. Fred Saigh, Cardinal owner who is under a 15-month prison sentence for income tax invasion, denied he had opened negotiations with the Morris group but said the price quoted was about right.

Johnny Gonsalves Will Meet Davis At Boston

BOSTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — Johnny Gonsalves, Oakland, Calif., lightweight title contender, and Henry Davis of Los Angeles, today were matched for a 10-round feature boxing bout at The Arena on Feb. 21 by the Callahan A. C. It will be televised nationally with New England blacked out.

Harper, Biagetti Tie For El Paso Lead

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The sportsmen who take racoon hunting seriously are going to have to be just as serious about assistance in enforcing Louisiana's laws concerning wild 'coon hunting if they want to enjoy the privilege of following their hounds on the chase these nights.

Racoon hunters are on probation in Louisiana which recently declared open season on the game for sportsmen, and wildlife rangers, the new name for game wardens in the state, inform us that the 'coon hunters are their own worst enemies. The season has been open only a few short weeks and already the violations are piling up.

Jewel P. McKeller, wildlife ranger and state investigator for the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission, has pointed out that although wild 'coon hunts are now permitted, the law forbids the taking of 'coon with any weapon. That's where the 'coon hunters are slipping up. They're using all kinds of weapons to take the game or force it out of trees.

"Some hunters seem to feel the word 'weapon' is restricted to guns, "McKeller said. "So, they are taking other means which are still violations. We've caught hunters using Roman candles to drive 'coon out of trees, others shooting firecrackers with slingshots, and others using clubs. All are violations of the law.

"For sport, hunters are permitted the chase and the pleasure they get listening to their hounds run. If a hunter wants to drive a 'coon out of a tree, he may climb up and do the job barehanded. Then it becomes sport for the 'coon. Few hunters, most of them greenhorns, relish moving in on a wild coon with anything but his bare hands.

"But the 'coon hunters are going to have to watch their step. There is no law granting them an open season. They have simply been offered a probationary season, and any enactment of law giving them a season will have to come before the next session of state legislature. The violations that are piling up will be placed before the legislature as well, and if our lawmakers feel the hunters have not adhered to the law while on probation they may be reluctant to grant a permanent open season."

With this to think about, you can be sure Eddie Ross, publisher of the 'coon hunters' magazine "Mountain Music," is going to take advantage of a ripe opportunity to warn the racoon sportsmen of the threat to their sport when the "gang" assembles here this week for the United States Championship Wild Coon Hunt.

There are a lot of hunters like Ross who work to protect the 'coon as well as hunt it. They like the chase as well as some other sportsmen like to fish, follow beagles, concentrate on bird hunting, relish a football game, or play checkers. Every man to his own liking, but every game has a set of rules. If you can't obey the rules, you can't qualify.

While we're on this 'coon business our local rangers, W. P. Oxley, C. B. "Chili" Baur, and Horace Buckley (the latter removed in the political changes since our meeting Wednesday) are concerned about conflicting trapping seasons that permit an animal on which there is a closed season to be caught in the trap set for another on which the season is open.

They refer to the situation on mink and racoon. The trapping season for mink and racoon opened November 15. The trapping of mink legally ended January 20. 'Coon trapping ends Feburary 15. Sets for both animals are similar. Thus, although the mink season is closed, many are still being caught in 'coon sets.

As ex-ranger Buckley pointed out, a motto of the game enforcers is "do not destroy the resources of our state." So the trapper must not throw away mink caught out of season in racoon sets, but bring them in to get the full benefit of those resources. The trapper did not wilfully break the law. He was trapping for racoon with the full privilege of his license. It was just unfortunate for the mink. What the rangers are arguing for is a trapping season that will coincide, both opening and closing at the same time.

3-Day U.S. Championship Wild 'Coon Hunt To Be Run Off Here This Week

The United States Championship Wild Coon Hunt will be held here Thursday, Friday and Saturday with hounds from at least a dozen states competing, according to Eddie Ross, publisher of the racoon hunters' magazine "Mountain Music" which is sponsoring the event.

Ross said entries are already assured from South Carolina, Ohio, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Mississippi, Texas, Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky in addition to Louisiana. He said entries are still open and other states are likely to be represented before the races start Thursday night.

As a special attraction, Ross said a race of 1,000 hounds on a prepared trail will be made through the business districts of Monroe and West Monroe Friday afternoon. The parade will be restricted to hounds only, but all types of hounds, whether coon dogs or not, will be accepted. Thus the fox hounds, deer dogs, and beagle hounds are welcomed to parade with their coon-hunting cousins in what Ross declares "will be the biggest concentration of hounds ever assembled in the United States."

The Friday parade is scheduled to begin at 2:30 o'clock at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds in West Monroe and move along Cypress Street to Wood Street, thence to Trenton and north along Trenton to Bridge Street. The parade will cross the Louisville Avenue bridge to Monroe, move up Walnut Street to DeSiard, along DeSiard to Sixth Street, thence to Louisville Avenue and back to the fair grounds.

Headquarters for the wild coon hunt will be established at George McCormick's farm on the "new" Natchitoches Road in West Monroe between the Brown Paper Mill and old Natchitoches Road. Dogs will be raced at night in heats of four, and after the Saturday night races points for all dogs will be totalled, and points against subtracted to determine the winners.

"Mountain Music" will present first and second place trophies and rosettes for two divisions of dogs — registered class and "grade" dog division. Rosettes will also go to dogs finishing third in the two classes.

A meeting of the Ouachita Coon Hunters Association is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night at the Ouachita parish court house to make final plans for the parade and field events.

KROLL, HARDEN, BLOMQUIST TWO STROKES BEHIND

Final Round Of 54-Hole $10,000 Event Comes Up Today

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 7 (AP) — Young Leo Biagetti of Baltimore, making his first dash toward golf glory, and baldish Chandler Harper of Portsmouth Va., a veteran of the tournament trail, went into a tie for the lead in the $10,000 El Paso Open Golf Tournament today with a 54-hole total of 206.

Both shot two-under-par 69 over the blistering 6,309 - yard El Paso Country Club course to take the lead from Jackie Burke who led at the halfway mark with 136., Burke soared to a three-over par 74 today, saying he couldn't putt a lick. It was putting that had shoved him to the front yesterday.

The 25-year-old Biagetti, a chunky blond who never has won a tournament, barely missed a chance to take over undisputed first place when his four-foot putt for a birdie rimmed the cup on the eighteenth green.

Biagetti and Harper, former National P. G. A. champion, shooting some of his best golf, came in in the last threesomes and took over the lead held up to that time by Ralph Blomquist of Eagle Rock, Calif., Jack Harden of El Paso and Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y.

Blomquist was the sensation of the day—he shot a six-under-par 65—the lowest score of the tournament—to make his 54-hole total 208. Blomquist, a giant blond who has won only $92.50 on the winter tour of six tournaments to date, came from far back to surge into a tie for third with Harden and Kroll. Hardin had a 69 today while Kroll shot a 70.

Fourteen of the field of 71 players bettered par as the tournament moved into its last round, several more withdrawals, bringing the total of 30 to date, an unusually high number for any tournament.

Many of those who quit did so in protest over the condition of the course, which is powder dry and has very poor greens. It has rained less than a half-inch here in six months.

So many picked up or withdrew from the tournament that it was reported here that Horton Smith, president of the P. G. A., would make an investigation. Harvey Raynor, tournament supervisor, said he would meet Smith in San Antonio next week where the golf tour moves for the Texas Open but that Smith hadn't informed him of an investigation.

The leaders:

Leo Biagetti, Baltimore, Md. 70-67-69—206.

Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y. 66-72-70—206.

Champion Bobsledder Can Only Finish 3rd In 4-Man Competition

Ostler's time today was 2:31.97 minutes for the two runs. His first run was made in 1:14.91 and his second in 1:17.06, another German team was second. Five teams were entered.

Johnson's total time today was 2:33.26 with runs of 1:17.37 and 1:15.89. Riding with him were Sgt. Pat Biesiadecki, Ware, Mass.; Lt. Joseph Smith, Cullman, Okla., and Capt. Hubert Miller, Saranac Lake, N.Y.

The race was run over the same course that claimed the life of Felix Endrich of Switzerland, former two-man bob world champion, during a practice run Jan.31.

If so, then be on hand at the Central High School gymnasium Tuesday night when Central's cage teams take on Crowville High in a double header.

Central High of Franklin parish is coming up with something unique in basketball promotions with an auction sale of farm products between the two games. The auction will culminate the school's polio drive and all proceeds will go to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

People of the community are bringing in hay, chickens, oats, cotton seed, corn, pies, cakes and anything else they feel will be salable. Sponsors are urging every one attending to bring something to sell and be prepared to take something home.

LEAGUE FOLDS, TV GETS BLAME

Interstate Joins Growing List Of Defunct Eastern Loops

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 7 (AP)— George M. Trautman avoided pointing an accusing finger at television today, but declared "there must be a reason" for last night's folding of the 14-year-old Class B Interstate League.

The red-haired president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (the minors), commenting on Interstate President Gerald Nugent's remark that the loop "can no longer compete with television," observed:

"I'm not saying what caused the Interstate to disband. The folks over there know the reasons much better than I.

"But there must be a reason—a big reason — hy, in this era of prosperity, a fine league like the Interstate can't make a go of it. It's just too bad.

"With the passing of the Interstate, that whole area is rather barren of minor league ball. The Eastern Shore, the North Atlantic, Colonial and New England leagues have disappeared — along with Jersey City and Newark of the International.

"Only the International Eastern and Pony leagues, all on the fringe, are still operating."

Trautman said there was still a "thin chance" that some method of keeping the Interstate in existence might be found, but that it was a remote one.

Bill Jennings Seeking Eskimo Coaching Post

EDMONTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — Bill Jennings, 36, member of the coaching staff of the University of Oklahoma, will arrive in Edmonton late Monday for talks with Eskimo football club officials.

Place Payoff On Long Shot Second Avenue Is $26.40

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7 (AP)—B. W. Landy's Spur On, a stretch-running son of the famed Whirlaway, thrilled 12,000 racing fans at the New Orleans Fair Grounds today by winning the $10,000 - added Louisiana Handicap with a blazing finish.

The five-year-old horse was far off the pace in the early running as M. and J. Bauer's Sedgeview set a torrid pace with a 1:12 1-5 mark at the six furlong mark.

But Jockey Otto Grohs gave the Landy entry the go-ahead sign as the field of 12 swung into the stretch and Spur On took the lead to win the 10th running of the handicap by three lengths.

Spur On's time for the mile and 1-16 feature was a sparkling 1:45 4-5.

Installed as favorite by the crowd which bet $608,707 on the nine-race program, Spur On returned $4.80, $4 and $3.20. Second Avenue, a 26-1 shot in the betting, paid $26.40 and $12.80 and Thelma Berger $5.

MISS RILEY COPS 3 AND 2 VICTORY

Beats Pat Garner In Finals Of Palm Beach Women's Golf

Miss Riley took this event in 1951 and was co-favored all this week with Miss Garner, the medalist.

The meeting between the two did not produce the expected fireworks, however, for Miss Riley out-steadied her fellow Texan in an over par match at the Palm Beach Golf Club.

Miss Garner went one up on the third hole when Miss Riley flubbed a chip shot. On the fifth, Miss Garner's second shot went into a palm tree and her third into a trap. Miss Riley was on in two and Miss Garner picked up, handing the hole to her rival.

The turn of events apparently unnerved Miss Garner for she lost the next hole with a six to her opponent's four.

Then Miss Garner steadied and they halved the next three holes and made the turn with Miss Riley one up.

On the back nine Miss Riley really hit her stride and won the first three holes with pars for a four up margin.

Miss Garner rallied, carding a two on the short 15th, but a pair of sixes on the 16th closed out the match.

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—There's a boom and a depression going on in boxing today and how the whole thing is going to wind up nobody seems to know.

That new debbil, television, has the boxing boys in just as big a whirl as the bigwigs in baseball and football.

The boxing boom is on in popularity. Television webs spin across the country with four boxing TV shows a week, increasing the number of fans by the thousands every showing A fifth network show may be operating soon.

But the rust is gathering on the turnstiles in the arenas and the depression is heavy in the small clubs, spawning grounds for fistic talent. One by one the clubs have been falling by the wayside. The Broadway Arena, St. Nicholas Arena, Ridgewood Grove, in New York City, have given up the ghost. Of 22 clubs operating in New York state last year, only seven are in business now and only four schedule regular shows.

Cleveland, Buffalo, Syracuse, Pittsburgh, Scranton, Detroit, St. Louis, Washington, Baltimore, St. Paul, New Haven, Hartford, Jersey City, Elizabeth, N. J., Atlantic City, Trenton, Camden and various other cities in New England, once were hotbeds of boxing interest. Most of these cities had clubs operating regularly, many of them once a week. Now few of them have live boxing except for occasional shows.

How you gonna get them out to the fight clubs when they can see it better and for free at home?

Some cities such as New York get boxing shows by TV every day of the week except Sunday. Many cities get boxing programs at least three times a week.

As a result, boxing is being seen and talked about by millions of viewers each week. The sport is riding a tidal wave in popularity. But most of these new fans, made by TV, watch their fights comfortably at home. Result: Much interest, low gate receipts.

At the moment, the sponsoring beer companies, razor blade manufacturers, cigar companies and other advertisers, are taking up the financial slack.

It reached a point last year when the radio-TV sponsors paid more money for fights than came in through the box office. Figures compiled by Ring magazine, the boxing monthly, show that $4,800,000 was distributed last year by the sponsors while only $4,600,000 was collected at the gate.

Gates at Madison Square Garden, the Mecca of boxing, dipped from an average of $29,275 in '51 to $15,726 for '52. Just as in football and baseball, it takes an outstanding attraction to make the turnstiles whir merrily.

To meet the ever present demands for TV, many boxers are signed for main events today who wouldn't have rated a six-rounder in the not-so-long - ago days. In many cases, you can't blame the fight fan for remaining at home. When the late Mike Jacobs, for instance, didn't have a good enough attraction in the old days, he just didn't put on a fight. That's a luxuary the promoter in these TV days can no longer afford.

SIGN VILLANOVA CAGER

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7 —UP— The Philadelphia Warriors of the National Basketball Association Mooney, captain of the Villanova basketball team, will be signed to a professional contract Sunday. The 22-year-old red-haired center played his last game for the Wildcats against Fordham in New York Saturday night.

L. S. U. Asks Bids For Enlargement Of Football Stadium, Alterations

By EDWARD W. STAGG

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 7—UP—Bids will be received by Louisiana State University on Feb. 25 for adding about 20,000 seats to its football stadium by enclosing the south end and making some other changes.

This will presumably be the last chapter in a controversy that has raged for more than two years. If bids are received and a contract awarded, further discussion can have only an academic flavor.

This controversy began in the 1950 session of the Legislature.

At that time, LSU was earnestly seeking money for expansion of the medical school in New Orleans and a library on the main campus. These were considered by the University officials to be the primary needs.

At the same time, there was a group interested in getting the stadium enlarged.

The desires of both groups seemed to have merged in a bill providing a $6 million bond issue, based on the excess revenues of the corporation franchise tax which included these three things plus a gym for what was then Northeast Junior College under LSU.

The act stipulated that the medical school expansion should come first, the stadium next, the Northeast Junior College gym next with its cost not to exceed $300,000 and then the library.

This, then, gave LSU $5.7 million for the medical school, stadium and library.

Architects were started immediately on plans for the medical school and stadium, since they were given first priority in the law.

The stadium project was held up when the Korean war prevented a steel allocation until very recently. Plans went ahead for the medical school and a contract was let for it for about $3.4 million.

It was originally estimated the stadium expansion would cost about $1.5 million, which would leave only $800.000 for a library whose cost was estimated at upwards of $3 million.

An effort was made in the last session of the Legislature to change the dedication to place the library ahead of the stadium.

Sen. Charles Tooke of Shreveport introduced a bill to do this. But his bill was reported unfavorably by the Education Committee after university officials differed on the matter.

University president Troy Middleton supported the stadium over the library. But he was opposed by LSU Athletic Director T. P. Heard who stated he was "speaking for the athletic department."

The committee voted against the bill on the stated ground the Legislature in 1950 should not upset the decision of a prior Legislature. An effort to get the bill advanced on the floor of the Senate through a minority report was defeated primarily on this premise.

Baltimore Colts; Pro Draft Choices; Unable To Agree On Salaries

NORMAN, Okla., Feb. 7 (AP)— Don Kellett, general manager of the Baltimore Colts, had another fruitless conference today with All-America halfback Billy Vessels and two of his Oklahoma football teammates.

Kellett failed to come to terms with Vessels, center To mCatlin or fullback Buck McPhail, the Colt's choice in the National Football League pro draft.

The Colts executive left town without scheduling further talks with the trio, Catlin said.

Vessels, Baltimore's No. 1 draft choice, is considering an offer — a very atractive one, he says — from the Edmondton Eskimos of the Canadian League. He said he didn't intend to announce a decision on signing with either team for some time.

The Canadian offer has been reported to be $14,000,

Catlin said no final decision was made by anyone today.

"We were still a little way apart on salary," he commented.

Kellett said he would like to land the trio for Baltimore, but couldn't pay anything astronomical.

Brownies To Have Heavy Night Schedule At Home

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 7 —UP—Bill Veeck announced Saturday night that his St. Louis Browns, first club to hit the road for spring training, will play a heavy night-game schedule at home but a light one on the road because of his "no television" policy.

A party of Brownies led by traveling secretary Bill Durney will entrain Sunday for San Bernardino, Calif., where the club has set up camp at Perris Hill Park.

Veeck announced the Browns will play nine regular season doubleheaders, one holiday twin bill and 49 night games at home. The lone holiday bill is against Chicago on July 4.

Rookie Bob Hertel Inks N. Y. Yank Contract

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP) — Bob Hertel, 22 - year - old rookie outfielder, returned his signed 1953 contract, the New York Yankees announced today.

Hertel, a former star athlete at the University of Southern California, batted .393 for MacAlester of the Sooner State League last year after joining the club in midseason. He led the loop with 22 home runs.

LSU RUNS INTO GREENIE FREEZE BUT WINS, 48-31

Bayou Bengals Roll On Unbeaten In Conference Play

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 7 (AP) —Louisiana State University kept its spotless Southeastern Conference basketball record intact here tonight by downing arch rival Tulane 48-31 in a deathly slow game that brought boos and catcalls from a near capacity crowd of 11,000.

The Tigers, used to scoring 80 and 90 points a game, ran into an ever patient, seldom-shooting Tulane quintet that hoped to eke out a victory by making the opposition come to them.

The Greenies' famed fast break turned out to be the misnomer of the year as Coach Cliff Wells, ever a strategist, resorted to a new offensive weapon — basketball in waltz time.

From beginning to end the New Orleans team slowed the game to a literal walk, concentrating on a monotonous, methodical workout in holding, dribbling and passing.

It was L. S. U.'s seventh straight S. E. C. victory against no defeats and their 15th victory in 16 starts, and it was also their lowest scoring effort of the campaign. Tulane had only five field goals.

Pittsburgh Sportsmen No Longer Interested In Acquiring Cardinals

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 7 (AP) — Charles M. Morris, Pittsburgh real estate operator, said today he no longer is interested in heading a syndicate to purchase the St. Louis Cardinals.

Earlier this week Morris said his syndicate had been offered the franchise for $4,250,000. Fred Saigh, Cardinal owner who is under a 15-month prison sentence for income tax invasion, denied he had opened negotiations with the Morris group but said the price quoted was about right.

CHATHAM QUINT, FOREST SEXTET LOSE IN FINALS

Ouachita's Girls, Calhoun's Boys Consolation Winners

BY TED HECKATHORN

The fifteenth annual Northeast Louisiana State College Invitational Basketball Tournament came to its close last night at the Northeast gym as the Jonesboro-Hodge High School Tigers, in their fifth cage tourney finals clash this season with the Chatham five, emerged victorious for the fourth time, 56-43; and the perennial winners in the girls' section, the Baskin High sextet, which has lost only one game trounced the Forest girls in their division finals, 72-42.

The Chatham boys started with a bang, compiling a 14-3 lead in the first five minutes, but the Harrell Haile - coached Tigers soon closed the gap to lead at the end of the period, 16-13. Never headed again, the J-H quintet maintained a five-to - ten - point lead throughout although tall James Coward and aggressive Lynwood Rhodes of the losers controlled both boards most of the time. The losers' attack was hampered by frequent misses in the final half. The fast breaking Tigers copped numerous interceptions for layup sleeper goals. Harmon Ayres led the J-H attack with 21 points, closely followed by teammate, "Sonny" Montgomery who scored 17 before he was carried off the floor midway in the final quarter with a sprained ankle. For Chatham, Center Cowart was high scorer, hooping six goals and a like number of free throws for 18 points, and little Huel Cooper, who spent more time on his back than his feet during the rough action, was outstanding for Chatham defensively.

Little Opal Williams, who was a sharpshooting, dribbling fighter under the hoops, was Baskin's outstanding player, tallying 25 points in the final although tall Alice Humphreys, with 33, dropped in enough to become the game's high scorer. The Forest girls were handicapped by their lack of size, as the tall Alices, Humphrey and Hammond, controlled most of the rebounds under each hoop for Baskin. Slender Gail Crowe of the Bulldogs, accurate with right and lefthanded pivot shots for Forest, was deadly in the first half, twisting in the first 13 of her team's points and 18 of their first half's 22. The losers were hampered not only by free throw inaccuracy but by their shots rimming the hoop and failing to drop in throughout the game.

Forest's Shirley Drane played an outstanding game offensively and defensively and zipped in three long court shots. With the score 72-38 in favor of Baskin in the final period, Coach Willie Edna Tarbutton cleared her bench, every member of the squad seeing action as the Franklin parish sextet, beaten only once in its last 228 games, scored its ninth straight win since Winnsboro earlier in the season snapped a 218-game winning streak.

Consolation winners were the Calhoun boys and the Ouachita girls. Ouachita missed a chance for both consolations when the Lion quintet forfeited to Calhoun, but the Ouachita sextet started the night's fireworks by tripping Chatham, 41-36, for third place. Joyce Dumas led Ouachita with 21 points, but the game's high scorer was Donna Meredith of Chatham with 26.

Tournament sponsors yesterday decided to make the sportsmanship awards on a team rather than individual basis, and the Lockhart Sport Shop trophies this year went to the Chatham boys and the Fort Necessity girls, the latter team losing out in the first round of play by a three - point margin to Calhoun.

The all-tournament teams were named as follows:

Girls (first team)—Gail Crowe, Forest, Opal Williams, Baskin, and Donna Meredith, Chatham, forwards; Charlotte Brown, Ouachita, Ruby Coronado, Baskin, and Helen Crews, Forest, guards. (Second team): Joyce Dumas, Ouachita, Patsy Calhoun, Calhoun, and Alice Humphreys, Baskin, forwards; Alice Hammond, Baskin, Nell Rogers, Neville, and Annette Hightower, Chatham, guards.

Baskin's girls knocked off Ouachita, 60-38, on yesterdays semi-finals to attain the spot alongside Forest in the title game. Joyce Dumas and Virginia Brenson scored 16 points apiece for C.P.H.S. but couldn't offset the performance of Alice Humphreys, Opal Williams, and Barbara Woods with 23,20 and 17 respectively.

Forest, with a team something like a family outfit, passed the semi-finals by downing the Chatham sextet, 48-59, as Gail Crowe led the way with 25 points, and Shirley Drane contributed 18. High scorers for Chatham were Donna Meredith and Delma Simons with 15 apiece. Two members of the Forest outfit are sisters, Shirley Drane and Mickey Drane, and two others are their cousins, Gail Crowe and Bettye Tidwell.

The boys from Jonesboro-Hodge produced "Sonny" Montgomery and Jack Ford, with 18 points apiece, to lead the defeat of Ouachita, 49-42, in their semi - final scrap. Barney Fuller and Tommy Sanders sparked Ouachita with 14 and 13 respectively.

Lloyd Crocker, Calhoun, was high scorer in the other boys' semi-final with 18 points, but his club bowed just the same to Chatham, 45-38, as the winners produced James Cowart with 17 points.

In the boys' quarter-finals, played during the morning, Jonesboro-Hodge, sparked by H. Darick with 11 points, defeated Columbia, 64-42, as Carl McLemore also hit for 11 for the losers; Ouachita, headed by Walter Bennett with 18, eliminated Baskin, 52-38, although the losers had the game's high scorer in Troy Rushing with 25; Chatham followed Cowart's 19 - point pace for a 47-31 win over Neville of Monroe as Gene Barham led the Tigers with nine; and Joe White contributed 15 points in sparking Calhoun past Simsboro, 46-40, with Rex Bell heading the losers with 14.

Gets Nod Over Chanlea In Prep For Santa Anita Derby

Appendectomy Won't Cause Joost Trouble

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 7 (AP) — Decorated went one up on Chanlea in their battle for midwinter 3-year-old honors today, and at the same time made it plain he'll be a top contender in the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby two weeks from now.

Decorated, owned by Andrew J. Crevolin, automobile dealer in nearby Alhambra, went to the front early in the $25,000 San Felipe Handicap at Santa Anita Park today and stayed there to win by two lengths, with Chanlea second and Social Outcast third.

Decorated beat Chanlea in a warmup 10 days ago, after dropping their first match in mid-January. Today Jockey Johnny Longden left no doubt of the superiority of his charge. He held off the bids of a field of 10 others in the stretch without difficulty, paying $6.40, $3.30 and $3. Chanlea paid $4.40 and $3.20, Social Outcast $6 to show. Time for the mile and one-sixteenth was 1:44 1-5.

In the day's second feature, the $20,000 San arcos, Grover B., a 6-1 shot, beat the favored Trusting, First Glance and Blue Reading in a prep for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap Feb. 28. Jockey Eddie Arcaro kept Grover B. in front all the way, and the others couldn't catch him.

His time for the mile was 1:36 4-5 and he paid $14.10, $6.70 and $3.70. Trusting returned $5 and $3 for second. First Glance $2.80 to show.

SOLONS DEMOTE RANDY GUMPERT TO LOS ANGELES

Veteran Major League Hurler Sold To Coast League

WASHINGTON, Feb., 7 (AP)— Veteran pitcher Randy Gumpert, who worked for three American League clubs in the past two seasons, was sold today by the Washington Senators to Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League.

Last year, with the Boston Red Sox and Senators, Gumpert won five games and lost nine. His an earned run average was 4.21 a game.

In 1951 Gumpert—Randall Pennington Gumpert is the way he was christened—won nine and lost eight for the Chicago White Sox.

Gumpert is 35 years old, 6 feet 3, weighs 205 and lives in Monocacy Station, Pa.

The senators also announced they still have 11 players who haven't signed their contracts.

Among those still unsigned are Outfielder Gil Coan, Catcher Mickey Grasso, Third Baseman Eddie Yost and three Cubans, Frank Campos, Sandy Consuegra and Raul Sanche."

Of these, Yost appears to be the most troublesome. He habitually doesn't get around to signing a contract until practive actually starts.

As for the Cubans—Campos, who is an outfielder, and Consuegra and Sanchez, who are pitchers—the Senators have have no worries. Howie Williams, the Senators' publicity man, explained it this way: "They never answer their mail. I think they wait until they have a pile of letters and then get them all translated at once."

Williams figures the pile of letters is about translation size now, and that the club will be hearing from the Cubans almost any day.

NAVY DROPS PITT

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 7 (AP)— Navy's high scoring duo of Don Lange and John Clune led the Middies to a 77-56 victory over Pittsburgh today for their 10th straight home court basketball triumph of the season.

Holdout Headaches Hitting Yankees Hardest; Other Clubs' Woes Trivial

Dodgers, Kings Of National Loop, First To Fill Roster

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Feb., 7 (AP)— The biggest headache belongs to the New York Yankees but at least five other major league baseball clubs face possible holdout worries before spring training gets in full swing.

The situation is getting desperate for the Yankees, prosperous world champions four years in a row who have about a million dollars to dish out in salaries. They have signed only two regulars—catcher Yogi Berra and Infielder Gil McDougald. The rest of the high-priced talent is among the 24 not yet under contract.

Balking ball players don't become official holdouts until March 1, but other teams have recalcitrant athletes who threaten to qualify for that category with all the trimmings.

Outstanding in this group is Ralph Kiner, perennial home run king of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Because of his slump (.244 and 37 homers), Ralph has been asked, according to reports, to take a 25 per cent cut in his 175,000 salary. Kiner will accept a light slash—maybe $10,000 —but not the limit amount, he says.

Failure to meet terms, meanwhile, is holding up the possible sale of the slugging Buc to another team. The Cincinnati Reds appear most interested.

The St. Louis Cardinals, already awaiting transfer of ownership because of Fred Saigh's tax conviction, have signed 32 of 42 players but anticipate contract trouble from Pitcher Gerry Staley and Catcher Del Rice, both of whom have spurned first offers.

Over in the American League, the Cleveland Indians are worried about the reluctance of Pitcher Mike Garcia, infielder Roberto Avila and outfielder Larry Doby to see eye-to-eye with management in negotiations. The Detroit Tigers are worried about salary demands of pitcher Hal Newhouser. And the Philadelphia Athletics figure they may have to do some tall talking to satisfy Eddie Robinson.

Robinson is the fine first baseman who came to the A's in a deal that sent Ferris Fain to the Chicago White Sox. Robinson is said to be not particularly happy about the prospect of moving.

A Team-by - team check of the major leagues today showed almost 200 players still unsigned—or more than a third of the talent which should be brought to terms before spring training.

In contrast to the Yankees, who are paying the price of success with everybody wanting a big sop of the gravy, the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers this week became the first major league club to sign all their players.

They got the usually relucant, Billy Cox on the line and, according to reports, signed their full roster without going over last year's $398,834 payroll.

Main salary balker among the Yankees so far has been Allie Reynolds, ace righthanded pitcher, who is asking a $42,000 paycheck to match that of his teammate, Vic Raschi. Old John Mize, hero of the World Series, is objecting to a cut in his $20,000 salary and most of the others want good raises. But the Yank management says it's tough, with the gate 300,000 off last year.

Next to the Dodgers, the Chicago White Sox have been the most successful in getting their men on the line. They have signed all but two—outfielder Minnie Minoso, who hasn't answered a letter giving him "a good raise," and Second Baseman Nellie Fox, who promises to sign soon.

The St. Louis Browns, with 32 in the fold, have only five to go, with Clint Courtney and Duane Pilletti the front line performers still out. The Chicago Cubs have come to terms with 38 of 45 players but still must satisfy such men as pitchers Bob Rush, Warren Hacker, Paul Minner and Jim Willis and Outfielder Frankie Baumholtz.

Nichols Motors Goes To Bastrop For Last Tuneup For Vagabonds

The Nichols Motors independent basketball team journeys to Bastrop tomorrow night to take on a Bastrop paper mill quintet in the final contest for the Monroe aggregation before it meets the touring Vagabond Kings of Detroit, Mich., here Monday night, February 16, at Ouachita Parish High School gymnasium.

The return of Bill Spivey, former Kentucky All-America, to the Kings has proven a big boost to the Vagabond's appearance here. Spivey missed 17 days while fighting a perjury charge in New York courts as a result of the college cage scandals, but in his first game after rejoining the club he scored 32 points.

The Vagabonds have won 77 games this season while losing only five. The five defeats came while Spivey, a towering seven-footer, was out of the lineup.

OLSON NOTCHES 8TH WIN IN ROW

America's Top Middleweight Easily Whips Norm Hayes

BOSTON, Feb. 7 (AP)— Carl (Bobo) Olson, America's top ranking middleweight, chalked up his eighth straight victory tonight by soundly drubbing Norman Hayes of Boston in a ten-round bout telecast coast to coast from the garden. Olson, a 2 ½ to 1 favorite, weighed 162 ½ to Hays' 160.

Scoring consistently with right hand lands and flashing combinations to head and body, the San Francisco Battler by way of Honolulu, pulled away in the sixth round to win easily.

The votes, all favoring Olson, were: - referee Eddie Curley, 99-93; judge, Joe Heirty 97-95; and judge Joe Santarpio 99-93.

The Associated Press score card had Olson far in front on points 98-88, and in rounds, eight to two.

Hayes fought in 20-second flurries through most of the fight to bring roars from the crowd, while Olson threw punches at a lively clip every minute of the fight.

ODELL FILES BID FOR JOB AS HEAD COACH AT SMU

Bill Edwards Also Applies Soon After Leaving Vandy

DALLAS, Feb. 7 (AP) — Southern Methodist University today put down another name in a lengthening list of applicants for its head football coaching job.

Odell put in his bid today in a long - distance telephone call to Matty Bell, S. M. U. athletic director.

Odell started his coaching career under Dick Harlow at Harvard, moved to Yale as head coach and then switched to Washington U.

"The list of applicants for the post now exceeds 50," Bell said today. "I am collecting all the data available on each candidate for the job, and all applications will be submitted to the faculty athletic committee." The committee meets Tuesday.

Bill Edwards got his application in for the S. M. U. head football coaching job yesterday immediately after resigning as head coach at Vanderbilt University.

Edwards quit at Vanderbilt after he protested the high pressure of modern day football and the demand of the alumni for winning teams. H. N. (Rusty) Russell gave substantially the same reason when he resigned at S. M. U. Sunday.

Three other applications reached Bell's desk yesterday.

They were John P. Michelosen, former coach of the professional Pittsburgh Steelers; Paul Governali, chief assistant of Lou Little at Columbia University, and Marvin (Preacher) Bass, assistant coach at the University of Nebraska.

Bell said most of the men recommended do not want to jeopardize their present jobs making an open application. Instead they've asked a friend—usually another coach—to put in their names.

Connecticut Cage Team Uninjured In Bus Fire

STRATFORD, Conn., Feb. 7 (AP) —The University of Connecticut basketball team, en route to Philadelphia to play St. Joseph's College tonight, was delayed here today when a bus caught fire.

The 22 players escaped without injury and salvaged most of their luggage, including heir uniforms. The bus was not destroyed, but the luggage compartment was damaged.

The players were taken to Bridgeport in taxicabs, and resumed their trip by rail.

Ouachita's Girls, Calhoun's Boys Consolation Winners

BY TED HECKATHORN

The fifteenth annual Northeast Louisiana State College Invitational Basketball Tournament came to its close last night at the Northeast gym as the Jonesboro-Hodge High School Tigers, in their fifth cage tourney finals clash this season with the Chatham five, emerged victorious for the fourth time, 56-43; and the perennial winners in the girls' section, the Baskin High sextet, which has lost only one game trounced the Forest girls in their division finals, 72-42.

The Chatham boys started with a bang, compiling a 14-3 lead in the first five minutes, but the Harrell Haile - coached Tigers soon closed the gap to lead at the end of the period, 16-13. Never headed again, the J-H quintet maintained a five-to - ten - point lead throughout although tall James Coward and aggressive Lynwood Rhodes of the losers controlled both boards most of the time. The losers' attack was hampered by frequent misses in the final half. The fast breaking Tigers copped numerous interceptions for layup sleeper goals. Harmon Ayres led the J-H attack with 21 points, closely followed by teammate, "Sonny" Montgomery who scored 17 before he was carried off the floor midway in the final quarter with a sprained ankle. For Chatham, Center Cowart was high scorer, hooping six goals and a like number of free throws for 18 points, and little Huel Cooper, who spent more time on his back than his feet during the rough action, was outstanding for Chatham defensively.

Little Opal Williams, who was a sharpshooting, dribbling fighter under the hoops, was Baskin's outstanding player, tallying 25 points in the final although tall Alice Humphreys, with 33, dropped in enough to become the game's high scorer. The Forest girls were handicapped by their lack of size, as the tall Alices, Humphrey and Hammond, controlled most of the rebounds under each hoop for Baskin. Slender Gail Crowe of the Bulldogs, accurate with right and lefthanded pivot shots for Forest, was deadly in the first half, twisting in the first 13 of her team's points and 18 of their first half's 22. The losers were hampered not only by free throw inaccuracy but by their shots rimming the hoop and failing to drop in throughout the game.

Forest's Shirley Drane played an outstanding game offensively and defensively and zipped in three long court shots. With the score 72-38 in favor of Baskin in the final period, Coach Willie Edna Tarbutton cleared her bench, every member of the squad seeing action as the Franklin parish sextet, beaten only once in its last 228 games, scored its ninth straight win since Winnsboro earlier in the season snapped a 218-game winning streak.

Consolation winners were the Calhoun boys and the Ouachita girls. Ouachita missed a chance for both consolations when the Lion quintet forfeited to Calhoun, but the Ouachita sextet started the night's fireworks by tripping Chatham, 41-36, for third place. Joyce Dumas led Ouachita with 21 points, but the game's high scorer was Donna Meredith of Chatham with 26.

Tournament sponsors yesterday decided to make the sportsmanship awards on a team rather than individual basis, and the Lockhart Sport Shop trophies this year went to the Chatham boys and the Fort Necessity girls, the latter team losing out in the first round of play by a three - point margin to Calhoun.

The all-tournament teams were named as follows:

Girls (first team)—Gail Crowe, Forest, Opal Williams, Baskin, and Donna Meredith, Chatham, forwards; Charlotte Brown, Ouachita, Ruby Coronado, Baskin, and Helen Crews, Forest, guards. (Second team): Joyce Dumas, Ouachita, Patsy Calhoun, Calhoun, and Alice Humphreys, Baskin, forwards; Alice Hammond, Baskin, Nell Rogers, Neville, and Annette Hightower, Chatham, guards.

Baskin's girls knocked off Ouachita, 60-38, on yesterdays semi-finals to attain the spot alongside Forest in the title game. Joyce Dumas and Virginia Brenson scored 16 points apiece for O.P.H.S. but couldn't offset the performance of Alice Humphreys, Opal Williams, and Barbara Woods with 23,20 and 17 respectively.

Forest, with a team something like a family outfit, passed the semi-finals by downing the Chatham sextet, 48-39, as Gail Crowe led the way with 25 points, and Shirley Drane contributed 18. High scorers for Chatham were Donna Meredith and Delma Simons with 15 apiece. Two members of the Forest outfit are sisters, Shirley Drane and Mickey Drane, and two others are their cousins, Gail Crowe and Bettye Tidwell.

The boys from Jonesboro-Hodge produced "Sonny" Montgomery and Jack Ford, with 18 points apiece, to lead the defeat of Ouachita, 49-42, in their semi - final scrap. Barney Fuller and Tommy Sanders sparked Ouachita with 14 and 13 respectively.

Lloyd Crocker, Calhoun, was high scorer in the other boys' semi-final with 18 points, but his club bowed just the same to Chatham, 45-38, as the winners produced James Cowart with 17 points.

In the boys' quarter-finals, played during the morning, Jonesboro-Hodge, sparked by H. Darick with 11 points, defeated Columbia, 64-42, as Carl McLemore also hit for 11 for the losers; Ouachita, headed by Walter Bennett with 18, eliminated Baskin, 52-38, although the losers had the game's high scorer in Troy Rushing with 25; Chatham followed Cowart's 19 - point pace for a 47-31 win over Neville of Monroe as Gene Barham led the Tigers with nine; and Joe White contributed 15 points in sparking Calhoun past Simsboro, 46-40, with Rex Bell heading the losers with 14.

SOLONS DEMOTE RANDY GUMPERT TO LOS ANGELES

Veteran Major League Hurler Sold To Coast League

WASHINGTON, Feb., 7 (AP)— Veteran pitcher Randy Gumpert, who worked for three American League clubs in the past two seasons, was sold today by the Washington Senators to Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League.

Last year, with the Boston Red Sox and Senators, Gumpert won five games and lost nine. His an earned run average was 4.21 a game.

In 1951 Gumpert—Randall Pennington Gumpert is the way he was christened—won nine and lost eight for the Chicago White Sox.

Gumpert is 35 years old, 6 feet 3, weighs 205 and lives in Monocacy Station, Pa.

The senators also announced they still have 11 players who haven't signed their contracts.

Among those still unsigned are Outfielder Gil Coan, Catcher Mickey Grasso, Third Baseman Eddie Yost and three Cubans, Frank Campos, Sandy Consuegra and Raul Sanche."

Of these, Yost appears to be the most troublesome. He habitually doesn't get around to signing a contract until practive actually starts.

As for the Cubans—Campos, who is an outfielder, and Consuegra and Sanchez, who are pitchers—the Senators have have no worries. Howie Williams, the Senators' publicity man, explained it this way: "They never answer their mail. I think they wait until they have a pile of letters and then get them all translated at once."

Williams figures the pile of letters is about translation size now, and that the club will be hearing from the Cubans almost any day.

NAVY DROPS PITT

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 7 (AP)—Navy's high scoring duo of Don Lange and John Clune led the Middies to a 77-56 victory over Pittsburgh today for their 10th straight home court basketball triumph of the season.

Holdout Headaches Hitting Yankees Hardest; Other Clubs' Woes Trivial

Dodgers, Kings Of National Loop, First To Fill Roster

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Feb., 7 (AP)— The biggest headache belongs to the New York Yankees but at least five other major league baseball clubs face possible holdout worries before spring training gets in full swing.

The situation is getting desperate for the Yankees, prosperous world champions four years in a row who have about a million dollars to dish out in salaries. They have signed only two regulars—catcher Yogi Berra and Infielder Gil McDougald. The rest of the high-priced talent is among the 24 not yet under contract.

Balking ball players don't become official holdouts until March 1, but other teams have recalcitrant athletes who threaten to qualify for that category with all the trimmings.

Outstanding in this group is Ralph Kiner, perennial home run king of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Because of his slump (.244 and 37 homers), Ralph has been asked, according to reports, to take a 25 per cent cut in his 175,000 salary. Kiner will accept a light slash—maybe $10,000 --but not the limit amount, he says.

Failure to meet terms, meanwhile, is holding up the possible sale of the slugging Buc to another team. The Cincinnati Reds appear most interested.

The St. Louis Cardinals, already awaiting transfer of ownership because of Fred Saigh's tax conviction, have signed 32 of 42 players but anticipate contract trouble from Pitcher Gerry Staley and Catcher Del Rice, both of whom have spurned first offers.

Over in the American League, the Cleveland Indians are worried about the reluctance of Pitcher Mike Garcia, Infielder Roberto Avila and outfielder Larry Doby to see eye-to-eye with management in negotiations. The Detroit Tigers are worried about salary demands of pitcher Hal Newhouser. And the Philadelphia Athletics figure they may have to do some tall talking to satisfy Eddie Robinson.

Robinson is the fine first baseman who came to the A's in a deal that sent Ferris Fain to the Chicago White Sox. Robinson is said to be not particularly happy about the prospect of moving.

A Team-by - team check of the major leagues today showed almost 200 players still unsigned—or more than a third of the talent which should be brought to terms before spring training.

In contrast to the Yankees, who are paying the price of success with everybody wanting a big sop of the gravy, the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers this week became the first major league club to sign all their players.

They got the usually reluctant, Billy Cox on the line and, according to reports, signed their full roster without going over last year's $398,834 payroll.

Main salary balker among the Yankees so far has been Allie Reynolds, ace righthanded pitcher, who is asking a $42,000 paycheck to match that of his teammate, Vic Raschi. Old John Mize, hero of the World Series, is objecting to a cut in his $20,000 salary and most of the others want good raises. But the Yank management says it's tough, with the gate 300,000 off last year.

Next to the Dodgers, the Chicago White Sox have been the most successful in getting their men on the line. They have signed all but two--outfielder Minnie Minoso, who hasn't answered a letter giving him "a good raise," and Second Baseman Nellie Fox, who promises to sign soon.

The St. Louis Browns, with 32 in the fold, have only five to go, with Clint Courtney and Duane Pillett the front line performers still out. The Chicago Cubs have come to terms with 38 of 45 players but still must satisfy such men as pitchers Bob Rush, Warren Hacker, Paul Minner and Jim Willis and Outfielder Frankie Baumholtz.

Nichols Motors Goes To Bastrop For Last Tuneup For Vagabonds

The Nichols Motors Independent basketball team journeys to Bastrop tomorrow night to take on a Bastrop paper mill quintet in the final contest for the Monroe aggregation before it meets the touring Vagabond Kings of Detroit, Mich., here Monday night, February 16, at Ouachita Parish High School gymnasium.

The return of Bill Spivey, former Kentucky All-America, to the Kings has proven a big boost to the Vagabond's appearance here. Spivey missed 17 days while fighting a perjury charge in New York courts as a result of the college cage scandals, but in his first game after rejoining the club he scored 32 points.

The Vagabonds have won 77 games this season while losing only five. The five defeats came while Spivey, a towering seven-footer, was out of the lineup.

OLSON NOTCHES 8TH WIN IN ROW

America's Top Middleweight Easily Whips Norm Hayes

BOSTON, Feb. 7 (AP)— Carl (Bobo) Olson, America's top ranking middleweight, chalked up his eighth straight victory tonight by soundly drubbing Norman Hayes of Boston in a ten-round bout telecast coast to coast from the garden. Olson, a 2 ½ to 1 favorite, weighed 162 ½ to Hays' 160.

Scoring consistently with right hand lands and flashing combinations to head and body, the San Francisco Battler by way of Honolulu, pulled away in the sixth round to win easily.

The votes, all favoring Olson, were: - referee Eddie Curley, 99-93; judge, Joe Heirty 97-95; and judge Joe Santarpio 99-93.

The Associated Press score card had Olson far in front on points 98-88, and in rounds, eight to two.

Hayes fought in 20-second flurries through most of the fight to bring roars from the crowd, while Olson threw punches at a lively clip every minute of the fight.

ODELL FILES BID FOR JOB AS HEAD COACH AT SMU

Bill Edwards Also Applies Soon After Leaving Vandy

DALLAS, Feb. 7 (AP) — Southern Methodist University today put down another name in a lengthening list of applicants for its head football coaching job.

Odell put in his bid today in a long - distance telephone call to Matty Bell, S. M. U. athletic director.

Odell started his coaching career under Dick Harlow at Harvard, moved to Yale as head coach and then switched to Washington U.

"The list of applicants for the post now exceeds 50," Bell said today. "I am collecting all the data available on each candidate for the job, and all applications will be submitted to the faculty athletic committee." The committee meets Tuesday.

Bill Edwards got his application in for the S. M. U. head football coaching job yesterday immediately after resigning as head coach at Vanderbilt University.

Edwards quit at Vanderbilt after he protested the high pressure of modern day football and the demand of the alumni for winning teams. H. N. (Rusty) Russell gave substantially the same reason when he resigned at S. M. U. Sunday.

Three other applications reached Bell's desk yesterday.

They were John P. Michelosen, former coach of the professional Pittsburgh Steelers; Paul Governali, chief assistant of Lou Little at Columbia University, and Marvin (Preacher) Bass, assistant coach at the University of Nebraska.

Bell said most of the men recommended do not want to jeopardize their present jobs making an open application. Instead they've asked a friend—usually another coach—to put in their names.

Connecticut Cage Team Uninjured In Bus Fire

STRATFORD, Conn., Feb. 7 (AP) —The University of Connecticut basketball team, en route to Philadelphia to play St. Joseph's College tonight, was delayed here today when a bus caught fire.

The 22 players escaped without injury and salvaged most of their luggage, including heir uniforms. The bus was not destroyed, but the luggage compartment was damaged.

The players were taken to Bridgeport in taxicabs, and resumed their trip by rail.

CLASSY NEVILLE GUARD AWARDED 3RD TEAM BERTH

Manchester Of Jena Listed With Honorable Mentions

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 7 — (Special) — Twenty - one hundred and fifty-five senior football players on high school teams from every state in the union and Hawaiian Islands have been nominated for places on the sixth annual National High School All - America football squad, Mose Simms, chairman of the football committee for the Wigwam Wisemen of America, announced today. Seven teams have been named, and a roster of 681 boys were listed as honorable mentions.

One thousand and eight daily newspapers and 1,080 radio and television stations sent in nominations. This is the most complete coverage ever made on high school football. Simms traveled over 12,000 miles and witnessed or observed workouts of 217 high school football teams in 1952. The opinions of college coaches, football talent scouts, officials and high school athletic directors, along with the newspaper reporters, radio broadcasters and television sports announcers helped in charting the 1952 squad.

Paring the list of nominees down to seven first teams was no easy task. Fortunately, the men that report on the games, officials that worked in the games and the interested athletic officials who took part in assembling the squad took every game for the season played by each team into consideration.

Heading the list of nominees from Louisiana were Fullback Tommy Davis of Shreveport's Fair Park High School, Guard Leland Sims of Monroe's Neville High School, and Tackle Henry "Red" Deloney of Ruston High School.

Davis was a unanimous choice on Louisiana's Class AA all-state team, while Sims and Deloney were all - state for the second consecutive year on their state's Class A outfit. Davis made the Wigwam Wisemen's All - America first team, Sims is on the third team, and Deloney is on the sixth.

Other Louisiana talent on the honorable mention list is Tackle Harley Brown, Shreveport; Back Charles Barham, Ruston; Tackle Nat Peveto, Sulphur; Back Raymond Manchester, Jena; Back Bobby Kimball, Houma; Tackle Bob Arnoult, New Orleans; Back Lou Deutschman, New Orleans; Tackle Donald Boudreaux, Houma and Back Winston Turner, Baton Rouge.

The sixth annual all - star prep football game will be played August 26 of this year in Crump Stadium, Memphis, Tenn. All boys on the first seven teams and honorable mention list are eligible to play in the game provided they meet the requirements of the selecting committee, the prep game coaches and have graduated from high school or have completed their high school athletic eligibility.

Bridgewater Grid Coach Resigns; Enters Business

Chandler's resignation was announced by Warren D. Bowman, president of the college. He resigned to accept a position with the Virginia-North Carolina Chemical Company in Greensboro, N. C.

"The decision to quit coaching and go into business was one of the most difficult ones I ever had to make," Chandler said.

Chandler came to Bridgewater in 1952. He coached at Davidson and played professional football with the Washington Redskins.

Northeast Ends Home Cage Fare Wednesday Against Southerners

The powerful Mississippi Southern basketball team of Hattiesburg furnishes the opposition when the Northeast Louisiana State Indians make their last home appearance of the season here Wednesday night at Northeast gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

Although the Southerners won handily over a Redskin team weakened by influenza a few weeks ago, the Northeast quintet might prove mighty hard to handle this trip if the last two outings by Coach Cary Phillips' charges are to be taken as a barometer for gauging the Tribe's improvement.

In their last two games the Indians showed a great rally to almost upset East Texas Baptist College before losing out 81-80, and the very next night socked Millsaps College, 70-49.

CRAFTY ADMIRAL TAKES M'LENNAN

Oil Capitol Takes Second Money With Ken Home Third

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP)— Crafty Admiral, high weight of the field under 129 pounds, today won the mile and one-eighth of the $50,000 McLennan Handicap at Hialeah Park.

Crafty Admiral, owned by Charles and Fran Cohen of Miami Beach, moved to the front at the first turn and was never headed. He ran the mile and a furlong in the good time of 1:53 2-5 over a muddy track.

With Kenny Church riding, Crafty Admiral raced evenly and was never threatened by such performers as Oil Capitol, Ken, Spartan Valor, Mandingo, One Count and Gushing Oil in that order.

Carrying top weight of 129 pounds, Crafty Admiral came up to the big race fit and ready. He went postward at 3-1 and paid $8.60, $4.50 and $3.50 in the $2 mutuels.

Oil Capitol paid $8.70 and $5.20 while Ken returned $4.20 to show.

Spartan Valor, owned by William G. Helis Jr., Jobstown, N.J., and ridden by veteran Jockey Jimmy Stout who was seeking his fourth McLennan victory, tired at the end and finished fourth in the field of seven.

Crafty Admiral, which won the Royal Palm Handicap at this same distance by two and one - half lengths on a muddy track two weeks ago, was even sharper today and his times for the McLennan were 23 3-5, 47 3-5, 1:12 4-5, 1:39 1-5 and 1:53 2-5.

Crafty Admiral's owners picked up the winner's share of 145,400 from the gross purse of $64,000. The five-year-old son of Fighting Fox out of Admiral's Lady by War Admiral thus ran his winnings for 1952 and 1953 to $339,850.

Eight-Semester Rule Robs Ferriday Of Use Of End Jackie Wilkins

FERRIDAY, La., Feb. 7 (Special) —Ferriday High School will lose its star football all-state end, Jackie Wilkins, of Clayton, because of a new ruling adopted in January by the Louisiana High School Athletic Association.

This is the "eight - semester" ruling which means that no boy or girl will be permitted to participate in any inter-school athletics in Louisiana who has attended school more than eight semesters.

In addition to Wilkins, the Ferriday team will lose three of last year's second stringers.

Ferriday was a semi-finalist in the state Class B football championship race last season. Coaches at Ferriday were counting on using Wilkins next season to good advantage as he was one of the outstanding players on the squad last year.

Vidalia Cagers Lose To Block, St. Joseph

FERRIDAY, La., Feb. 7 (Special)— The Vidalia High School basketball teams suffered defeats at the hands of Block, of Jonesville and St. Joseph during the past week. The boys game with St. Joseph went into extra minutes to break a tie.

Block defeated the Vidalia boys, 53-32. The Vidalia and elementary boys' teams were also defeated by Block, but the scores were unavailable.

The Vidalia boys tied the St. Joseph team 60-60 at St. Joseph, but, in the extra three - minutes play, St. Joseph won 64-60. The St. Joseph girls team defeated the Vidalia girls.

FIVE CENTENARY CAGERS INJURED AS CARS COLLIDE

Gents' Basketball Team Was On Way To Mobile For Date

LUCEDALE, Miss., Feb. 7 (AP) — Five basketball players from Centenary College, Shreveport, La., were injured today when the station wagon in which they were driving to a game at Mobile tonight collided with an automobile near here.

Mississippi highway patrolmen said the station wagon, driven by seven-foot center Billy Hester, of Hall Summit, La., collided with an automobile driven by Joseph C. Nunn, of Chickasaw, Ala., on state highway 15 four miles east of here.

Jim Whitler, of Girard, Ill., was in a hospital with a possible skull fracture, doctors said. He was the most seriously injured.

Treated for cuts and bruises were Hester, Connie Mack Rea, of Muncie, Indiana; Wayne Thrash, of Jamestown, La.; and Julian Bethune, of Fyfe, Ala.

Coach F. H. "Buss" Delaney, who was also in the station wagon but uninjured, said the accident would force indefinite postponment of the game with Spring Hill College tonight at Mobile. He said it would also cause postponment of the game with Mississippi Southern, scheduled for Monday night.

Nunn was uninjured.

Highway patrolmen Leon Button and Tommy Martin said Nunn swerved to dodge two small children on the highway, and hit the station wagon as he came back onto the highway. They said no charges would be filed.

4-MINUTE MILE EVADES AUSSIE

Weary John Landy Wins Victorian Far Short Of Record

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 7 (AP)—A gaunt and weary John Landy won the Victorian Mile in a disappointing four minutes, 11 seconds today and then announced he would make no more attempts this year to crack Gunder Haegg's world record.

When he does continue his assault on the fabulous four-minute mile next season, the 22-year-old Melbourne student hoped some of the bids may be made in America.

"I have refused many offers to tour overseas, especially America, this year, but would like to be able to accept next year," Landy said. "It all depends on how I'm running."

Five pounds underweight from four terrific races in the space of two months, the speedster never had a chance today to challenge Haegg's world mark of 4:01.4 and he fell miserably off his own recent performances.

He had excited the track world by running a 4:02.2 mile on this same Melbourne Olympic park track last December and he had followed this with two great bids of 4:02.8 and 4:04.2. Then only last Wednesday he slashed 14.4 seconds off the Australian two-mile record in 9:01.2.

It was the two-mile race, run in muggy weather at night, which apparently made too large a drain on his energy.

"I'm afraid it's just not in me now," Landy said. "I have been at my peak for eight weeks but have been unable to strike the weather or anyone to pull me out to get near the time.

"I will keep running a little this season but any time I do anything that will make anybody sit up will be a fluke."

Landy didn't have conditions going for him in today's race, which he won nevertheless by 80 yards. The track, though rolled, was heavy and "dead." Landy had to battle a stiff headwind of 11 feet per second in the stretch.

Warriors Take Mooney Direct From Wildcats

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7 (AP)— The Philadelphia Warriors, snuggled comfortably in the cellar of the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association, will add the services of Jim Mooney, ex-captain and rebounding star of the Villanova Wildcats to their roster tomorrow.

Mooney, a six- foot four - inch Philadelphian, finished his collegiate career with the Wildcats against Fordham in New York tonight.

Little League Leaders Meet Wednesday Night

Directors of Little League baseball in Monroe will hold a business meeting here Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Monroe Recreation Center, it was anonunced last night by Secretary Jack Hasketh.

"It's important that every member be present to help make plans for the operation of the new season," Hesketh said.

Colorful Double Feature Offered Kallio's Mat Hans Here Tomorrow

'Farmer' Jones Faces Kelly; Henning To Meet Cronin

The colorful mat program on tap tomorrow night at Gus Kallio's Arena, features a double main event; each 90 minute time limit bouts, two falls to win; with Twin-City favorite, John Henning, taking on "Big Boy" Cronin in one match; and "Farmer" Jones going against "Irish Jack" Kelly in the other.

Local citizens promenading on DeSiard Street tomorrow may be amazed to see a husky, overalled, bearded hill - billy meandering about the downtown sector, with his pet pig following along behind like a well-trained dog.

Jones, one of the best showmen in the wrestling business, is well known for his geniality, as well as his grappling skill. The likable giant, extremely popular wherever he appears, is a great hand for making friends, especially with the youngsters who are attracted by his trained pig.

Always popular in the ring, "Farmer" is famous for his "face-slaps" on villainous opponents. And a versatile man like Jones, who can train a pig, isn't content with ordinary slaps to rivals' faces. He slaps with his feet, always bare in mat matches. Not kicks, but agile slaps.

Tomorrow night, pitted against dead-pan Kelly, a villain of the first order, who gave both referee Bill Barney and opponent Bobby Wickson a hard time last week, "Farmer" should have plenty of opportunity to use his slaps, plus any other assistance he may garner. It is well-known in wrestling circles that once, in a Little Rock, Ark. match, when Jones was unable to break from a body smother, that a ringsider cut his pet pig's leash, and the little porker, with a few well-placed nips, soon broke the startled opponent's hold. Perhaps it is for this reason "Farmer" leashes his pet in his corner during falls.

NORTHEAST ROTC RIFLEMEN BUSY

Indians Competing In 4th Army Collegiate Matches

Sharpshooters of Northeast State's ROTC rifle team have been firing a busy dual meet schedule since last December, according to Capt. Alfred L. Singer of the college military faculty and supervisor of the team.

The squad is presently firing in the Fourth Army Intercollegiate matches, participants of which comprise colleges and universities in Texas, New Mexico, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

While no official results have been announced, Captain Singer said that the Indians' scores are gratifyingly higher than those posted last year in the same match, when Northeast finished 16th out of 24 competing schools.

After a slow start in December, the team came up with stunning victories in January when they competed with New Mexico Military Institute, University of California Aggies and the University of Alaska.

Inexperience seemed to be the principal factor in the team's poor showing in the early part of the first semester, Captain Singer said. They lost to Tulane University and Jacksonville State Teachers of Alabama, but came up with a victory over Gannon College of Erie, Pa. Following defeat by Ouachita College, Arkansas, and St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., the squad finally found its stride and took three running dual matches.

Boasting a small group with only two veterans returning from last year's team, which showed considerable promise, the coaches have depended mainly on freshmen in building from the ground up. A sprinkling of upperclassmen marks the team now being coached by M-Sgt. William H. Jones, assisted by Sgt. Marshall Luther, both of Northeast's military staff.

PENN GRABS LEAD

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP) — Pennsylvania grabbed the Ivy League basketball lead from Cornell by edging the Big Red, 50-49, here today. Penn's Ivy League record now is five victories and one defeat and Cornell's is 4-1.

ZAHARIAS TURNS IN RECORD ROUND

'Babe' Gains Ground In Miami Beach Women's Event

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7 —UP—Babe Zaharias fired a brilliant 33 on the back side of Bayshore Golf Club Saturday to set a women's tournament record and move into fourth place in the second round of the $3,500 Miami Beach women's invitational.

Mrs. Zaharias, by virtue of her fine comeback on a waterlogged course, was now within striking distance of the tournament leaders, Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., Betty Jamison of San Antonio, Tex., and Louis Suggs of Cincinnati.

Announcing she was through "babying" her shots, the Tampa, Fla., veteran made the turn with a mediocre 39, then turned on the heat to gain a 72, even men's par and two-under women's par. Her 33 on the back side set a competive record.

Her 72 round Saturday, coupled with a 78 in the first round Friday gave her a 150 total, three strokes off the hot pace set by Miss Rawls.

Miss Rawls put a 75 with her 72 for a 147 total and Miss Jamison was one stroke back with a 76-72—148.

Louise Suggs, the transplanted Georgian, was in third place with 75-74—149. Mary Lena Faulk, currently the hottest amateur on the circuit, was tied at 152 with Betty MacKinnon of Dallas for fifth place.

The finals of the 54-hole tournament will be played Sunday.

JACKPOT AWAITS VICTOR IN LAYNE, LASTARZA SCRAP

Top-Ranked Heavyweights Meet Friday In Garden Bout

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—A million dollar title shot dangles within reach of Roland LaStarza and Rex Layne in Friday's important heavyweight test at Madison Square Garden.

Promoter Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, mentioned the LaStarza - Layne winner as a likely opponent when he announced the April 10 Chicago date for the Rocky Marciano-Jersey Joe Walcott rematch. Ezzard Charles, the ex-champ, is another possibility.

Both LaStarza and Layne know they can hit the jackpot with an impressive win. Neither can afford a loss at this perilous stage of their careers.

LaStarza, a 25-year - old boxer from New York's Bronx, is a 3 to 2 favorite over the 24-year-old bullboy from Lewiston, Utah, in this 10-rounder to be seen on network TV (NBC) and heard on radio (ABC) at 9 p. m. (CST).

The hulking Layne, a crude workman with a solid straight right to the body, was consigned to the scrap heap after he was knocked out by Rocky Marciano and stopped by Charles in 1951. But he quickly became the "new" Layne on the strength of a disputed upset win over Charles at Ogden, Utah, last August.

A few years back, Layne was being called another Dempsey. But he failed to live up to this billing. However, he was climbing up the heavyweight rankings until he ran into Marciano's right hand. The kayo by Charles almost finished his big time.

Layne's backers point to his wins over two ex-champs, Walcott and Charles. They recall Walcott's great fight against Charles and his magnificent defense against Marciano last September. They remember big Rex handled Jersey Joey with the greatest of ease in a 10-rounder at the garden, Nov. 24, 1950, winning a unanimous decision.

In LaStarza, Layne will be meeting a fine boxer with a good right hand punch and an improving left hook. For years LaStarza has been called a great prospect. Lack of aggressiveness held him back.

Failure to get the promised rematch after Marciano ended his 37-straight win streak disillusioned LaStarza. He lost to Danny Bucceroni and reversed it by dropping Danny boy five times. Just when he was ready to move again he lost a toughie to Rocky Jones at Akron, O. He wiped out that loss in December last year.

CLASSY NEVILLE GUARD AWARDED 3RD TEAM BERTH

Manchester Of Jena Listed With Honorable Mentions

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 7 — (Special) — Twenty - one hundred and fifty-five senior football players on high school teams from every state in the union and Hawaiian Islands have been nominated for places on the sixth annual National High School All - America football squad, Mose Simms, chairman of the football committee for the Wigwam Wisemen of America, announced today. Seven teams have been named, and a roster of 681 boys were listed as honorable mentions.

One thousand and eight daily newspapers and 1,080 radio and television stations sent in nominations. This is the most complete coverage ever made on high school football. Simms traveled over 12,000 miles and witnessed or observed workouts of 217 high school football teams in 1952. The opinions of college coaches, football talent scouts, officials and high school athletic directors, along with the newspaper reporters, radio broadcasters and television sports announcers helped in charting the 1952 squad.

Paring the list of nominees down to seven first teams was no easy task. Fortunately, the men that report on the games, officials that worked in the games and the interested athletic officials who took part in assembling the squad took every game for the season played by each team into consideration.

Heading the list of nominees from Louisiana were Fullback Tommy Davis of Shreveport's Fair Park High School, Guard Leland Sims of Monroe's Neville High School, and Tackle Henry "Red" Deloney of Ruston High School.

Davis was a unanimous choice on Louisiana's Class AA all-state team, while Sims and Deloney were all - state for the second consecutive year on their state's Class A outfit. Davis made the Wigwam Wisemen's All - America first team, Sims is on the third team, and Deloney is on the sixth.

Other Louisiana talent on the honorable mention list is Tackle Harley Brown, Shreveport; Back Charles Barham, Ruston; Tackle Nat Peveto, Sulphur; Back Raymond Manchester, Jena; Back Bobby Kimball, Houma; Tackle Bob Arnoult, New Orleans; Back Lou Deutschman, New Orleans; Tackle Donald Boudreaux, Houma and Back Winston Turner, Baton Rouge.

The sixth annual all - star prep football game will be played August 26 of this year in Crump Stadium, Memphis, Tenn. All boys on the first seven teams and honorable mention list are eligible to play in the game provided they meet the requirements of the selecting committee, the prep game coaches and have graduated from high school or have completed their high school athletic eligibility.

Here are the All-America teams

Chandler's resignation was announced by Warren D. Bowman, president of the college. He resigned to accept a position with the Virginia-North Carolina Chemical Company in Greensboro, N. C.

"The decision to quit coaching and go into business was one of the most difficult ones I ever had to make," Chandler said.

Chandler came to Bridgewater in 1952. He coached at Davidson and played professional football with the Washington Redskins.

Northeast Ends Home Cage Fare Wednesday Against Southerners

The powerful Mississippi Southern basketball team of Hattiesburg furnishes the opposition when the Northeast Louisiana State Indians make their last home appearance of the season here Wednesday night at Northeast gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

Although the Southerners won handily over a Redskin team weakened by influenza a few weeks ago, the Northeast quintet might prove mighty hard to handle this trip if the last two outings by Coach Cary Phillips' charges are to be taken as a barometer for gauging the Tribe's improvement.

In their last two games the Indians showed a great rally to almost upset East Texas Baptist College before losing out 81-80, and the very next night socked Millsaps College, 70-49.

CRAFTY ADMIRAL TAKES M'LENNAN

Oil Capitol Takes Second Money With Ken Home Third

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP)— Crafty Admiral, high weight of the field under 129 pounds, today won the mile and one-eighth of the $50,000 McLennan Handicap at Hialeah Park.

Crafty Admiral, owned by Charles and Fran Cohen of Miami Beach, moved to the front at the first turn and was never headed. He ran the mile and a furlong in the good time of 1:53 2-5 over a muddy track.

With Kenny Church riding, Crafty Admiral raced evenly and was never threatened by such performers as Oil Capitol, Ken, Spartan Valor, Mandingo, One Count and Gushing Oil in that order.

Carrying top weight of 129 pounds, Crafty Admiral came up to the big race fit and ready. He went postward at 3-1 and paid $8.60, $4.50 and $3.50 in the $2 mutuels.

Oil Capitol paid $8.70 and $5.20 while Ken returned $4.20 to show.

Spartan Valor, owned by William G. Helis Jr., Jobstown, N.J., and ridden by veteran Jockey Jimmy Stout who was seeking his fourth McLennan victory, tired at the end and finished fourth in the field of seven.

Crafty Admiral, which won the Royal Palm Handicap at this same distance by two and one - half lengths on a muddy track two weeks ago, was even sharper today and his times for the McLennan were 23 3-5, 47 3-5, 1:12 4-5, 1:39 1-5 and 1:53 2-5.

Crafty Admiral's owners picked up the winner's share of 145,400 from the gross purse of $64,000. The five-year-old son of Fighting Fox out of Admiral's Lady by War Admiral thus ran his winnings for 1952 and 1953 to $339,850.

Eight-Semester Rule Robs Ferriday Of Use Of End Jackie Wilkins

FERRIDAY, La., Feb. 7 (Special) —Ferriday High School will lose its star football all-state end, Jackie Wilkins, of Clayton, because of a new ruling adopted in January by the Louisiana High School Athletic Association.

This is the "eight - semester" ruling which means that no boy or girl will be permitted to participate in any inter-school athletics in Louisiana who has attended school more than eight semesters.

In addition to Wilkins, the Ferriday team will lose three of last year's second stringers.

Ferriday was a semi-finalist in the state Class B football championship race last season. Coaches at Ferriday were counting on using Wilkins next season to good advantage as he was one of the outstanding players on the squad last year.

Vidalia Cagers Lose To Block, St. Joseph

FERRIDAY, La., Feb. 7 (Special)— The Vidalia High School basketball teams suffered defeats at the hands of Block, of Jonesville and St. Joseph during the past week. The boys game with St. Joseph went into extra minutes to break a tie.

Block defeated the Vidalia boys, 53-32. The Vidalia and elementary boys' teams were also defeated by Block, but the scores were unavailable.

The Vidalia boys tied the St. Joseph team 60-60 at St. Joseph, but, in the extra three - minutes play, St. Joseph won 64-60. The St. Joseph girls team defeated the Vidalia girls.

FIVE CENTENARY CAGERS INJURED AS CARS COLLIDE

LUCEDALE, Miss., Feb. 7 (AP) — Five basketball players from Centenary College, Shreveport, La., were injured today when the station wagon in which they were driving to a game at Mobile tonight collided with an automobile near here.

Mississippi highway patrolmen said the station wagon, driven by seven-foot center Billy Hester, of Hall Summit, La., collided with an automobile driven by Joseph C. Nunn, of Chickasaw, Ala., on state highway 15 four miles east of here.

Jim Whitler, of Girard, Ill., was in a hospital with a possible skull fracture, doctors said. He was the most seriously injured.

Treated for cuts and bruises were Hester, Connie Mack Rea, of Muncie, Indiana; Wayne Thrash, of Jamestown, La.; and Julian Bethune, of Fyfe, Ala.

Coach F. H. "Buss" Delaney, who was also in the station wagon but uninjured, said the accident would force indefinite postponment of the game with Spring Hill College tonight at Mobile. He said it would also cause postponment of the game with Mississippi Southern, scheduled for Monday night.

Nunn was uninjured.

Highway patrolmen Leon Button and Tommy Martin said Nunn swerved to dodge two small children on the highway, and hit the station wagon as he came back onto the highway. They said no charges would be filed.

4-MINUTE MILE EVADES AUSSIE

Weary John Landy Wins Victorian Far Short Of Record

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 7 (AP)—A gaunt and weary John Landy won the Victorian Mile in a disappointing four minutes, 11 seconds today and then announced he would make no more attempts this year to crack Gunder Haegg's world record.

When he does continue his assault on the fabulous four-minute mile next season, the 22-year-old Melbourne student hoped some of the bids may be made in America.

"I have refused many offers to tour overseas, especially America, this year, but would like to be able to accept next year," Landy said. "It all depends on how I'm running."

Five pounds underweight from four terrific races in the space of two months, the speedster never had a chance today to challenge Haegg's world mark of 4:01.4 and he fell miserably off his own recent performances.

He had excited the track world by running a 4:02.2 mile on this same Melbourne Olympic park track last December and he had followed this with two great bids of 4:02.8 and 4:04.2. Then only last Wednesday he slashed 14.4 seconds off the Australian two-mile record in 9:01.2.

It was the two-mile race, run in muggy weather at night, which apparently made too large a drain on his energy.

"I'm afraid it's just not in me now," Landy said. "I have been at my peak for eight weeks but have been unable to strike the weather or anyone to pull me out to get near the time.

"I will keep running a little this season but any time I do anything that will make anybody sit up will be a fluke."

Landy didn't have conditions going for him in today's race, which he won nevertheless by 80 yards. The track, though rolled, was heavy and "dead." Landy had to battle a stiff headwind of 11 feet per second in the stretch.

Warriors Take Mooney Direct From Wildcats

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7 (AP)— The Philadelphia Warriors, snuggled comfortably in the cellar of the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association, will add the services of Jim Mooney, ex-captain and rebounding star of the Villanova Wildcats to their roster tomorrow.

Mooney, a six- foot four - inch Philadelphian, finished his collegiate career with the Wildcats against Fordham in New York tonight.

Little League Leaders Meet Wednesday Night

Directors of Little League baseball in Monroe will hold a business meeting here Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Monroe Recreation Center, it was anonunced last night by Secretary Jack Hasketh.

"It's important that every member be present to help make plans for the operation of the new season," Hesketh said.

Colorful Double Feature Offered Kallio's Mat Hans Here Tomorrow

'Farmer' Jones Faces Kelly; Henning To Meet Cronin

The colorful mat program on tap tomorrow night at Gus Kallio's Arena, features a double main event; each 90 minute time limit bouts, two falls to win; with Twin-City favorite, John Henning, taking on "Big Boy" Cronin in one match; and "Farmer" Jones going against "Irish Jack" Kelly in the other.

Local citizens promenading on DeSiard Street tomorrow may be amazed to see a husky, overalled, bearded hill - billy meandering about the downtown sector, with his pet pig following along behind like a well-trained dog.

Jones, one of the best showmen in the wrestling business, is well known for his geniality, as well as his grappling skill. The likable giant, extremely popular wherever he appears, is a great hand for making friends, especially with the youngsters who are attracted by his trained pig.

Always popular in the ring, "Farmer" is famous for his "face-slaps" on villainous opponents. And a versatile man like Jones, who can train a pig, isn't content with ordinary slaps to rivals' faces. He slaps with his feet, always bare in mat matches. Not kicks, but agile slaps.

Tomorrow night, pitted against dead-pan Kelly, a villain of the first order, who gave both referee Bill Barney and opponent Bobby Wickson a hard time last week, "Farmer" should have plenty of opportunity to use his slaps, plus any other assistance he may garner. It is well-known in wrestling circles that once, in a Little Rock, Ark. match, when Jones was unable to break from a body smother, that a ringsider cut his pet pig's leash, and the little porker, with a few well-placed nips, soon broke the startled opponent's hold. Perhaps it is for this reason "Farmer" leashes his pet in his corner during falls.

NORTHEAST ROTC RIFLEMEN BUSY

Indians Competing In 4th Army Collegiate Matches

Sharpshooters of Northeast State's ROTC rifle team have been firing a busy dual meet schedule since last December, according to Capt. Alfred L. Singer of the college military faculty and supervisor of the team.

The squad is presently firing in the Fourth Army Intercollegiate matches, participants of which comprise colleges and universities in Texas, New Mexico, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

While no official results have been announced, Captain Singer said that the Indians' scores are gratifyingly higher than those posted last year in the same match, when Northeast finished 16th out of 24 competing schools.

After a slow start in December, the team came up with stunning victories in January when they competed with New Mexico Military Institute, University of California Aggies and the University of Alaska.

Inexperience seemed to be the principal factor in the team's poor showing in the early part of the first semester, Captain Singer said. They lost to Tulane University and Jacksonville State Teachers of Alabama, but came up with a victory over Gannon College of Erie, Pa. Following defeat by Ouachita College, Arkansas, and St. Lawrence University of Canton, N. Y., the squad finally found its stride and took three running dual matches.

Boasting a small group with only two veterans returning from last year's team, which showed considerable promise, the coaches have depended mainly on freshmen in building from the ground up. A sprinkling of upperclassmen marks the team now being coached by M-Sgt. William H. Jones, assisted by Sgt. Marshall Luther, both of Northeast's military staff.

PENN GRABS LEAD

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 7 (AP) — Pennsylvania grabbed the Ivy League basketball lead from Cornell by edging the Big Red, 50-49, here today. Penn's Ivy League record now is five victories and one defeat and Cornell's is 4-1.

ZAHARIAS TURNS IN RECORD ROUND

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7 —UP—Babe Zaharias fired a brilliant 33 on the back side of Bayshore Golf Club Saturday to set a women's tournament record and move into fourth place in the second round of the $3,500 Miami Beach women's invitational.

Mrs. Zaharias, by virtue of her fine comeback on a waterlogged course, was now within striking distance of the tournament leaders, Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., Betty Jamison of San Antonio, Tex., and Louis Suggs of Cincinnati.

Announcing she was through "babying" her shots, the Tampa, Fla., veteran made the turn with a mediocre 39, then turned on the heat to gain a 72, even men's par and two-under women's par. Her 33 on the back side set a competive record.

Her 72 round Saturday, coupled with a 78 in the first round Friday gave her a 150 total, three strokes off the hot pace set by Miss Rawls.

Miss Rawls put a 75 with her 72 for a 147 total and Miss Jamison was one stroke back with a 76-72—148.

Louise Suggs, the transplanted Georgian, was in third place with 75-74—149. Mary Lena Faulk, currently the hottest amateur on the circuit, was tied at 152 with Betty MacKinnon of Dallas for fifth place.

The finals of the 54-hole tournament will be played Sunday.

JACKPOT AWAITS VICTOR IN LAYNE, LASTARZA SCRAP

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—A million dollar title shot dangles within reach of Roland LaStarza and Rex Layne in Friday's important heavyweight test at Madison Square Garden.

Promoter Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, mentioned the LaStarza - Layne winner as a likely opponent when he announced the April 10 Chicago date for the Rocky Marciano-Jersey Joe Walcott rematch. Ezzard Charles, the ex-champ, is another possibility.

Both LaStarza and Layne know they can hit the jackpot with an impressive win. Neither can afford a loss at this perilous stage of their careers.

LaStarza, a 25-year - old boxer from New York's Bronx, is a 3 to 2 favorite over the 24-year-old bullboy from Lewiston, Utah, in this 10-rounder to be seen on network TV (NBC) and heard on radio (ABC) at 9 p. m. (CST).

The hulking Layne, a crude workman with a solid straight right to the body, was consigned to the scrap heap after he was knocked out by Rocky Marciano and stopped by Charles in 1951. But he quickly became the "new" Layne on the strength of a disputed upset win over Charles at Ogden, Utah, last August.

A few years back, Layne was being called another Dempsey. But he failed to live up to this billing. However, he was climbing up the heavyweight rankings until he ran into Marciano's right hand. The kayo by Charles almost finished his big time.

Layne's backers point to his wins over two ex-champs, Walcott and Charles. They recall Walcott's great fight against Charles and his magnificent defense against Marciano last September. They remember big Rex handled Jersey Joey with the greatest of ease in a 10-rounder at the garden, Nov. 24, 1950, winning a unanimous decision.

In LaStarza, Layne will be meeting a fine boxer with a good right hand punch and an improving left hook. For years LaStarza has been called a great prospect. Lack of aggressiveness held him back.

Failure to get the promised rematch after Marciano ended his 37-straight win streak disillusioned LaStarza. He lost to Danny Bucceroni and reversed it by dropping Danny boy five times. Just when he was ready to move again he lost a toughie to Rocky Jones at Akron, O. He wiped out that loss in December last year.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

When life is passing dully by, a whiff of perfume, a new interest, or a revitalizing new hobby can add to your way of living.

Better Enjoy Life Now-- Tomorrow May Be Too Late

Many women hoard their Christmas gifts. This is a natural tendency because these look so lovely arrayed on the table on Christmas morning, that we think, "I will save these for special occasions."

One Christmas I gave some choice perfume to a friend and two years later she said to me, "I haven't opened the perfume you gave me yet." I said, "Why didn't you tell me you didn't like it? I could have exchanged it for something else."

She replied, "Oh, that's just it! I love it and am saving it for some special time."

What time is better than the present to enjoy life as much as possible? What time can be any better in which to enjoy your Christmas gifts? Most of us cannot afford a great many luxuries all of the time, so it is wise to use them with discrimination, when they will mean the most to us.

However, there is no day in the future half so important as today because today is in our grasp, now. Sometimes the best moment of all to don a new dress or use some new exotic perfume is when you are going to be at home with no special occasion in view. Material aids are often quite vital to our egos and can help lift the spirit when one is depressed.

Do not hoard the good things of life for some future date. Do not settle down to bear present monotony by dreaming of future pleasure. Discover excitement in living today.

Many women keep their best china and silver and linen on shelves most of the time, waiting for some special time. All the while life is passing dully by, when the sparkle of crystal or the glow of silver, a whiff of perfume, a new interest added, a revitalizing new hobby, or a trigger quick laugh, could have added grace to living.

It seems to me to be a great mistake to be grim today, getting ready for tomorrow, to hoard those luxuries which come our way. They are for our pleasure now, not at some dim future time. Life also is waiting today for discovery through our keen perception.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes, if you get over them with a little common sense. Psychologist J. Gordon Frederick says that several romances before marriage help to give young people a basis for judging the opposite sex. People who rush into marriage with their first romance usually find they have made a ghastly mistake. Our new booklet, "How To Pick A Mate," by marriage counselor Clifford Adams, may save you from error or lead you to happiness. Sent at cost, 15c (coin only), plus self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Yes. Psychologist Hardin Jones found that the rate at which your blood flows into your tissues is a good yardstick for measuring your age. Some persons of 40, he found, were as "old" as others of 60, and vice versa. The new test offers many other uses, and will be of service in telling when a man or a woman is really ready to retire.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Yes, and they can get it by having their public library subscribe to the non-profit Monthly Bulletin of the Center for Children's Books of the University of Chicago, 5835 Kimbark Avenue. 700 new children's books are read at the center every year, and only the best are recommended. Authorities say parents shouldn't depend entirely on the books that thrilled them as children.

How To Pick A Mate

What kind of a mate do YOU want? Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs. Landers: I have enjoyed your column so much. In a recent one, a wife of 19 wonders when the honeymoon is over! It doesn't ever have to be over — but it takes two to keep the fires a-kindle. I have two uncles and their wives who were sweethearts all of their 45 and 55 years of marriage. I have been married 27 years and my husband still introduces me as his "bride."

It wasn't always clear sailing. We reached the point of a divorce at one time. As I grew older, I decided to do so with "grace" and "dignity." After I learned of my husband's affair while away on a business trip, I asked for a divorce. He refused, saying that he loved me and would fight every step of the way. He could not explain what made him do it, but if ever I saw a penitent boy, it was my 45-year-old errant husband!

I took stock and had a good look at myself. When my husband returned from his next trip he began to introduce me as his "bride." I had regained my normal weight, had a more attractive and younger haircut, and quit trying to be a "dignified matron." I don't believe in dressing or acting like a teen-ager, but as long as I can pass for an attractive 10 or 15 years younger than my 47, I'm going to do it.

No, the honeymoon need never end if we remember that life is like a mirror giving back as good as we give. —The Bride.

Dear Mrs. Landers: I am married and am going to be a first-time father in another month. Now, about those bachelors who wrote you: They might not have anything to worry about right now, but what about the time when they are 60 or 65 and they are all alone? They will be sorry then that they did not marry. Now I have a nice wife, am going to be a father, and realize I should have married earlier. I wouldn't be a bachelor again for anything! — Your Constant Reader, A. N.

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to help M. E. O. When I met my husband he drank heavily; he would leave home on a Friday night and drink until Sunday night when he returned home, completely broke. I was warned I would lose him if I tried to reform him, but I loved him and did not want him as he was so this is what I did:

The first three dates we spent in a tavern. The fourth date I insisted on entertaining him at home and served him a little beer. The next date at home I served black cows (ice cream and root beer). He said nothing and drank them.

Working on the theory of substituting love for nagging and sweets for drink, I gradually broke him away from drinking. We're married now and have a lovely boy. My husband is wonderful to us both. He still has a little beer when he wants it but our favorite drink remains—black cows.—Mrs. S. B.

Dear Mrs. Landers: My problem is similar to Mrs. A. B. C.'s Before we were married I, too, told my husband we could never have children. I even postponed our wedding for a year so that he could be sure of his feelings in the matter. He said it did not matter and that we would adopt children. Now, he won't think of it, and is very bitter. We've been married for four years. Every time we have the slightest argument I am reminded of my shortcoming in no uncertain terms, even before guests. I have contemplated a divorce but love my husband. I have made every effort to give him a good home and to make our marriage a success. I am now beginning to feel it as a hopeless battle. — Mrs. X. Y. Z.

Dear Mrs. Landers: I would like to give a little hope to Mrs. A. B. C. Before I married, seven doctors told me I could never have children. I told this to my husband but he insisted that we marry. A miracle occurred and we now have two lovely daughters (aged 6 and 5) of our own. Have more trust and faith in your God, Mrs. A. B. C. It can happen for Reader, T. M. W.

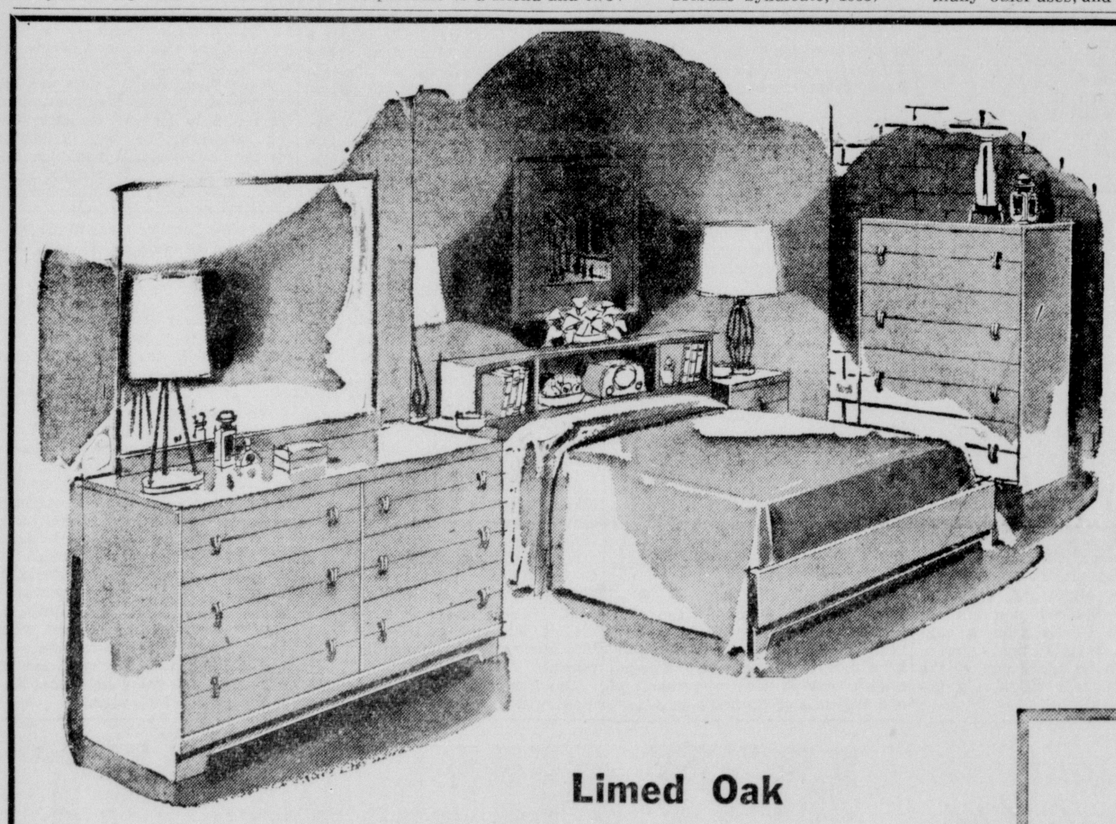

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.)

Frank Perkins Plans Mardi Gras Affair

Frank Perkins, president of the X. Y. Z. Club (colored) announces plans for the Mardi Gras for his race this year, which is the 25th time that it has been held here annually.

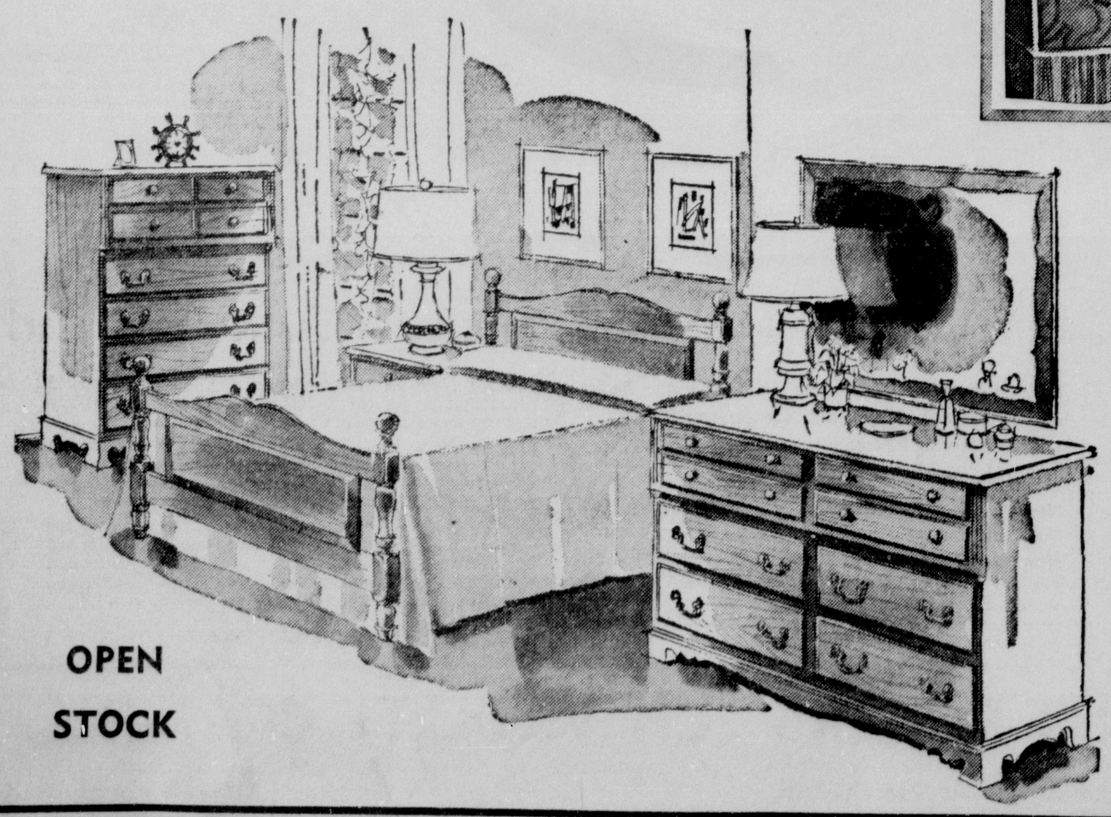

This time he plans to get spectacular. A devil, dressed in fiery red costume and carrying a pitchfork will be loose all day on February 16. He will have headquarters at DeSoto bar.

At night he will appear, as will the king and queen at 609 Adams Street, where there will be the crowning ceremony and Mardi Gras Ball.

Miss Sallie Lou Victory Is Bride Of Cecil M. McKenzie

The Chapel of the First Baptist Church of Shreveport was the scene Saturday, January 24, at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon of the wedding of Sallie Lou Victory and Cecil Marshall McKenzie. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Victory of Shreveport, and Mr. McKenzie is the son of Mrs. Clara H. McKenzie of this city, and Miller McKenzie of Lake Charles.

Dr. James W. Middleton officiated at the impressive ceremony. The background for the ceremony included floor baskets of white gladioli and stock and large palms. White tapers burned in the candelabra entwined with greenery. The pews were marked by white satin bows and silver wedding bells.

Mrs. Lavinia Hunt played the chimes as guests assembled. The organist, Mrs. John Ramond, rendered a program of nuptial music which included "Because," a theme from "Romeo and Juliet," "To A Wild Rose," "Through The Years," "Clair de Lune" and the traditional wedding march and recessional. Larry Daniel, soloist, sang "Ich Leibe Dich" by Grieg and "At Dawning."

The bride was escorted by her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a waltz length gown of white Chantilly lace of rose-point design, over white satin and tulle. The short fitted jacket was fastened with tiny lace and satin covered buttons, which were repeated on the long pointed sleeves. Her veil was two tiered and elbow length of illusion fastened to a tiara of pearlized orange blossoms and pearl droplets. She carried a cascade arrangement of white split carnations, lilies of the valley, centered with a purple orchid.

Mrs. Charles O. Cook, Jr., matron of honor, was gowned in a strapless, waltz-length dress of orchid net with matching stole. A drape of purple net was swept across the bodice and down the bouffant skirt. Her shoes matched the deep purple trim. Miss Sharon Victory, sister of the bride, was dressed identically to the matron of honor.

Lt. Thomas L. McKenzie, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Edward M. Egan and David Russell of Monroe.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony in the Bride's Room of the First Baptist Church where baskets of white galdioli and stock formed an appropriate setting. An arrangement of orchid white tapers graced the mantel, while on the piano two silver slippers held specimen Debutante camellias and white hyacinths.

The highly polished table was centered with a beautiful silver branched candelabra with the bride's bouquet placed at the base. A three - tiered wedding cake topped by an open lacy wedding bell and placed on a reflector, surrounded by tulle, stood at one end of the table and at the other end was the crystal punch bowl.

Members of the house party included Miss Dorcas Damewood, Miss Katherine Brown, Mrs. James C. Campbell, Mrs. W. T. Stephenson, Mrs. D. F. Nance and Miss Helene McCarter. Little Misses Frances and Ellen Victory, twin sisters of the bride, gave out tiny net bags of rice from silver trays.

Horner-Bamburg

Mrs. Lena Bamburg, daughter of Mrs. Mary McCarty of Bastrop, became the bride of Elton Horner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Horner of Brownwood, Tex., in a double ring ceremony at 6 p. m. Thursday, January 28, in the home of the bridegroom's brother, Milton Horner, in Brownwood, Tex. Rev. W. I. Newton officiated at the ceremony.

Following the ceremony a small reception was held. Mrs. Milton Horner served the wedding cake and Linda Horner served the punch and coffee.

The couple will make their home in Brownwood, Texas.

William Shakespeare's written vocabulary is estimated at about 20,000 words; Milton used only 8000.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED—Miss Sylvia McGuffee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. McGuffee, of Columbia, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Herbert E. Gathright, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Gathright, of Ruston, is announced today. The wedding will be solemnized early in June.

Fort Miro To Send Girls To Good Citizenship Pilgrimage

Mrs. Herbert Steed, Chairman of the Good Citizenship Pilgrimage for Fort Miro Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, recently entertained at a luncheon complimenting the four young ladies selected to represent their respective schools in the D.A.R. Good Citizenship Pilgrimage to be held in Baton Rouge on February 21st. As always, these young ladies were selected because of outstanding qualities of leadership in school, church and community interests. They are members of the senior class and were chosen for this high honor by their classmates and members of the faculty.

Miss Wanda Jordan, who will represent Calhoun High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jordan of Downsville. She is President of the Calhoun 4 - H Club; past president of Future Homemakers of America; Editor of the High School Annual, and a member of the Glee Club. Mrs. Clarence Faulk, who was Regent of Fort Miro Chapter at the time the Good Citizenship was instituted, assisted Mrs. Steed in extending courtesies. Following the luncheon the group were special guests at the Chapter's regular monthly meeting.

Winnsboro Couple Celebrate On Anniversary

WINNSBORO, Feb. 7 (Special) —Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wells, Winnsboro, were honored recently at "open house," at their home, on their 50th wedding anniversary by their children, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Fuller of Baton Rouge and Mr. and Mrs. David Burk, of Rayville.

Mrs. Wells was becomingly attired for this special occasion in a navy crepe coat dress, with which she wore a lovely gold orchid. She and Mr. Wells happily greeted their many friends and relatives who called between the appointed hours of 3 and 4 o'clock.

The reception suite was beautifully decorated throughout with the main decorations in gold. On the mantel in the living room was a lovely arrangement of gold mums. Huge baskets of flowers were placed at vantage points.

In the dining room the refreshment table was covered with a linen cloth. The centerpiece was a lovely arrangement of gold tulips and the evergreen was sprayed with silver. On the buffet was an arrangement of gold mums and tulips.

Mrs. Allen Price, sister of Mrs. Wells, and Mrs. Raymond Taliaferro, sister of Mr. Wells, alternated at the silver coffee service. They were becomingly attired in black and their corsages were beautiful camellias.

Assisting in the serving courtesies were Betty Burk, Judy Fuller, David Burk, Jr., and James Fuller, grand children of the honorees.

Wood floors newly finished with shellac should not be waxed until the shellac has had two or three days in which to set. Self-polishing type wax should not be used until three or four weeks have elapsed.

Miss Sallie Lou Victory Is Bride Of Cecil M. McKenzie

The Chapel of the First Baptist Church of Shreveport was the scene Saturday, January 24, at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon of the wedding of Sallie Lou Victory and Cecil Marshall McKenzie. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Victory of Shreveport, and Mr. McKenzie is the son of Mrs. Clara H. McKenzie of this city, and Miller McKenzie of Lake Charles.

Dr. James W. Middleton officiated at the impressive ceremony. The background for the ceremony included floor baskets of white gladioli and stock and large palms. White tapers burned in the candelabra entwined with greenery. The pews were marked by white satin bows and silver wedding bells.

Mrs. Lavinia Hunt played the chimes as guests assembled. The organist, Mrs. John Ramond, rendered a program of nuptial music which included "Because," a theme from "Romeo and Juliet," "To A Wild Rose," "Through The Years," "Clair de Lune" and the traditional wedding march and recessional. Larry Daniel, soloist, sang "Ich Leibe Dich" by Grieg and "At Dawning."

The bride was escorted by her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a waltz length gown of white Chantilly lace of rose-point design, over white satin and tulle. The short fitted jacket was fastened with tiny lace and satin covered buttons, which were repeated on the long pointed sleeves. Her veil was two tiered and elbow length of illusion fastened to a tiara of pearlized orange blossoms and pearl droplets. She carried a cascade arrangement of white split carnations, lilies of the valley, centered with a purple orchid.

Mrs. Charles O. Cook, Jr., matron of honor, was gowned in a strapless, waltz-length dress of orchid net with matching stole. A drape of purple net was swept across the bodice and down the bouffant skirt. Her shoes matched the deep purple trim. Miss Sharon Victory, sister of the bride, was dressed identically to the matron of honor.

Lt. Thomas L. McKenzie, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Edward M. Egan and David Russell of Monroe.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony in the Bride's Room of the First Baptist Church where baskets of white galdioli and stock formed an appropriate setting. An arrangement of orchid white tapers graced the mantel, while on the piano two silver slippers held specimen Debutante camellias and white hyacinths.

The highly polished table was centered with a beautiful silver branched candelabra with the bride's bouquet placed at the base. A three - tiered wedding cake topped by an open lacy wedding bell and placed on a reflector, surrounded by tulle, stood at one end of the table and at the other end was the crystal punch bowl.

Members of the house party included Miss Dorcas Damewood, Miss Katherine Brown, Mrs. James C. Campbell, Mrs. W. T. Stephenson, Mrs. D. F. Nance and Miss Helene McCarter. Little Misses Frances and Ellen Victory, twin sisters of the bride, gave out tiny net bags of rice from silver trays.

Horner-Bamburg

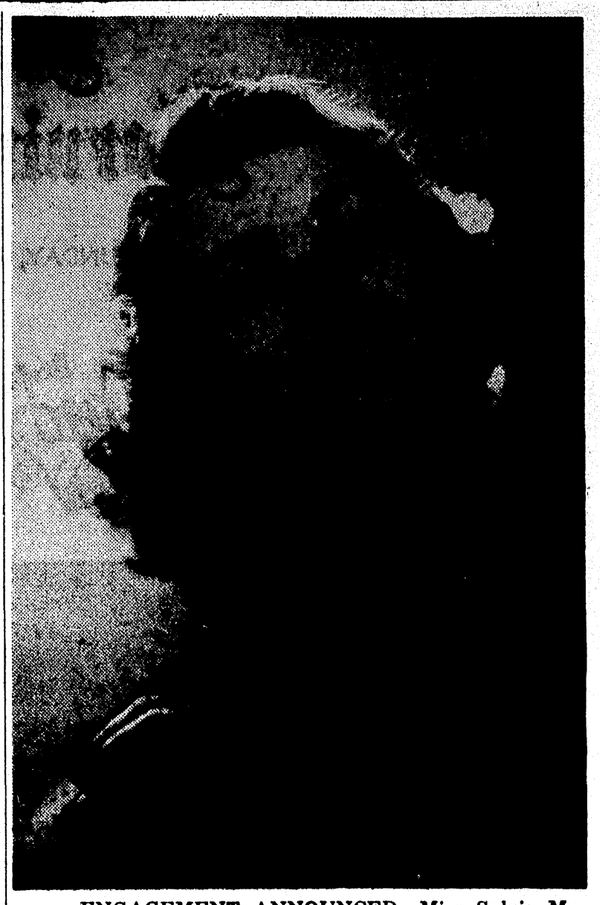

Mrs. Lena Bamburg, daughter of Mrs. Mary McCarty of Bastrop, became the bride of Elton Horner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Horner of Brownwood, Tex., in a double ring ceremony at 6 p. m. Thursday, January 28, in the home of the bridegroom's brother, Milton Horner, in Brownwood, Tex. Rev. W. I. Newton officiated at the ceremony.

Following the ceremony a small reception was held. Mrs. Milton Horner served the wedding cake and Linda Horner served the punch and coffee.

The couple will make their home in Brownwood, Texas.

William Shakespeare's written vocabulary is estimated at about 20,000 words; Milton used only 8000.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED—Miss Sylvia McGuffee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. McGuffee, of Columbia, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Herbert E. Gathright, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Gathright, of Ruston, is announced today. The wedding will be solemnized early in June.

Mrs. E. L. Hoskins Is Hostess At Meeting Of Home Gardener Club

The Home Gardener Club held the regular meeting in the home of Mrs. E. L. Hoskins on February 3rd. at 7:30 p.m..

After the business session was concluded by the president, Mrs. Frank Reitzell, Mrs. L. N. Copes gave a report on successful efforts in regards to landscaping the grounds of a Southside Methodist Church, a project of the club.

Mrs. Reitzell stressed the cooperation of each member in regards to the clean up week by the City in the near future.

Another book was presented to the Club Libarian Mrs. Gilbert Williams by Mrs. Jewell McQuiller in behalf of the president.

The speaker, Mr. Wiley Roach, was introduced by Mrs. McQuiller and gave an interesting demonstration in words and facts of successful pot plant growing. He said in part "the soil is the most important thing in the beginning as it should be porous and non-packable, even using pea gravel to help with the draining. Sterilization of the soil helps prevent fungus from destroying seeds and plants, and water and sun light are to be considered two important factors for any indoor plants."

After the meeting adjourned the members were invited into the dining room for refreshments. The dining table was overlaid with a lovely cut work cloth with an arrangement of pink camellias as a center decor.

Mrs. Cleve Cornett poured tea and Mrs. Gerald Bryant and Mrs. Q. L. Hoskins served red "heart" shaped cookies and sandwiches.

Miss Martha Jane Mitchiner Bride Of John Arch O'Neal

First Methodist Church Of Oak Grove Is Setting For January Wedding

A wedding of beautiful detail was solemnized Friday, January 30, when Miss Martha Jane Mitchiner became the bride of John Arch O'Neal at a sacred and impressive ceremony in the First Methodist Church of Oak Grove at six in the evening. Uniting two well known North Louisiana families, the wedding claimed prominent interest and was preceded by a series of delightful parties. The bride is the lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Kelly Mitchiner of Oak Grove, and Mr. O'Neal is the son of Mrs. John Arch O'Neal of Choudrant and the late Mr. O'Neal.

A bridal motif of green and white decorated the altar with floor baskets of white gladioli and stock fronting graduated wrought iron standards burning myriad cathedral candles. Southern smilax trellised the choir and communion rails and based the three candles which burned in the windows, surrounded by the white flowers. Marking the bride's path to the altar, through the center aisle, were pew candelabras, alternating with pew bouquets. A broad satin streamer closed the pews after the guests had been seated.

During the seating of the wedding guests, Mrs. Ellis Womack at the organ console played a concert of favorites, including "Nocturne," "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life," and "Ave Maria." She accompanied Miss Jackye Fallon, Ruston, who sang "Through the Years," "At Dawning," and the Lord's Prayer at the conclusion of the ceremony as the couple knelt for the benediction. The traditional marches heralded the approach of the wedding party and marked their departure.

The Rev. D. L. O'Neal, Ruston, cousin of the bridegroom, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Nature's loveliest tones of spring, white and green, were repeated in the bridal gowns of the feminine members of the attendants, as all were identically gowned in floor length models of white nylon tulle studded with rhinestones. Two tiered petals of pleated tulle formed the strapless bodice, and a double pleated peplum accented the fulness of the bouffant skirt. The bare shoulder line was draped in a deep matching stole. Satin cummerbund marked the waistline. White tulle mitts completed the costume. The attendants' gowns were complemented with plaited bandeaux of satin. The candlelighters, Janet White, Homer, and Annette Parra, Lake Providence, added red rosebuds and silver ribbon at each side.

Mrs. Paul Rosenzweig, Lake Providence, sister of the bridegroom, was the matron of honor. All attendants carried happiness roses mixed with tricotine, based on white ostrich tips.

The bridesmaids were Misses Patsy Hudson and Marjorie Keller, both of Oak Grove, Jane Weir, Simmsboro, and Barbara Burge, Lake Village, Ark.

Entering with her uncle, Mr. Holmes Mitchiner of Oak Grove, the bride, her brunette beauty emphasized by the ethereal loveliness of her wedding gown of chantilly lace over shimmering satin, was the center of admiring attention. An original design, her gown was styled with lace fitted bodice featuring a high yoke of nylon tulle traced with floral scallops of lace, encrusted with opalescent sequins. The long tapering sleeves ended in points over the hands and were buttoned at the wrist for closer fitting. Adding to the beauty of the lace skirt, which fell in court train, was the front inset of rippling tiers of pleated tulle framed by scallops of lace. The fingertip veil of illusion fell from a Juliet cap, of dress matching lace over satin, edged with seed pearls, which paneled the center section of the cap gathered for fullness. She carried a spray of stephanotis and Phalaenopsis orchids threaded with loops of picot bridal ribbon and surrounded by ostrich tips.

Bill O'Neal, Ruston, served the bridegroom as best man. The ushers were Billy Kelly, Choudrant, Frank O'Neal, Delhi, Paul Rosenzweig, Lake Providence, and Jack Emmons, Baton Rouge.

Reception

Immediately following the church ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Ada Lee and sister, Miss Opal Moss.

Miss Dee Hamilton, Kilbourne, greeted the guests at the door.

The bride and bridegroom, their mothers, feminine members of the bridal party, and Miss Ada Lee, the hostess, formed the receiving line.

Mrs. Mitchiner's gown of black crepe had the V neckline leafed in cut steele beads and rhinestones. Her shoulder corsage was a single white orchid.

Mrs. O'Neal's formal of rose beige chantilly lace was all over embroidered in gold sequins and pearls. The front yoke of the bodice was accordion pleated nylon tulle. The fitted skirt swept into a low flare. Her shoulder corsage was of brown cymbibium orchids.

Mrs. Lee wore a model of slate grey taffeta, rhinestone costume jewels, and corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Fanning Miles, Atlanta, Ga., cousin of the bride, wore a waltz length sail blue organza, yoked in white floral venise embroidery, centered with rhinestones. Her shoulder corsage was a purple orchid.

Mrs. Howard Gittinger, Baton Rouge, invited the guests to register in the bride's book. The refreshment table was overlaid with floor length cloth of nylon tulle covering Magnolia satin. At the table edge were net loops held by gardenias and silver ribbon. The decor was a low bowl overflowing with red roses mixed with frosted fern and flanked by a prism crystal candelabra burning tall slim white tapers. At one end was the three tiered wedding cake, with each tier supported by fluted confection columns and decorated in spun sugar bridal roses and green leaves and topped with miniature bouquet of stephanotis. Mrs. John B. McIntosh cut and served the cake. At the other end of the table was the crystal punch service, presided over by Mrs. Billy J. Carter, Winona, Miss. Passing among the guests to serve were Misses Janice Dennis, Jonesboro, Pat Hollis, Bernice, Patsy King, Alexandria, Beverly Stovall, Jonesboro, assisted by Mrs. C. B. Thompson, Grenada, Miss., Mrs. Ernest Parra, Lake Providence, Mrs. Bess Griffith, Darnell, Mrs. Clyde P. White, Homer, and Mrs. W. M. McIntosh and Mrs. Essie Leach, both of Oak Grove.

For traveling the bride wore an early spring suit of soft shadow blue tweed, with crescent pockets marking the left shoulder and right hip. The skirt was pencil slim, and the accessories were in brown, with lizard pumps and purse. Her shoulder corsage was of yellow hybrid cypripediums.

Upon returning they will make their home in Choudrant, where the groom is engaged in the butane business.

The bride attended Gulf Park College, Gulfport, Miss., and Southwestern, Memphis, Tenn., and is now a student at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston. She is a member of Kappa Delta social sorority.

The bridegroom was graduated from Choudrant high school and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston, where he was a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Bernice Couple Honored On Anniversary

BERNICE, Feb. 7 (Special)—An occasion of much interest in Bernice and surrounding towns, was the golden wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Tabor, which was held Sunday afternoon, Jan. 25th at their home.

Joe Robert Tabor, a son of the couple, Bobby Smith, a grandson, George Myers and Keary Sinclair, two sons-in-law of the couple, alternated receiving guests at the door and presenting them to Mr. and Mrs. Tabor. Mrs. Tabor's corsage was a golden orchid and the flowers throughout the house were gold and yellow carnations and gladiolis. Gold wedding rings and wedding bells were also used in the decorations. Mrs. E. N. Kilpatrick had charge of the decorations.

In the dining room the table was very beautifully decorated with arrangements of gold carnations and a miniature bride and groom. Gold candles were at each end of the table. The three tiered wedding cake was decorated with gold and white flowers and topped with a pair of gold love birds. Mrs. Emma Sinclair, a daughter, and Mrs. Lillie Tabor, a daughter-in-law, presided at the coffee service.

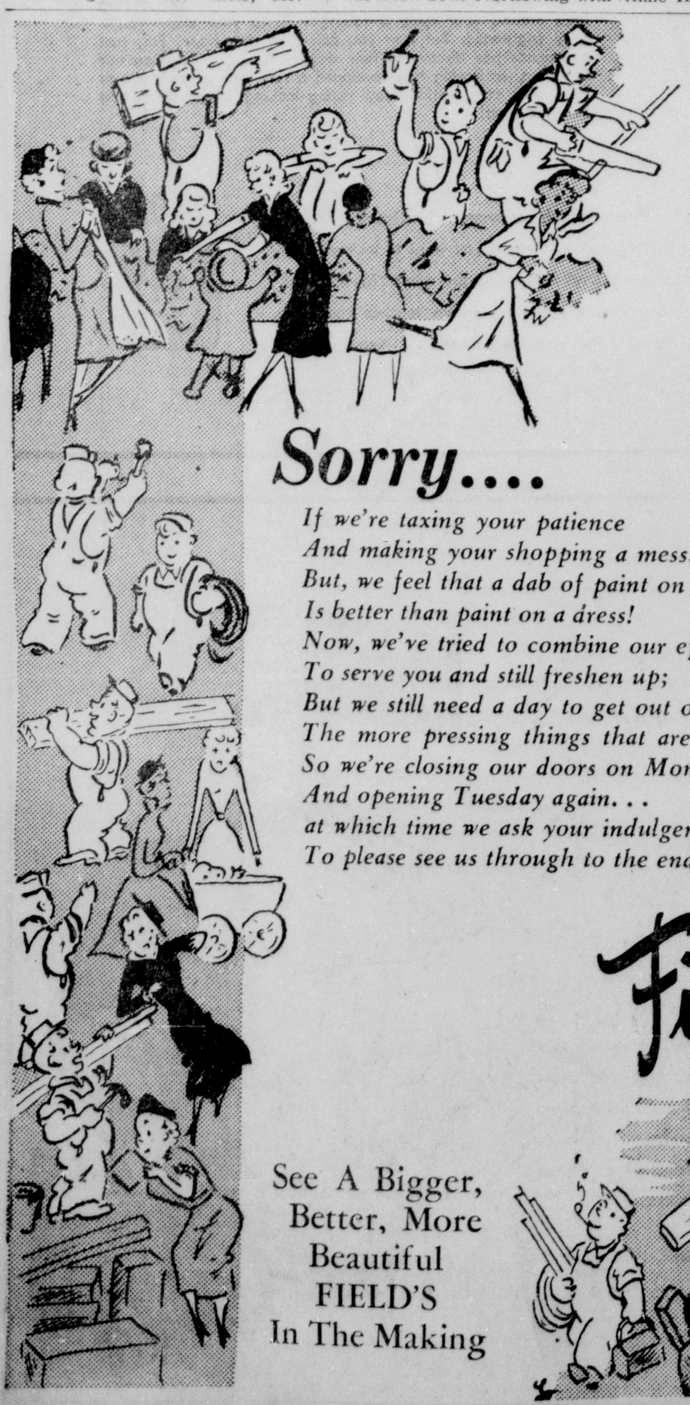

Mrs. Lovie Myers, another daughter, received in the room where all the beautiful and useful gifts were displayed. The children presented their mother with a gold wrist watch and their father with a gold watch chain.

Mr. and Mrs. Tabor were married at the home of Mrs. Tabor's parents on Jan. 22, 1903. They have resided at their present address and homesite for 50 years. They have five children, Joe Robert Tabor and Mrs. Emma Sinclair, Shreveport, George Tabor, Rayville, Mrs. Floy McCarver, Selfridge Field, Mich., and Mrs. Lovie Myers, Bernice. They have five grandchildren and one great grandchild.

More than 100 guests signed the register which was in charge of Mrs. Eunice Moore, niece of Mrs. Tabor.

Mrs. Villa and children will remain in Monroe while Mr. Villa makes a tour of Belgium, England, and Germany in interest of his company, M. W. Kellogg Co., New York City. On his return, they will fly to Johannesburg, South Africa where they will reside for the next 36 months. Mrs. Villa will be remembered as Lucille Young.

Miss Mary Lee Frost, buyer for Silversteins, left Saturday via airlines for New York City, where she will buy spring and summer fashions. While in New York, she will be guest of Mrs. Dan H. Edmondson, also New York buyer for Silversteins', who with Miss Frost will attend a fashion show and luncheon at Scarsdale Country Club on February 12 and at Westchester Country "Bonnie Briar" Country Club on February 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Neill Campbell of Howard Lake, Minn., are visiting in the home of Mrs. Campbell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Chilton. Mrs. Campbell will be remembered as the former Alice Chilton.

Bernice Couple Honored On Anniversary

BERNICE, Feb. 7 (Special)—An occasion of much interest in Bernice and surrounding towns, was the golden wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Tabor, which was held Sunday afternoon, Jan. 25th at their home.

Joe Robert Tabor, a son of the couple, Bobby Smith, a grandson, George Myers and Keary Sinclair, two sons-in-law of the couple, alternated receiving guests at the door and presenting them to Mr. and Mrs. Tabor. Mrs. Tabor's corsage was a golden orchid and the flowers throughout the house were gold and yellow carnations and gladiolis. Gold wedding rings and wedding bells were also used in the decorations. Mrs. E. N. Kilpatrick had charge of the decorations.

In the dining room the table was very beautifully decorated with arrangements of gold carnations and a miniature bride and groom. Gold candles were at each end of the table. The three tiered wedding cake was decorated with gold and white flowers and topped with a pair of gold love birds. Mrs. Emma Sinclair, a daughter, and Mrs. Lillie Tabor, a daughter-in-law, presided at the coffee service.

Mrs. Lovie Myers, another daughter, received in the room where all the beautiful and useful gifts were displayed. The children presented their mother with a gold wrist watch and their father with a gold watch chain.

Mr. and Mrs. Tabor were married at the home of Mrs. Tabor's parents on Jan. 22, 1903. They have resided at their present address and homesite for 50 years. They have five children, Joe Robert Tabor and Mrs. Emma Sinclair, Shreveport, George Tabor, Rayville, Mrs. Floy McCarver, Selfridge Field, Mich., and Mrs. Lovie Myers, Bernice. They have five grandchildren and one great grandchild.

More than 100 guests signed the register which was in charge of Mrs. Eunice Moore, niece of Mrs. Tabor.

Be sure to vacuum the tacked edges of a carpet, for these are favorite nesting places for moths.

Sorry....

If we're taxing your patience
And making your shopping a mess.
But, we feel that a dab of paint on the wall
Is better than paint on a dress!
Now, we've tried to combine our efforts . . .
To serve you and still freshen up;
But we still need a day to get out of the way
The more pressing things that are causing delay.
So we're closing our doors on Monday
And opening Tuesday again. . .
at which time we ask your indulgence . . .
To please see us through to the end!

Miss Nora Wilson And LeRoy Viola United In Marriage

day, January 7, at six o'clock in the evening at the home Lee Wilson and LeRoy Viola which was solemnized Wednesday, January7, at six o'clock in the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor J. Ditto.

Rev. William A. Dearman, of Delhi, officiated at the double - ring candlelight ceremony in the presence of the two families, immediate relatives and friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Wilson, Downsville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Clemen Viola of Monroe, and the late Mr. Viola of Rayville.

The bridal couple exchanged the vows of the impressive ceremony before the mantel which was decorated with gladioli and carnations flanked by candelabras.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Ezra Wilson, was wearing a navy blue suit with white trim, complimented by accessories in navy and an orchid formed her corsage.

Mrs. Terry McDonald, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and only attendant. She was becomingly attired in a brown suit with harmonizing accessories and wore a pink carnation corsage.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was his brother-in-law, Mr. Victor J. Ditto.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony.

The bride's table, overlaid with an imported linen cloth, was centered with a low crystal bowl of chrysanthemums. At one end of the table was the embossed four tiered wedding confection, topped with a miniature bride and groom. At the other end of the table was the punch bowl presided over by Mrs. Vic Ditto, sister of the groom. At the cake service was Mrs. Ezra Wilson, sister-in-law of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Downville High School and attended Louisiana Business College. She now holds a position as secretary with the Life Insurance Company of Georgia. Mr. Viola attended the Rayville High School and now is employed by the Twin City Glass Co.

Following the reception the young couple left for their wedding trip to New Orleans. Upon their return they will be at home to their many friends at 706 Adcock St. Monroe, La.

Attending the wedding were the following relatives and friends: Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Wilson, Mrs. Clemen Viola, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Kelly and Lillian. Mr. and Mrs. George Greer, Dyann and Marilyn. Mr. and Mr. Ezra Wilson, Gene and Carolyn. Mr. and Mrs. Terry McDonald, Joe and Sandra. Mr. Junior Wilson. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Victor J. Ditto, Mr. Cecil Viola, Mr. Warren Viola, Mr. Vince Ditto, Mr. Sonny Ditto, Mr. and Mrs. George Cernigliaro, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Randall and Marilyn, Mrs. Anthony Ditto and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Holbrook.

News From Public Library

The month of January was a very busy one at the four branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library and the circulation figures soared to new heights. The patrons of the library borrowed a total of 25,032 books for home use during the month. The largest circulation was from the Bookmobile, where the patrons borrowed a total of 12,026 books. The second largest was Monroe with a total of 8,075. West Monroe came third with a total circulation of 3,914 and Carver was fourth with a total of 1,017.

In the four branches a total of 414 reference questions and 790 requests for specific books were filled. Three hundred twenty-five books were added to the library collection during the month. Of this number, 95 were adult fiction, 88 were adult non - fiction. There were three reference books, 73 books of juvenile fiction and 66 books of juvenile non-fiction. Seventy eight books were lost or discarded during the month, leaving the total book collection on February 1 at the figure of 36,779.

In previous articles, I have already told you about many of the new books, but there are still others that are most worthwhile. "The General's Wench" by Rosamond Marshall is a rollicking period novel by the author of "Duchess Hotspur." A different and exciting story of the South Seas is "Monsoon Quarter" by Marion Lowndes. This is the story of a strange man who lived on an island away from the beaten path of civilization and of the forces that moved him.

There are a number of exciting new books of non - fiction that read like fiction and bear out the old adage that "truth is stranger than fiction" "The Fon and His Hundred Wives" by Rebecca Reyner is the account of a thrilling trip made by the author into one of the last strongholds of polygamy. The book is alive with the atmosphere of Africa and written with a frankness that makes it a completely absorbing document.

Another exciting true story is "I Led Three Lives" by Herbert A. Philbrick. This is the story of a young man who led three lives as citizen, Communist and counterspy. Throughout his working day, he supported his family at his job in advertising. Evenings and holidays he worked with the Communists and he spent the gray hours of early morning in a secret room in his house where he typed out reports and developed photographs for the F. B. I. His book not only tells his own dramatic story, but also provides a complete and shocking revelation of the American Communists' master conspiracy. Few who read "I Led Three Lives" will ever forget Mr. Philbrick's story and its meaning for our time.

Students of American history will welcome Bernard Devoto's latest work "The Course of Empire." This is the story of the early explorers of our country. Another book will be in great demand, for all books of its type are. It is "The Complete Book of Party Games" by Alexander Van Rensselaer.

Cook books are always popular with our patrons and the newest addition to the cook book collection is "Holland's Southern Cookbook" edited by Charleen McClain. It has recipes for the sort of food that is popular in this section of the country. A very timely book in connection with the activities of the Little Theatre in Monroe is "Theatre in the Round" by Margo Jones. This book gives a complete explanation of this new medium of presentation. Another book of interest to devotees of the theatre is "The Best Plays of 1951-52" edited by John Chapman. This is the continuation of the Burns Mantle Collections and follows the same sort of plan. It contains the most popular plays of last season, and if you cannot go to New York, you can enjoy reading them.

There are new books for those who are interested in flowers. One of the loveliest ones is "Decorating with House Plants" by Ruth Gannon. There are books at your Ouachita Parish Public Library for every taste. Are you taking advantage of its resources? If not, go tomorrow to your favorite branch and register.

Mrs. Griffith Hostess To Review Club On Monday

Mrs. D. W. Griffith was hostess to the Review Club when it met on Monday afternoon. Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Jr., presided in her usual capable and charming manner.

The club voted to make a donation to all scholarships sponsored by the federated clubs of the district and state. Mrs. A. R. Holloway, a charter member of the club tendered her resignation as she plans to make her home elsewhere. It was accepted with genuine regret.

The program for the afternoon consisted of reviews of two novels of the lighter type of English fiction. Both were well presented. Mrs. Turpin reviewed, "The Blessing" by Nancy Mitford and Mrs. Givens reviewed "The Brandons," by Angela Thirkell.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Griffith served a delicious dessert course to Mrs. Wayne Gray, a guest, and the following members: Mrs. C. B. Braun, Mrs. J. W. Adcock, Mrs. J. K. Brothers, Mrs. L. N. Waddell, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, Mrs. Tom Davis, Mrs. Lea Thompson, Mrs. A. T. Givens, Mrs. Sam Smith, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr., Mrs. John P. Noel, Mrs. Durwood Griffin, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Jr., Mrs. A. R. Holloway, Mrs. J. C. Loftin and Mrs. W. M. Inabnet.

"Vat-dyed" fabrics are very resistant to washing and sunlight fading. The dyes used in these fabrics are insoluble. During the process of application to the fabric they are made soluble, but afterward a process of oxidizing returns them to their original insoluble form.

This weather makes us feel that spring is most here, and how we want to dig in that dirt! All of us get the urge to plant in our yards and gardens in the spring - so get out that planting guide which gives you the kinds of seeds to buy for your garden and the kinds of shrubs recommended to plant to beautify our homes. These guides also give fertilizer recommendations. If you haven't these bulletins you can get them from your extension service which is housed in the agricultural building, West Monroe, or call 3-2251.

Landscape Leaders

Each community with a home demonstration club has a garden and landscape leader who can help you too.

Landscape leaders training: The landscape leaders received training from the county agent, J. J. Joyce, Jr. Thursday on soil preparation, fertilization and care of plants. Mr. Joyce knows his soils and fertilizers like mama knows her children (Mr. Carey Holmes' slogan) and can teach it.

Visit your nearest Home demonstration club in March and learn how to prepare your soil and to fertilize. Also see the demonstration on preparing sawdust, for a mulch. We can injure our plants if we do not prepare our mulch correctly. The club is always delighted to have guests.

Leaders who received this training are: Mrs. H. W. Gill, Colony; Mrs. P. L. Wallace, Progressive; Mrs. W. A. Calloway, Logtown; Mrs. J. R. Williams, Sterlington; Mrs. C. C. Street, Cheniere; Mrs. H. O. Eley, Claiborne; Mrs. E. W. Crum, Swartz; Mrs. M. Stennett, Lenwil; Mrs. D. L. Beavers, Lamkin; Mrs. J. R. Agin, Drew; Mrs. Wiley E. Jones, Watson; Mrs. Betty Walker, Thrifty Homemakers; Mrs. F. B. Baker, Lakeview; and Mrs. W. E. French, Cadeville.

You may also get this information by calling your home demonstration agent.

Tailoring and Clothing Work

Sterlington tailoring work is under way at the Dixie Acre Club House. Mrs. R. L. Lukat is clothing leader in the Sterlington Home Demonstration Club. The enrolled members of this tailoring class are: Mrs. B. W. Wall, Mrs. J. R. Williams, Mrs. L. R. McClain, Mrs. J. R. Traeltzsch, Mrs. A. P. Kimming, Mrs. Eddie Britt, Mrs. J. J. Dorsey, Mrs. O. H. Manhart and Mrs. O. A. Ramsey.

You don't have to be a club member to work in these groups. The public is invited to come by and see the work. The working dates for the Sterlington group are February 6, 9, 10 and 12th. Work will begin at 8:30 a. m. and continue most of the day.

Calhoun group had their planning meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Ralph S. Woodard. We shall work at Calhoun February 13, 16, 17, and 18th. We have lots of fun working together for we believe with the man who said "It is a mark of intelligence, no matter what you are doing, to have a good time doing it." Drop by to see us.

There is some white Orlon which can be used to make coats on the market now. Remember Orlon is washable so be sure lining and thread are washable.

The agent will be in the agricultural aduitorium Wednesday, February 11 at 9:30 and will help anyone who needs help on altering her pattern. Bring pattern, tape, 1½ yards of yellow domestic, or some kind of other material, pins, needle, and scissors with you. You do not have to be a home demonstration club member to get this assistance.

Council

Mrs. A. T. Stout, president of the Ouachita Parish Home Demonstration Council, wants to remind members of the budget committe to meet her at the agricultural building, West Monroe, 9:00 a.m. Saturday, February 14.

Members of the budget committee are: Mrs. J. H. Carroll, Mrs. B. O. Avant, Mrs. J. R. Agin, Mrs. J. P. McKnight, Mrs. Irvin Waller, Mrs. Mary Roberts and Mrs. Shirley Fowler.

She also wants to meet the constitution committee February 14 at 10:30 (same place) members of this committee are: Mrs. Connie Goodwin, Mrs. J. R. Frantom, Mrs. Merle Bennett, Mrs. George Younger, Mrs. T. R. Jones, Mrs. E. M. Crum and Mrs. Loyd Coon.

Housing

Louise Cloyd is about to finish her painting job in that big new home on the old Natchitoches road. Louise has really done a good job painting the woodwork - so we're happy to see her hard days are nearing an end, and she can soon enjoy living in this lovely home. The Cloyd's have two beautiful young daughters to enjoy it.

The specialist and agent helped Louise in making and checking the plan and location for this house. Maybe we could be of help to you—call on us. Of course, Mr. Cloyd did more work than Louise in getting this big house, but I don't believe even he is as proud as Louise about it all.

There is so much of interest in our rural roamin' its hard to stop, but will see you next week. Nell Entrican tells me Roamin' In the Rural will be in Sunday's paper.

Throughout his working day, he supported his family at his job in advertising. Evenings and holidays he worked with the Communists and he spent the gray hours of early morning in a secret room in his house where he typed out reports and developed photographs for the F. B. I. His book not only tells his own dramatic story, but also provides a complete and shocking revelation of the American Communists' master conspiracy. Few who read "I Led Three Lives" will ever forget Mr. Philbrick's story and its meaning for our time.

Students of American history will welcome Bernard Devoto's latest work "The Course of Empire." This is the story of the early explorers of our country. Another book will be in great demand, for all books of its type are. It is "The Complete Book of Party Games" by Alexander Van Rensselaer.

Cook books are always popular with our patrons and the newest addition to the cook book collection is "Holland's Southern Cookbook" edited by Charleen McClain. It has recipes for the sort of food that is popular in this section of the country. A very timely book in connection with the activities of the Little Theatre in Monroe is "Theatre in the Round" by Margo Jones. This book gives a complete explanation of this new medium of presentation. Another book of interest to devotees of the theatre is "The Best Plays of 1951-52" edited by John Chapman. This is the continuation of the Burns Mantle Collections and follows the same sort of plan. It contains the most popular plays of last season, and if you cannot go to New York, you can enjoy reading them.

There are new books for those who are interested in flowers. One of the best is one is "Decorating with House Plants" by Ruth Gannon. Tucked away some where in your Ouachita Parish Public Library for every taste. Are you taking advantage of its resources? If not, go tomorrow to your favorite branch and register.

Mrs. Griffith Hostess To Review Club On Monday

Mrs. D. W. Griffith was hostess to the Review Club when it met on Monday afternoon. Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Jr., presided in her usual capable and charming manner.

The club voted to make a donation to all charities sponsored by the federated clubs of the district and state. Mrs. A. R. Holloway, a charter member of the club tendered her resignation as she plans to make her home elsewhere. It was accepted with genuine regret.

The program for the afternoon consisted of reviews of two novels of the lighter type of English fiction. Both were well presented. Mrs. Tarpin reviewed "The Blossoms" by Nancy Mitford and Mrs. Givens reviewed "The Brandons," by Angela Thirkell.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Griffith served a delicious dessert course to Mrs. Wayne Gray, a guest, and the following members: Mrs. C. B. Braun, Mrs. J. W. Adcock, Mrs. J. K. Brothers, Mrs. L. N. Waddell, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, Mrs. Tom Davis, Mrs. Lea Thompson, Mrs. A. T. Givens, Mrs. Sam Smith, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr., Mrs. John P. Noel, Mrs. Durwood Griffin, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Jr., Mrs. A. R. Holloway, Mrs. J. C. Loftin and Mrs. W. M. Hudnet.

"Vat-dyed" fabrics are very resistant to washing and sunlight fading. The dyes used in these fabrics are insoluble. During the process of application to the fabric they are made soluble, but afterward a process of oxidizing returns them to their original insoluble form.

Bono Nostrorum Club Meets In Mangham

The Bono Nostrorum Club of Mangham held its annual business meeting January 20, 1953 in the home of Mrs. Mable Nash, with Miss Ethel Watson as co-hostess.

A panel discussion of women in policy making posts preceeded the business, and was given by Mrs. Maude Parham, Miss Kate Talbert, Mrs. E. D. Baker, and Mrs. Mary Laird. Miss Talbert introduced the panel by saying: "Right now as one group of policy-makers is withdrawing and another is taking form, it is a little hard to find who heads the list as women policy - makers. As I examined fifty - two consecutive "Time" magazines, I was convinced that women do not distinguish themselves in this field. If literature and the other arts and entertainment sections were omitted, "Time" would be almost exclusively masculine!

Tonight we'll mention first Mrs. Mildred Ahlgren, president of G. F. W. C., who merits a few remarks simply because of her attainment to this office. She is described as an indefatigable worker, pursuing a varied and vigorous round of civic activities. Dedicated to the proposition that women should become more absorbed in the affairs of their communities, she joined the Federation two decades ago. A fluent, able public speaker, she has taken part in local, state, and national activities such as bond selling, preserving historical records, child welfare, and combating communism.

When it comes to women who have succeeded in a man's world-until recently—we have selected three whose abilities have made them outstanding. Some of them occupy what is technically called executive work, but they nevertheless are in position to design, plan and thus initiate policy.

In addition to pointing out their present opportunity for service in formulating policy, we would like to call attention to qualities and skills that have enabled these women to be thus honored.

Mrs. Laird will discuss Eleanor Roosevelt, Mrs. Parham will take Margaret C. Smith and Mrs. Baker will conclude with Ovetta Culp Hobby.

A business meeting followed during which the following officers were elected: Mrs. H. L. Murray, president; Miss Ethel Watson, vice president; Miss Virgie Evans, secretary - treasurer; Mrs. Mable Nash, corresponding secretary; Mrs. B. N. Hixon parliamentarian.

There being no further business, the meeting was closed by reading the club collect. A delicious salad plate was served to the members.

Thrifty Club Meets With Mrs. Eugene Smith

"Surrounding the Home with Beauty," was the theme of the demonstration given by Mrs. Euna D. Spielman, Home Demonstration agent, at the regular meeting of the Thrifty Homemaker's Club. Mrs. Spielman emphasized the advantages of proper landscaping and planting of the lawn, pointing out that it increases the value of the property and adds beauty and harmony to the home.

Some points to remember were to plan the planting and repeat plants two or three times.

Mrs. Spielman said the main area to beautify is the back yard, planning both work and play area.

Leaders reports were given by Mrs. Judson Moore, clothing leader, Mrs. A. W. White, gardening and home furnishings leader and Mrs. A. K. Walker family life leader.

Following the meeting all members joined in a period of recreation.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Kenneth Lee, Mrs. Willie Smith, Mrs. Z. A. Funchess, Mrs. A. R. Walker, Mrs. J. Howard Carroll, Mrs. Judson Moore, Mrs. Spielman, Mrs. A. L. Wilbanks by the hostess Mrs. Eugene Smith.

A new paint brush should be dipped in linseed oil to prevent paint from becoming embedded in the bristles.

Giving a new twist to style shows of the Twin Cities, Delta Beta Sigma sorority wrote finis to the March of Dimes campaign presenting a musical style show, Saturday, January 31 at 7:00 p.m. on the Hotel Frances Roof Garden.

The representation of the spring clothing was unusually attractive by songs sung by six of the models. To the lilting tune of "Easter Parade" sung by Miss Lela Kite, Misses Janice Strong, Flora Kitchenham, Dixie Johnson and Lela Kite modeled the newest suits for spring.

Afternoon frocks suited for church or parties were shown by Misses Shirley McDonald, Ann Flinn, Lora Willis, and Lorna Montgomery. The musical selection, "Blue Moon," was rendered by Miss Ann Flinn. This group was followed by charming girls giving the guests of the style show a view of some of the cutest date dresses for spring. Miss Connie Pickering and Miss Anna Beth Lewis were the soloists for the group. Miss Pickering singing "Alice Blue Gown" and Miss Lewis giving the comical monologue 'The Waltz." The girls in this division were Misses Gay Olcott, Connie Pickering, Carolyn Futrell, Anna Beth Lewis and Marianna Altick.

Play clothes for the spring and summer were next on the agenda with Miss Lynn Merriman leading the group with the singing of "In the Good Old Summertime," and Miss Mary Pat Welch, "A- You're Adorable." Others showing the latest in play clothes were Misses Dawson Ann Forman, Camille Smith and Gale Roark.

Giving a preview of the month of June, the brides' month, were: Misses Patricia Parnell, Barbara Ann Gaar, and Bette Lynn Strong, modeling a bridal, brides maid and flower girls' gowns, respectively.

Children's clothes were charmingly modeled by Misses Bonnie Bancroft, Julie Ann Larson, Dana Mingeldorff, Veronica Worley, and Mary Catherine McGuire.

The stage of the roof was beautifully decorated with a lovely large pink screen on which green leaves and branches were delicately arranged.

Narrating was Mrs. Frank C. Breese Jr. and presenting the musical selections was Mrs. Z. C. Ambrose. Assisting at the door were Mrs. G. B. Demmary and Mrs. W. M. Parnell.

The ferret is a domesticated race of polecat.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Vidalia Methodist Church met Monday evening, February 2 at 7:00 o'clock for their regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Clifford Reeves, the president presided and opened with prayer. Mrs. Gladys Cargile gave the devotional. The financial report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. Dolph Henry.

District zone meeting, to be held at Jonesville, February 11, starting at 9:00 a.m. was announced by Mrs. C. E. Shiele, zone leader. She urged as many members as possible to attend.

Mrs. Clyde Smith was asked to write Mrs. Goldethwait, New Orleans, to ask Dr. Vernon White, who is sponsored by the Louisiana Methodist Conference, to give a lecture on "Alcoholics Anonymous" here in the near future.

The spring carnival, sponsored by the society, to be held at the high school gymnasium, on February 13, is shaping up nicely, it was reported and tickets will be available shortly.

The society is sponsoring a nursery in the church annex to take care of babies and small children while the mothers attend services. Mothers are urged to bring them each Sunday from 11:00 a.m. to 12:00 a.m. Mrs. Fred Falkenheiner, and Mrs. Dolph Henry are the keepers for the next two Sundays. Mrs. Dolph Henry will place flowers in the church next Sunday.

The society complimented Mrs. Bob Patton, Jr. with a surprise stork shower and she received many lovely gifts. Mrs. George Cagle, being ill, Mrs. Fred Falkenheiner, will have the meeting February 9th. A study led by Mrs. C. E. Shiele will take place at this time, it was announced.

Miss Margurite Garlington Weds Preston L. Harvey

One of the lovliest weddings of the season was that of Miss Margurite Garlington and Preston L. Harvey Saturday evening at 6 p.m. The impressive double ring ceremony was solemnized in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Garlington, of Quitman with Rev. C. Unsell, pastor of the Church of God Church of Pumpkin Center hearing the wedding vows which were marked with simplicity and were performed in the presence of the two families and a few close friends.

An arch-way festooned by lacy Domestic smilax garlands, formed a lovely background of greenery for the tall white tapers burning in graduating candelabra adding a radiance of soft glow over the bridal pair who spoke their vows under the twin wedding bells artistically hung at the top of the archway. Jeanette Rider and the bride's sister, Katy Jo Garlington, lighted the candles. Through the reception rooms of the Garlington home bridal arrangements of white flowers predominated.

Bridal white carnations and fronds of plumosus fern were in graceful array in floor standards tied with white satin ribbon, falling in cascaded arrangements flanked the candelabras.

The bride was a radiant picture of loveliness in an original suit of ice blue wool complimented by a winter white wool jersey blouse featuring a cluster of rhinestones at the neckline matching those of her powder blue hat with its dainty grey veil. Her shoes were gray and she wore white gloves and chose a corsage of white carnations.

The bride's only attendant was her sister Mrs. H. V. Alexander who served her sister as maid of honor. She was becomingly gowned in a dressmakers suit of toast tan faille, her accessories were brown and she chose a corsage of white carnations.

Burden Pate served as best man.

The bride was formerly employed by the Southern Advance Bag and Paper Company of Hodge. The groom is at the present time employed by the Hycologue Oil Company of Canton, Mississippi. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Harvey of Quitman.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts to a reception in their home.

Opposite the crystal punch bowl at one end of the table was the tiered confection topped by figures of bride and groom.

Ladling punch was Mrs. Guy Thrift. Presiding at the cake service was Mrs. Dorothy Rider and Mrs. Robert Henderson, sister to the bride. Offering the brides book to the guests was Mrs. G. Lawrence, aunt of the groom After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Canton, Mississippi where he is employed.

Eureka Club Members Hear Mrs. Spielman

At the January meeting the Eureka Home Demonstration Club members enjoyed another of Mrs. Euna Spielman's demonstrations, "Pleasure for the family through Landscaping the lawn." She pointed out the fact that people living in rural areas could inexpensively beautify their lawns by growing their plants from cuttings and seeds or getting them from the woods.

After the program the leaders gave their reports and contributed to the March of Dimes. It was decided that the February meeting would be held in the home of Mrs. Albert Malone.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. J. T. Whitlock, Mrs. Albert Malone, Mrs. Clyde Garland, Mrs. Tina Albritton, Mrs. B. O. Avant, Mrs. Willard Green, Mrs. H. B. Malone, Mrs. Alice Garland, Mrs. Carl Jordan, Mrs. Dallas Jordan, Mrs. Ellis Aulds, Mrs. Euna D. Spielman, Irving and Steve Green, Malcolm and Sandra Garland, Joyce Albritton, Skippy and Dianne Fife, and Wanda and Wayne Jordan.

Ivory handles on eating utensils or ivory piano keys are best cleaned with clear water or denatured alcohol. They should be kept free from grease which yellows ivory.

Mrs. D. W. Kelly Hostess To D.A.R. In Oak Grove

Mrs. D. W. Kelly, regent of General William Carroll Chapter D. A. R. was hostess to members and prospective members for supper and a program on The American Indians on Wednesday evening.

On display was an arrangement of articles made by the Indians and the supper was served in Indian style. Interesting talks were made by Mrs. Omah Calloway on American Indians and the White Man. Mrs. C. H. Neely talked on State Indian Mounds and Mrs. Alma Millikin discussed Two Famous Cherokees.

At this time a box was packed for Tammassee school and beads and buttons were gathered for the Indians.

Guests present were Mrs. C. H. Neely, Mrs. Alma Millikin, Mrs. Kate McIntosh, Miss Alene Holland, Mrs. Mildred Franklin, Mrs. Elon McCasland, Mrs. Mary B. Thompson, Mrs. Omah Calloway and Mrs. Shelly Nordgren.

To prevent wrinkles in orlon garments, they should be hung up to dry dripping wet. Do not even wring them out before hanging. You can easily put in or take out creases with an iron set at "rayon," i.e., moderately warm. Dampening is not necessary.

Rehearsal Supper Climaxes Pre-Nuptial Parties For O'Neal-Mitchiner Wedding

Bringing to a climax the pre-nuptial festivities attendant on the marriage of Miss Martha Jane Mitchiner and Johnny O'Neal, which took place in the First Methodist Church in Oak Grove Friday evening, was the rehearsal supper given at the Legion Hut Thursday evening by Mrs. Clyde Turner Sr., Mrs. Ernes. Parra, Mrs. Clyde White, Mrs. William Henry Parker and Mrs. Jeff Hair.

After the rehearsal guests gathered in the lounge of the Hut where hints of spring were seen in the arrangements of flowers on the mantel and side tables.

Supper was served in the dining room where floral decorations were of white gladiolas. Here the branched silver candelabrum ivy entwined held glowing tapers. Ivy trailed gracefully along the table to containers holding arrangements of white gladiolas.

Gold edged place cards held the names of guests and the place of the bride was specially designated.

At this time the honor guests presented gifts to the members of the wedding party.

Guests other than the bridal party were Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Mitchiner, the parents of the bride, Mrs. J. A. O'Neal, the bridegroom's mother, Rev. Lloyd O'Neal of Choudrant, Mrs. Marguerite Miles of Atlanta Ga. Dr. and Mrs. Burge Lake Village, Ark., Mr. Clyde White, Homer, Mr. Ernest Parra, Mr. W. H. Parker, Mr. Jeff Hair, of Lake Providence, Miss Ada Lee, Miss Opal Moss, Mrs. Shelly Nordgren and Miss Dee Hamilton.

Luncheon

On Friday the W. C. Hudson's home was fragrant with spring blossoms when they complimented the out-of-town guests of the O'Neal Mitchiner wedding with a buffet luncheon. Guests were Miss Janice Dennis, Jonesboro, Miss Pat Hollis, Bernice, Miss Pat Keene, Alexandria, Miss Beverly Stovall, Jonesboro, Miss Barbara Burge, Lake Village Ark., Miss Jane Weir Simsboro, Mr. Johnny O'Neal Choudrant, Bill O'Neal, Atlanta, Ga., Billy Wood, Savannah, Ga., Jack Emmons, Dodson, Roy Tally, Ruston, Billy Kelly, Choudrant, Billy Hudson and Miss Patsy Hudson.

Business And Professional Women Enjoy Program Meeting

The Business and Professional Women's Club met Tuesday evening at the YWCA for their regular monthly meeting with Mrs. Hubert Trichel, president, presiding. Hosts on this occasion was the legislative committee composed of Mrs. J. S. Chilton, chairman, Mrs. Mae Modes, Mrs. Lake Oxford, Mrs. Sidney Moore, Mrs. W. R. Rothermel, Mrs. Earl Coats and Mrs. Guy Alford, of Columbia.

The chairman introduced the first guest speaker, Mrs. Anna Edwards, B. and P. W. state chairman of legislature, of Baton Rouge. Mrs. Edwards in an inspiring and stimulating address, stressed the value and importance of business and professional women not only being well - informed and participating themselves in legislative programs, but on their obligations and duties as good citizens to educate and inform others. She declared that citizenry participation in all affairs pertaining to good government is a sure way to keep America democratic. Mrs. Edwards was strikingly handsome in a black tailleur, enhanced by an orchid corsage. She was accompanied from Baton Rouge by her charming friend, Mrs. Estelle Currie.

Mrs. Edward's address was followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. A. R. Doughty, with Mrs. Lois McKinley at the piano, which was enjoyed.

Next on the program was a panel discussion on "Permanent Registration" with Miss Jean Bonham, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, and Mrs. J. B. Thornhill of the local league of women voters, participating. They brought to the club members pertinent facts, as well as necessary information, concerning the change that is being effected in our system of registration, since Ouachita is one of the twenty - one parishes in the state to adopt permanent registration, as it was passed in the 1952 state legislature.

Mrs. Edith W. Cote, a speech major at Northeast Louisiana State College, and winner of the 1952 intercollegiate one - act play award, delighted her audience, by reading a clever, humorous poem that she had just composed.

Last, but by no means least, the chairman presented Mrs. Guy Alford, the recently - elected mayor of Columbia, who spoke on "Woman's Place in Politics." Mrs. Alford has the distinction of being one of the two lady-mayors in Louisiana. She has only been in office a short while, but she is already putting into effect many reforms in her city government.

At the conclusion of this most interesting program, the guests and members were invited in the dining room where a salad course was served. Those enjoying the occasion were: Miss Jean Bonham, Mrs. Louise Massey, Miss Betty Oxford, Mrs. Myrtle Porter, Mrs. Gladys Miles, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. Hubert Trichel, Mrs. Anna Edwards, Mrs. Estelle Currie, Mrs. Bessie Skinner, Mrs. Laura Slator, Mrs. Florence Powers, Mrs. Neil Campbell of Howard Lake, Minn., Mrs. Margaret Smith, Mrs. Mae Modes, Miss Ruby Soureal, Miss Flora Carr, Mrs. Lucille Mathis, Mrs. Cathrine Higgins, Miss Alice Baur, Miss Mary O'Kelley, Mrs. Faye Heard, Mrs. G. A. Campbell, Mrs. Edna Manley, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. J. S. Chilton, Mrs. Guy Alford, Mrs. Lois McKinley, Miss Olive Terry, Mrs. J. B. Thornhill, Mrs. Edith Cote, and Mrs. W. L. Rothermel.

Mrs. D. W. Kelly Hostess To D.A.R. In Oak Grove

Mrs. D. W. Kelly, regent of General William Carroll Chapter D. A. R. was hostess to members and prospective members for supper and a program on The American Indians on Wednesday evening.

On display was an arrangement of articles made by the Indians and the supper was served in Indian style. Interesting talks were made by Mrs. Omah Calloway on American Indians and the White Man. Mrs. C. H. Neely talked on State Indian Mounds and Mrs. Alma Millikin discussed Two Famous Cherokees.

At this time a box was packed for Tammassee school and beads and buttons were gathered for the Indians.

Guests present were Mrs. C. H. Neely, Mrs. Alma Millikin, Mrs. Kate McIntosh, Miss Alene Holland, Mrs. Mildred Franklin, Mrs. Elon McCasland, Mrs. Mary B. Thompson, Mrs. Omah Calloway and Mrs. Shelly Nordgren.

To prevent wrinkles in orlon garments, they should be hung up to dry dripping wet. Do not even wring them out before hanging. You can easily put in or take out creases with an iron set at "rayon," i.e., moderately warm. Dampening is not necessary.

Rehearsal Supper Climaxes Pre-Nuptial Parties For O'Neal-Mitchiner Wedding

Bringing to a climax the pre-nuptial festivities attendant on the marriage of Miss Martha Jane Mitchiner and Johnny O'Neal, which took place in the First Methodist Church in Oak Grove Friday evening, was the rehearsal supper given at the Legion Hut Thursday evening by Mrs. Clyde Turner Sr., Mrs. Ernes. Parra, Mrs. Clyde White, Mrs. William Henry Parker and Mrs. Jeff Hair.

After the rehearsal guests gathered in the lounge of the Hut where hints of spring were seen in the arrangements of flowers on the mantel and side tables.

Supper was served in the dining room where floral decorations were of white gladiolas. Here the branched silver candelabrum ivy entwined held glowing tapers. Ivy trailed gracefully along the table to containers holding arrangements of white gladiolas.

Gold edged place cards held the names of guests and the place of the bride was specially designated.

At this time the honor guests presented gifts to the members of the wedding party.

Guests other than the bridal party were Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Mitchiner, the parents of the bride, Mrs. J. A. O'Neal, the bridegroom's mother, Rev. Lloyd O'Neal of Choudrant, Mrs. Marguerite Miles of Atlanta Ga. Dr. and Mrs. Barge Lake Village, Ark., Mr. Clyde White, Homer, Mr. Ernest Parra, Mr. W. H. Parker, Mr. Jeff Hair, of Lake Providence, Miss Ada Lee, Miss Opal Moss, Mrs. Shelly Nordgren and Miss Dee Hamilton.

Luncheon

On Friday the W. C. Hudson's home was fragrant with spring blossoms when they complimented the out-of-town guests of the O'Neal Mitchiner wedding with a buffet luncheon. Guests were Miss Janice Dennis, Jonesboro, Miss Pat Hollis, Bernice, Miss Pat Keene, Alexandria, Miss Beverly Stovall, Jonesboro, Miss Barbara Burge, Lake Village Ark., Miss Jane Weir Simsboro, Mr. Johnny O'Neal Choudrant, Bill O'Neal, Atlanta, Ga., Billy Wood, Savannah, Ga., Jack Emmons, Dodson, Roy Tally, Ruston, Billy Kelly, Choudrant, Billy Hudson and Miss Patsy Hudson.

Bayou DeSiard Garden Club Entertained By Mrs. Heller

The Bayou DeSiard Garden Club held their regular February meeting at the Frances Hotel with Mrs. E. Heller hostess, and Mrs. H. H. Petty co - hostess. The room was beautifully decorated with camellias at every vantage point with the arrangement for the coffee table being outstanding.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. R. D. Farr, Jr., vice-president, with a reading of a "Gardener's Prayer," in unison, followed by Mrs. W. G. Miller, secretary, giving the minutes of the January meeting.

A nominating committee was appointed at the last meeting, and at this time officers were elected for the coming year as follows: Mrs. S. Cage, president; Mrs. R. T. Farr, vice-president; Mrs. H. A. Huffman, secretary; Mrs. P. N. Edwards, treasurer; Mrs. W. G. Miller, reporter; Mrs. Doyne DeMasterson, parliamentarian.

The following committees were also appointed: membership, Mrs. J. D. Kelly; program, Mrs. C. Ackel; horticultural report, Mrs. R. D. Farr; project, Mrs. James Bradley; telephone, Mrs. E. P. Chapman and Mrs. W. B. Inabnet; sunshine, Mrs. Jack Rushing.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Farr, who spoke on the federating of the club, giving detailed information on what members would be expected to do during the coming year. Chapter XIV of the year book was reviewed by Mrs. H. H. Petty. The title of which was "Period Arrangements."

Mrs. R. C. Holler gave the monthly horticultural report.

Delicious refreshments were served to Mrs. James Bradley, Mrs. Carl Slaker, Mrs. R. D. Farr, Jr., Mrs. R. T. Farr, Mrs. W. G. Miller, Mrs. J. A. Huffman, Mrs. R. C. Holler, Mrs. J. A. Cage, Mrs. Jack Rushing, Mrs. Carter Ackel, Mrs. E. P. Chapman, Mrs. Carl Thompson, Mrs. P. N. Edwards, Mrs. F. T. Smith, Mrs. Petty, Mrs. Heller, and one guest, Mrs. F. H. Pittman, of Fairmont, North Carolina.

SPRING BULBS IN BLOOM—Mrs. John Munholland is shown in the yard at her home 2409 Trenton St., West Monroe among her many Spring bulbs which are now in full bloom. (Staff Photo by Leon Noland, Jr.)

The February meeting of the Monroe Garden Club will be held at the Science Building of Northeast Louisiana College on Monday, February 9th at 2:30 p.m. The speaker for this occasion will be Mr. Ben Arthur Davis of Meridian, Miss. His subject will be Planting For Continuous Bloom."

Mr. Davis is very well known throughout the south by his various articles and columns in the Hollands Magazine of which he is Garden Editor. This magazine is written entirely for the south and Mr. Davis' articles and advice are based on many years experience in his own garden at Hope Haven in Meridian, Miss.

The garden editor is also the author of two fast selling popular garden books, "Azaleas - Camellias- Gardenias" and "Holland's Handbook for Southern Gardeners." He has recently put on sale a number of inexpensive pamphlets covering various phases of gardening which he sells through Holland's. He writes a garden column for a number of newspapers throughout the south.

Mr. Davis has been speaking before Garden Clubs and Azalea and Camellia Societies throughout the south for a number of years. He is well known among the Garden Federations and generally considered one of the foremost southern authorities.

YOUR GARDEN

Committee Offers Gardener Tips

By HENRY PREE

Written for NEA Service

Ever helpful to the gardener are the official releases of the All-America selections committee which rates the new varieties after three years of testing. The trial gardens are located in all climatic zones and geographic sections of the United States and in southern Canada.

The trial grounds, 18 for flowers and 22 for vegetables, are maintained by resident judges who watch and note the entries for two and often three seasons. These reports are submitted to the All America Selections committee and those deemed worthy of recognition are then introduced to the garden world. Gardeners may depend on any new selection as recommended, for it has been thoroughly tested.

Royal Carpet alyssum and Comanche petunia win the only awards and recommendations of All-America Selections for 1953. With a silver and bronze award, respectively, these are the outstanding new flowers of the year. Along with dozens of other promising annuals from around the world they have been thoroughly tested and compared with closest similar kinds during the past two years of trials.

Royal Carpet alyssum is the first new variety in the alyssum family since Violet Gem was introduced a few years ago. Royal Carpet is the color of the richest, deepest Violet Gem and flattened out to only two inches tall by 10 or 12 inches across.

Covered almost completely with a sheet of violet or royal purple bloom, it seems to have no foliage. It makes a richer and more attractive blanket of refreshing color. Carpet of Snow is the white-flowered counterpart.

Use this alyssum in sunny positions for ground cover, lowest edging, in rock and walls. It certainly creates attention and admiration, and it is about the easiest seed to grow.

Comanche petunia is absolutely true to type and color, the reddest and richest petunia so far created. Since petunias are the most widely popular and satisfactory planted flowers of them all, Comanche has added significance and value. It is always in bloom, from early spring until killing frosts, and may be carried over the winter in the lower South.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q—From what plant is cinnamon extracted and what is the process?

A—It is made from the inner bark of an evergreen tropical tree of the Laurel family, listed botanically as cinnamomum zeyianicum. The bark is taken from the smooth-growing two-year-old branches; dried in the sun and ground.

Q—Many of our house plants are infested with plant lice and mealy bugs. Dusting with DDT has had no effect on them. What pesticide should be used?

A—Plant lice, aphids and mealy bugs cannot be killed by stomach poisons of any kind because these insects suck their food. Twice - monthly spraying of both sides of the leaves with a nicotine sulfate-and-soapy-water solution will rid the plants of these pests.

The Home Shift With Mildred Swift

It's June in January when I'm writing this. Haven't the camellias been beautiful? I never knew there were so many large pink perfection bushes in the Twin Cities. This winter has been perfect for our camellias and susanquas.

Bulbs In Mass

While out riding this afternoon, drive by the John Munholland home, 2409 Trenton, West Monroe. Rather it's the Ellett and Munholland home. Anyhow, go by and see the thousands of bulbs in bloom. Many of these were planted years ago by Mr. John Munholland, one of Monroe's well - loved good citizens. I've been very successful transplanting these old bulbs while they're blooming. If you do this, be sure to leave the tops on them until they're dead. Bulbs are lovely planted under trees in front of shrubbery borders and on slopes. A ground cover such as ivy, planted with the bulbs, helps to hide the unsightly tops as they die. Mrs. McQuiller always said, "Throw your bulbs up in the air, let them fall. Plant them where they fall." They're not too pretty planted in straight rows.

A Reference Library

For ten years, Mr. Wiley Roach has saved every newspaper and magazine article on gardening. He has these filed. So garden club members, you'll know where to go when you need some subject matter. Not that you can't find what you need at our libraries, but it's so much fun running through files on nothing but gardening.

Magnolias

Many new gardners added colored magnolias last year. My! Don't they give "umph" to the yard at this time of year? The large white is called Denudada. One of the nurseries has this variety. If you want to see one in bloom, wait a few days and go by Mrs. J. H. Thatcher's, 501 Speed Drive. The tree is small, it's planted by a purple magnolia and is on the side of her yard bordering Fifth Street. I've been told there's a street in Rochester, lined with Magnolia Saulangeanas and that it's a mecca for tourists all spring.

More Garden News

If you trimmed the foliage on your violets last August, I'm sure you're rewarded with more blooms longer stems, greener foliage with leaves not so large that they hide the violets.

Don't forget to buy a pussey willow or root some cuttings from your neighbors. They're lovely in the house. One of the prettiest arrangements I ever saw was made by Nibby Thompson and she used pussey willow sprout with spring flowers.

The last of the month you can cut back your roses. If you prune them now and we have a freeze, the shock will be bad for them.

Gardens Of Ireland

An unusual picture will be shown Friday evening, February 13 in the social room at the First Methodist Church, Monroe. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gladney, Baton Rouge, made these films when visiting in Ireland. This will be a rare treat to families of North Louisiana. There is no charge, of course. An offering will be accepted which will be used for beautifying the parsonage on Jackson Street. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Food News

Plentiful foods for the week are: lettuce, cabbage, dry beans, and peanut butter. Two new kinds of peanut butter will be appearing on your grocer's shelves before long. One is called Peanut Snack which comes packaged in small rolls, wrapped in cellophane. The other is Peanut Spread which is similar to existing peanut butter. It differs mostly in taste due to the addition of maple and orange flavoring. It also spreads more easily.

Hat Class Friday.

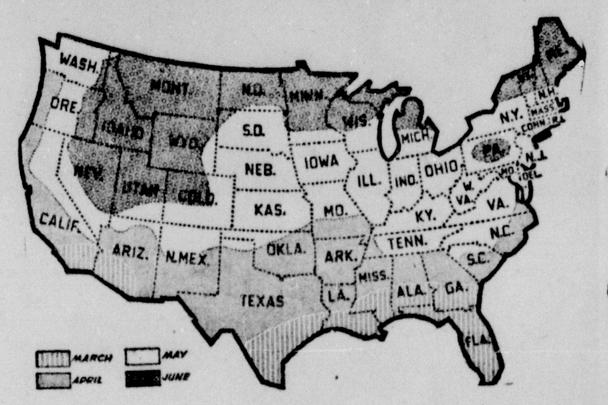

Nine o'clock. Be on time. All instructions will be given promptly at 9:00, Fri. 13th. Those hat leaders, Maud Mayo, Louise Smith, Blanche Ray and Margaret Webb will again give a day of their valuable time. We'll work on straws. Here is your list of supplies to bring: a lunch, a straw hat, razor blade, thread the color of your hat, needle, thimble, scissors, plenty of pins, tape line, cloth for cleaning, hat brush, cleaning fluid. If you want to brighten your hat bring a tube of oil paint the color you want your hat and a bottle of clear shellac. (Not synthetic. A small 10 cent bottle will be O. K.) If you're going to paint your hat, you'll need a small paint brush and a small container. We'll finish about 2 or 2:30.

That's all. See you again next Sunday in this same column.

P.S. Drive by the Dansby home, 1100 Forsythe, this afternoon and notice that beautiful rose colored bush in bloom in their front yard. It's winter cherry, the first I've ever seen in bloom in north Louisiana. Will my face be red if the rain or cold shatters the blooms before Sunday?

Inferior soft woods often have knots. They will show through any number of coats of paint as dark stains unless they are shellacked before paint is applied.

Gardening this Week

WINTER'S LAST SHADOWS—Killing frost map.

AP Newsfeatures

Start window-sill gardening now. Seeds may be started in cigar boxes, cheese boxes, flower pots as well as flats. It's not too early to sow tomato, pepper, early cabbage, cauliflower and—for early bloom in the flower garden—canterbury bells, snapdragons, candytuft, asters, delphinium and gaillardias, to name a few.

Make sure containers are clean. Make good provision for drainage, and use light, fine-screened compost mixed with plenty of sand and some peat moss or leaf mold.

Watch and tend houseplants carefully, because pests are particularly active now. Destroy mealybugs—which look like fluffy masses of cotton—immediately, Spray plants as required, keep leaves free from dust. Knock out plants from pots to see if re-potting is required.

Unless surgery is required because of storm damage, prune only shrubs which flower late in the spring. Paint clean wounds in damaged trees with special tree paint. Look over trees and shrubs for scale infestations and—when weather is well above freezing—apply dormant spray.

Keep making regular garden rounds, pressing back into the soil plants dislodged by freezing and thawing.

Force some early-flowering shrubs for an indoor breath of spring—forsythia, apple and spirea. For most, make a slanting cut on the stem and keep in shade until flowers open.

Bayou DeSiard Garden Club Entertained By Mrs. Heller

The Bayou DeSiard Garden Club held their regular February meeting at the Frances Hotel with Mrs. E. Heller hostess, and Mrs. H. H. Petty co - hostess. The room was beautifully decorated with camellias at every vantage point with the arrangement for the coffee table being outstanding.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. R. D. Farr, Jr., vice-president, with a reading of a "Gardener's Prayer," in unison, followed by Mrs. W. G. Miller, secretary, giving the minutes of the January meeting.

A nominating committee was appointed at the last meeting, and at this time officers were elected for the coming year as follows: Mrs. S. Cage, president; Mrs. R. T. Farr, vice-president; Mrs. H. A. Huffman, secretary; Mrs. P. N. Edwards, treasurer; Mrs. W. G. Miller, reporter; Mrs. Doyne DeMasterson, parliamentarian.

The following committees were also appointed: membership, Mrs. J. D. Kelly; program, Mrs. C. Ackel; horticultural report, Mrs. R. D. Farr; project, Mrs. James Bradley; telephone, Mrs. E. P. Chapman and Mrs. W. B. Inabnet; sunshine, Mrs. Jack Rushing.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Farr, who spoke on the federating of the club, giving detailed information on what members would be expected to do during the coming year. Chapter XIV of the year book was reviewed by Mrs. H. H. Petty. The title of which was "Period Arrangements."

Mrs. R. C. Holler gave the monthly horticultural report.

Delicious refreshments were served to Mrs. James Bradley, Mrs. Carl Slaker, Mrs. R. D. Farr, Jr., Mrs. R. T. Farr, Mrs. W. G. Miller, Mrs. J. A. Huffman, Mrs. R. C. Holler, Mrs. J. A. Cage, Mrs. Jack Rushing, Mrs. Carter Ackel, Mrs. E. P. Chapman, Mrs. Carl Thompson, Mrs. P. N. Edwards, Mrs. F. T. Smith, Mrs. Petty, Mrs. Heller, and one guest, Mrs. F. H. Pittman, of Fairmont, North Carolina.

Have you noticed how some old folks are wild about dancing and some young folks are dancing about wild?

The Home Shift With Mildred Swift

It's June in January when I'm writing this. Haven't the camellias been beautiful? I never knew there were so many large pink perfection bushes in the Twin Cities. This winter has been perfect for our camellias and susanquas.

Bulbs In Mass

While out riding this afternoon, drive by the John Munholland home, 2409 Trenton, West Monroe. Rather it's the Ellett and Munholland home. Anyhow, go by and see the thousands of bulbs in bloom. Many of these were planted years ago by Mr. John Munholland, one of Monroe's well - loved good citizens. I've been very successful transplanting these old bulbs while they're blooming. If you do this, be sure to leave the tops on them until they're dead. Bulbs are lovely planted under trees in front of shrubbery borders and on slopes. A ground cover such as ivy, planted with the bulbs, helps to hide the unsightly tops as they die. Mrs. McQuiller always said, "Throw your bulbs up in the air, let them fall. Plant them where they fall." They're not too pretty planted in straight rows.

A Reference Library

For ten years, Mr. Wiley Roach has saved every newspaper and magazine article on gardening. He has these filed. So garden club members, you'll know where to go when you need some subject matter. Not that you can't find what you need at our libraries, but it's so much fun running through files on nothing but gardening.

Magnolias

Many new gardners added colored magnolias last year. My! Don't they give "umph" to the yard at this time of year? The large white is called Denudada. One of the nurseries has this variety. If you want to see one in bloom, wait a few days and go by Mrs. J. H. Thatcher's, 501 Speed Drive. The tree is small, it's planted by a purple magnolia and is on the side of her yard bordering Fifth Street. I've been told there's a street in Rochester, lined with Magnolia Saulangeanas and that it's a mecca for tourists all spring.

More Garden News

If you trimmed the foliage on your violets last August, I'm sure you're rewarded with more blooms longer stems, greener foliage with leaves not so large that they hide the violets.

Don't forget to buy a pussey willow or root some cuttings from your neighbors. They're lovely in the house. One of the prettiest arrangements I ever saw was made by Nibby Thompson and she used pussey willow sprout with spring flowers.

The last of the month you can cut back your roses. If you prune them now and we have a freeze, the shock will be bad for them.

Gardens Of Ireland

An unusual picture will be shown Friday evening, February 13 in the social room at the First Methodist Church, Monroe. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gladney, Baton Rouge, made these films when visiting in Ireland. This will be a rare treat to families of North Louisiana. There is no charge, of course. An offering will be accepted which will be used for beautifying the parsonage on Jackson Street. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Food News

Plentiful foods for the week are: lettuce, cabbage, dry beans, and peanut butter. Two new kinds of peanut butter will be appearing on your grocer's shelves before long. One is called Peanut Snack which comes packaged in small rolls, wrapped in cellophane. The other is Peanut Spread which is similar to existing peanut butter. It differs mostly in taste due to the addition of maple and orange flavoring. It also spreads more easily.

Hat Class Friday.

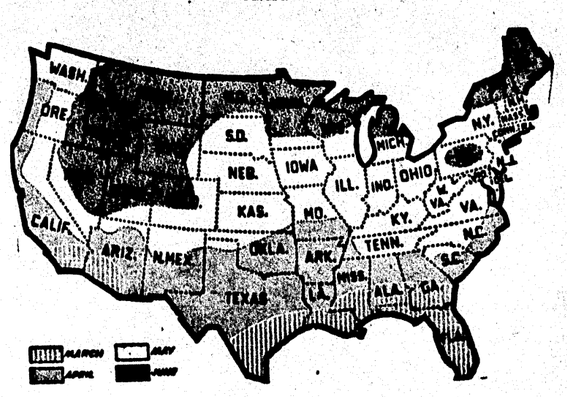

Nine o'clock. Be on time. All instructions will be given promptly at 9:00, Fri. 13th. Those hat leaders, Maud Mayo, Louise Smith, Blanche Ray and Margaret Webb will again give a day of their valuable time. We'll work on straws. Here is your list of supplies to bring: a lunch, a straw hat, razor blade, thread the color of your hat, needle, thimble, scissors, plenty of pins, tape line, cloth for cleaning, hat brush, cleaning fluid. If you want to brighten your hat bring a tube of oil paint the color you want your hat and a bottle of clear shellac. (Not synthetic. A small 10 cent bottle will be O. K.) If you're going to paint your hat, you'll need a small paint brush and a small container. We'll finish about 2 or 2:30.

That's all. See you again next Sunday in this same column.

P.S. Drive by the Dansby home, 1100 Forsythe, this afternoon and notice that beautiful rose colored bush in bloom in their front yard. It's winter cherry, the first I've ever seen in bloom in north Louisiana. Will my face be red if the rain or cold shatters the blooms before Sunday?

Inferior soft woods often have knots. They will show through any number of coats of paint as dark stains unless they are shellacked before paint is applied.

Gardening this Week

WINTER'S LAST SHADOWS—Killing frost map.

AP Newsfeatures

Start window-sill gardening now. Seeds may be started in cigar boxes, cheese boxes, flower pots as well as flats. It's not too early to sow tomato, pepper, early cabbage, cauliflower and—for early bloom in the flower garden—canterbury bells, snapdragons, candytuft, asters, delphinium and gaillardias, to name a few.

Make sure containers are clean. Make good provision for drainage, and use light, fine-screened compost mixed with plenty of sand and some peat moss or leaf mold.

Watch and tend houseplants carefully, because pests are particularly active now. Destroy mealybugs—which look like fluffy masses of cotton—immediately, Spray plants as required, keep leaves free from dust. Knock out plants from pots to see if re-potting is required.

Unless surgery is required because of storm damage, prune only shrubs which flower late in the spring. Paint clean wounds in damaged trees with special tree paint. Look over trees and shrubs for scale infestations and—when weather is well above freezing—apply dormant spray.

Keep making regular garden rounds, pressing back into the soil plants dislodged by freezing and thawing.

Force some early-flowering shrubs for an indoor breath of spring—forsythia, apple and spirea. For most, make a slanting cut on the stem and keep in shade until flowers open.

Oil and clean garden tools and keep studying the seed catalogues for inspiration.

The February meeting of the Monroe Garden Club will be held at the Science Building of Northeast Louisiana College on Monday, February 9th at 2:30 p.m. The speaker for this occasion will be Mr. Ben Arthur Davis of Meridian, Miss. His subject will be Planting For Continuous Bloom."

Mr. Davis is very well known throughout the south by his various articles and columns in the Hollands Magazine of which he is Garden Editor. This magazine is written entirely for the south and Mr. Davis' articles and advice are based on many years experience in his own garden at Hope Haven in Meridian, Miss.

The garden editor is also the author of two fast selling popular garden books, "Azaleas - Camellias- Gardenias" and "Holland's Handbook for Southern Gardeners." He has recently put on sale a number of inexpensive pamphlets covering various phases of gardening which he sells through Holland's. He writes a garden column for a number of newspapers throughout the south.

Mr. Davis has been speaking before Garden Clubs and Azalea and Camellia Societies throughout the south for a number of years. He is well known among the Garden Federations and generally considered one of the foremost southern authorities.

YOUR GARDEN

Committee Offers Gardener Tips

By HENRY PREE

Written for NEA Service

Ever helpful to the gardener are the official releases of the All-America selections committee which rates the new varieties after three years of testing. The trial gardens are located in all climatic zones and geographic sections of the United States and in southern Canada.

The trial grounds, 18 for flowers and 22 for vegetables, are maintained by resident judges who watch and note the entries for two and often three seasons. These reports are submitted to the All America Selections committee and those deemed worthy of recognition are then introduced to the garden world. Gardeners may depend on any new selection as recommended, for it has been thoroughly tested.

Royal Carpet alyssum and Comanche petunia win the only awards and recommendations of All-America Selections for 1953. With a silver and bronze award, respectively, these are the outstanding new flowers of the year. Along with dozens of other promising annuals from around the world they have been thoroughly tested and compared with closest similar kinds during the past two years of trials.

Royal Carpet alyssum is the first new variety in the alyssum family since Violet Gem was introduced a few years ago. Royal Carpet is the color of the richest, deepest Violet Gem and flattened out to only two inches tall by 10 or 12 inches across.

Covered almost completely with a sheet of violet or royal purple bloom, it seems to have no foliage. It makes a richer and more attractive blanket of refreshing color. Carpet of Snow is the white-flowered counterpart.

Use this alyssum in sunny positions for ground cover, lowest edging, in rock and walls. It certainly creates attention and admiration, and it is about the easiest seed to grow.

Comanche petunia is absolutely true to type and color, the reddest and richest petunia so far created. Since petunias are the most widely popular and satisfactory planted flowers of them all, Comanche has added significance and value. It is always in bloom, from early spring until killing frosts, and may be carried over the winter in the lower South.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q—From what plant is cinnamon extracted and what is the process?

A—It is made from the inner bark of an evergreen tropical tree of the Laurel family, listed botanically as cinnamomum zeyianicum. The bark is taken from the smooth-growing two-year-old branches; dried in the sun and ground.

Q—Many of our house plants are infested with plant lice and mealy bugs. Dusting with DDT has had no effect on them. What pesticide should be used?

A—Plant lice, aphids and mealy bugs cannot be killed by stomach poisons of any kind because these insects suck their food. Twice - monthly spraying of both sides of the leaves with a nicotine sulfate-and-soapy-water solution will rid the plants of these pests.

CELEBRATE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Dollar recently celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with an open house held at their home, 1709 North 5th St.

Monroe Couple Celebrate Silver Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Dollar entertained recently in their home 1709 North 5th St., the occasion being their 25th wedding anniversary. More than a hundred friends and relatives called between the appointed hours of 4 until 8 p. m. Numerous congratulations and gifts from out of town friends also were received throughout the day.

Receiving the guests with Mr. and Mrs. Dollar were their four sons, J. L., Ralph, Jr., Freddie, and Sonny and son-in-law, Cecil C. Johnson.

Presiding over the pink and silver guest book placed on a nearby table was Joan Dollar, attractive daughter-in-law of the couple, while in complete charge of listing and receiving the gifts was Mrs. A. J. Speer, Jr. who invited guests in to view the gifts throughout the entire time of entertaining.

Mrs. H. D. Cleaver of Wynne, Ark. and Mrs. V. S. Garnett of this city presided at the tea table overlaid with a beautiful Labyrinth handmade cloth which came from Brazil. At one end a beautiful two-tiered pink and silver cake topped with a silver arch and silver wedding bells was surrounded by tall shell pink tapers extending from silver holders and tied with pink Debutante camellias and silver bows.

Dainty pink and silver individual cakes, tiny open face turkey sandwiches and salted nuts were served throughout the evening by Mrs. John W. Huitt, assisted by Miss Gloria Barton. Daughters of the couple, Barbara Jane and Adah Beth, served pink frosted punch and pink and silver cakes from the buffet which also was a profusion of pink Debutantes and silver bows. Other decorations included a silver plaque with hand made silver and pink wax ornaments which graced the mantel and pink and silver arrangements were further carried out through the rest of the house.

Besides numerous friends calling from Monroe, out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Cleaver, of Wynne, Mrs. Lillian McCoy, of New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dollar, Pine Bluff, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Johnson and two daughters, Janet Gayle and Sandra Kaye of Oak Grove, Mr. Kelly Nix and Mr. Maurice Nix of Oak Grove.

You can make your place into a "showplace" like I did with
HARDY, RED DWARF DOGWOOD

My name is Mrs. Mary McKay and folks come from miles around to see my dogwood blooming in the Springtime. I began planting them as a hobby. Then I kept on planting more and more because I found out how easy they are to grow —and how beautiful they are in the Springtime.

My favorite is the hardy red dwarf dogwood because it will stand any kind of weather, I don't care how cold it gets! And it just thrives in any kind of soil. You just plant it and watch it grow! And, when yours is loaded with big red blooms in the Springtime, believe me, your place will be a "showplace"!

It's time to plant now and I've got lots of them ready for you to plant. I'll wrap yours in water-repellent plastic and pack them in corrugated boxes to make sure they reach you in perfect condition. I'll send you three of my hardy dwarf dogwood for only $2.00. And if you order right away—within 10 days—I'll pack in extra, as a gift, one of my snow white flowering dogwood, 2 to 3 ft. tall. Now, don't send me any money! I want you to get yours first and see for yourself what fine shape they arrive in. Yours will come C. O. D.

CELEBRATE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Dollar recently celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with an open house held at their home, 1709 North 5th St.

Monroe Couple Celebrate Silver Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Dollar entertained recently in their home 1709 North 5th St., the occasion being their 25th wedding anniversary. More than a hundred friends and relatives called between the appointed hours of 4 until 8 p. m. Numerous congratulations and gifts from out of town friends also were received throughout the day.

Receiving the guests with Mr. and Mrs. Dollar were their four sons, J. L., Ralph, Jr., Freddie, and Sonny and son-in-law, Cecil C. Johnson.

Presiding over the pink and silver guest book placed on a nearby table was Joan Dollar, attractive daughter-in-law of the couple, while in complete charge of listing and receiving the gifts was Mrs. A. J. Speer, Jr. who invited guests in to view the gifts throughout the entire time of entertaining.

Mrs. H. D. Cleaver of Wynne, Ark. and Mrs. V. S. Garnett of this city presided at the tea table overlaid with a beautiful Labyrinth handmade cloth which came from Brazil. At one end a beautiful two-tiered pink and silver cake topped with a silver arch and silver wedding bells was surrounded by tall shell pink tapers extending from silver holders and tied with pink Debutante camellias and silver bows.

Dainty pink and silver individual cakes, tiny open face turkey sandwiches and salted nuts were served throughout the evening by Mrs. John W. Huitt, assisted by Miss Gloria Barton. Daughters of the couple, Barbara Jane and Adah Beth, served pink frosted punch and pink and silver cakes from the buffet which also was a profusion of pink Debutantes and silver bows. Other decorations included a silver plaque with hand made silver and pink wax ornaments which graced the mantel and pink and silver arrangements were further carried out through the rest of the house.

Besides numerous friends calling from Monroe, out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Cleaver, of Wynne, Mrs. Lillian McCoy, of New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dollar, Pine Bluff, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Johnson and two daughters, Janet Gayle and Sandra Kaye of Oak Grove, Mr. Kelly Nix and Mr. Maurice Nix of Oak Grove.

Twin City Council Of United Church Women To Hold Service

The Twin City Council of United Church Women will observe the World Day of Prayer on Friday, February 20, at 2:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe.

The speaker for this occasion is the Rev. W. H. McFadden, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city.

Each year on the first Friday in Lent, The World Day of Prayer is observed in more than 17,000 communities around the world. The day is sponsored in the United States by the United Church Women. Its purpose is to unite people of the World in a bond of prayer and Christian Fellowship. Each succeeding generation is molded by the prevailing attitudes in a given community. Each community reflects noble and moral values only to the extent that individuals, singly and unitedly, express them. In the World Day of Prayer Service, Christians, as individuals, unite in their belief that prayer is a world power for good; as a group, they are uniting to strengthen this power for good in the world.

The voluntary offering given on that day goes to the support of Missionary work at home and abroad, of which such work is crucial to the sustenance and growth of Christian principles in the world today. The entire Christian community should embrace with greater fervor its missionary obligation.

Rev. McFadden Reviews Books During February

During the month of February, on Sunday evenings at 7:30 p.m., in the sanctuary of The First Presbyterian Church of Monroe, corner of Catalpa and Grammont Streets, its minister, the Reverend W. H. McFadden, will review four outstanding religious books.

The first of this series was on February 1st, when he reviewed Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's "A Faith for Tough Times."

The second of the series will be on Sunday evening, February 8th, when he will review Dr. Roy E. Dickerson's book "Understanding Myself."

Dr. Dickerson is a popular speaker and discussion leader on matters pertaining to family life, juvenile delinquency, etc. He is executive secretary of the Cincinnati social hygiene of family relations. He is also chairman of family life for the National Counsel of Churches. He is a Presbyterian and resides at Cincinnati.

The little book "Understanding Myself" is indispensable for young people, parents and counselors. It enables anyone to see his own faults and also reveals how we can remake ourselves through faith in Christ.

On February 15th, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's "The Art of Real Happiness" will be presented.

These reviews are being given with the hope that they will contribute to the religious and cultural knowledge of our community. The subject matter of these books is non-denominational and members of all faiths are cordially invited to attend.

Students Of St. Matthew's Attend Alex. Convention

The Alexandria Dioscesan Sodality convention scheduled for sessions in Alexandria Friday, February 6, through Saturday, Feb. 7 will be attended by the following sisters and students from St. Matthew's High School:

PRESBYTERIAN SPEAKER NAMED

Annual Meeting At Choudrant To Be Address By Rev. James McCord

The Rev. James I. McCord, dean and professor of systematic theology at the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Austin, Tex will be one of the featured speakers at the annual Laymen's Association meeting of Red River Presbytery to be held at Alabama Church in Choudrant February 20.

Over 400 Presbyterian laymen from north Louisiana are expected to attend the all day meeting. Registration will open at 9:30 a.m., and the program will start at 10 a.m.

Added highlights of this annual conference will be observance of the 100th anniversary of the founding of Alabama Church and dedication of Hutton Hall, new dining hall and kitchen recently completed on the grounds of this church.

Norris Smith of Choudrant is president of the Laymen's Association and Sidney J. Crump of Shreveport is secretary-treasurer.

Dr. McCord, who will appear on the afternoon program, is one of the leading theological figures in the Presbyterian Church. He lectured at the Presbyterian World Youth conference held in Scotland in 1951 and delivered the annual lectures at St. Andrew's in Saskatoon, Canada in 1949. Dr. McCord was a delegate to the Presbyterian World Alliance in Geneva, Switzerland in 1948. He is a member of the editorial council of interpretation: A Journal of Bible and Theology, and was president of the Southwestern Society of Biblical study and research from 1946 to 1948.

CONFERENCE LEADER — The Rev. John M. Allin, rector of Grace Church of this city, served as leader of the annual College Conference held at All Saints' Episcopal Junior College, Vicksburg, Miss., February 6th through 8th.

Rev. John Allin Speaks At Annual College Meeting

A dance was held Saturday evening with the conference guests of the All Saints' girls, the Re-Bops playing the music.

Following Holy Communion to - at 8:15, the 1953 College Conferday at 7:30 a.m. and breakfast ence will adjourn.

Washington Church Still Intact

By SIGRID ARNE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON — Beautiful old Christ Church in Alexandria, Va. —it stands ten miles from the White House, down the Potomac— will be packed Sunday, Feb. 22.

It's the birthday of the resolute Virginia gentleman who became the Father of the American republic, and it's the church where "G. Washington" worshiped.

His pew is still there, as he used it, a square enclosure in the Colonial manner so that part of the family sat with their backs to the pulpit. His silver nameplate marks the pew door.

Message Recalled

Washington left a message in his farewell address on Sept. 17, 1796, about the relation of politics and religion.

He remarked then:

"Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports. In vain would that man claim the tribute of patriotism who should labor to subvert these great pillars of human happiness, these firmest props of the duties of men and citizens. The mere politician, equally with the pious man, ought to respect and cherish them.

"Let us with caution indulge the supposition that morality can be maintained without religion."

Washington was a vestryman of the parish in pre-Revolution days. Christ Church was completed in 1773. At the auction of the church pews Washington paid the highest price, 36 pounds and 10 shillings.

In the Christ Church dooryard Washington took an historic step in 1774. After services, with his neighbors around him, he publicly announced he could no longer support the British king.

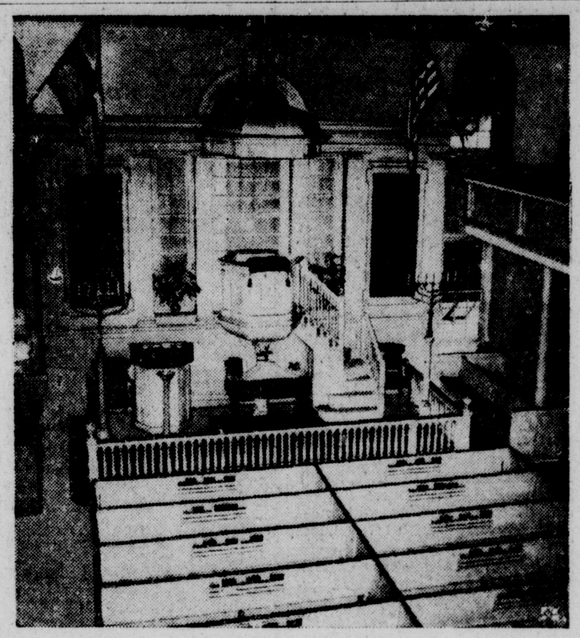

His first Sunday back from the Revolution he was back in his pew at Christ Church. When he died the church's rector read the service at Mt. Vernon.

Family Bible

The church has a tall, graceful steeple and is shaded by ancient trees which were saplings in Washington's day. The interior is all white, with box pews. The graceful pulpit is wine-glass shaped, flanked on each side by a beautiful tablet on which is printed the Ten Commandments, the Lord's Prayer, the Apostles' Creed and the Golden Rule.

For many decades in the early history it was a custom for the president of the United States to attend on the Sunday nearest Washington's birthday. President Wilson and David Lloyd George, prime minister of Britain, worshiped there one Sunday after the first World War. President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill attended New Year's Day services in 1942.

CHRIST CHURCH in Alexandria, Va., which Washington attended and in which he maintained a family pew.

S. SIDE CHURCH IS GOING AHEAD

Progress Shown Along All Lines; Bishop Visitor

The Southside Methodist Church, South Fourth and Temple Drive, is rapidly becoming a center of activity in community service. Only a few months old, it is endeavoring to carry on a full calendar of church activities to fill spiritual needs.

A visit was paid the past week by Bishop Paul E. Martin, of Little Rock, Ark., and by Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Giles. The bishop was well pleased with the progress of this new church, and predicted a bright future.

Rev. Lea Joyner, pastor, and a number of members of the board of stewards were present to meet the bishop. Mrs. G. F. Snapp, superintendent of the church school, escorted the bishop through her department. Light refreshments were served by the women of the church.

A short prayer service was conducted by the bishop.

Floral offerings were handsome camellias, the gift of Mrs. Boatner McQuiller and Miss Pearl Lefevre.

Sunday night the Ravel choir, directed by Mrs. R. F. Heritage, broadcast a program over KNOE.

Thursday evenings at 7:15 p.m. a weekly prayer service is held and a study in the Life of Christ is conducted.

Baptist Association To Meet 10 A.M. Monday

Baptist pastors from more than 60 churches in Ouachita Parish, Caldwell, Trenton and Morehouse Baptist Associations will meet Monday at 10 a.m. The meeting will be at the Swartz Baptist Church where Rev. H. M. Roach is the pastor.

Rev. H. L. Sampson will present a Bible lecture and Rev. W. R. Rogers will bring an inspirational message. Lunch will be served by the host church.

According to Rev. Leon Ivey, president of the conference, there is a possibility that the district wide pastors conference will become a regular meeting each month, this will be discussed at the meeting. The program is one of fellowship and inspiration.

Bible Comment

WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The full phrase is, "The glorious gospel of the blessed God," and it is found in Paul's letter to Timothy (I Timothy 1:11)

Shortly after I came from Canada to the United States, and later came from Wisconsin to Boston to edit The Congregationalist, I used in an article the expression "the glorious gospel of the grace of God."

I had, unconsciously, combined two references, that quoted above from I Timothy 1, and that in Acts 20:24, "the gospel of the grace of God." Both references were by St. Paul to the gospel "committed to (his) trust," and the gospel in either case was "the glorious gospel of the grace of God."

My use of the phrase was accordingly well justified but a brother Congregational minister, who was also an intimate friend, criticized it. Not for any inaccuracy in my quotation, but for my use of the term "grace."

"Our fellows," he said, "won't understand what you mean." And, knowing of my background in Canadian Methodism, he added, 'That's the Methodist in you." But, I protested, "That's not just Methodist, it's the New Testament."

And so it is: Take a Bible concordance, and every Bible student should have one always at hand, and look up the references to "grace" and "the grace of God" and "the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ."

The concordance bound in with n any Bibles is sufficient for many references, but a complete concordance, giving every use of a word and distinguishing between the original Hebrew and Greek words as translated, is preferable.

In Young's Concordance, which I have used profitably for many years, I find 125 uses of the word "grace" in the New Testament, all in translation of the same Greek word.

What, then, is grace? And what, if any, is the difference between the love of God and the grace of God? I think it might be said that the grace of God is the expression of the love of God.

The Gospel of Christ is the message of the grace of God toward man. It implies: favor and pardon; that salvation is not because of any worthiness in man, but because of God's love and pardoning grace.

Years ago I attended a famous anniversary occasion, when the preacher of the day stressed the righteousness and worthiness of man, "We are not suppliants," were his actual words.

I confess that I was deeply shocked. The notion of a man approaching God, demanding salvation on the ground of his own boastful righteousness seemed to me against the very essence of true righteousness and the need of grace. To have the faith accounted for righteousness is a different matter and unless a man is secure in the sense of his own perfection, his attitude inevitably will be, "God, be merciful to me, a sinner."

For all such the love of God makes His grace secure and effective.

By BOB PRICE

Ruth Painter Randall, author of "Mary Lincoln, The Biography of Marriage," became closely acquainted with her subject in 1944 when her husband, Prof. J. G. Randall, asked her help on his "Lincoln, The President." What she found during her researches on the married life of the Lincolns convinced her that Mary Lincoln was entitled to a new hearing in the court of history. Mrs. Randall is a Virginian who attended Roanoke College, Indiana and Western Reserve Univ. ities. Her researches for "Mary Lincoln" took her from coast to coast. She uncovered a vast amount of new material, particularly letters by friends of the Lincolns, who knew them best and spoke from firsthand knowledge.

Bible Words to Live by

My favorite Bible verse is PSALM 37:5: 'Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in him; and he shall bring it to pass."

It once had the same effect upon me as a sign-post to a bewildered traveler who has lost his way, and it has continued to encourage and reassure me at many crises since.

The first time it came to my rescue was when I was a young man recently discharged from military service in the first world war. I took a job in Akron, Ohio, not because I had inclination for that kind of work, but because one can't sit around doing nothing. During the months that followed I became despondent, tortured by the thought that I was doomed to be a failure in life. What increased this mood was the feeling that no one, I thought, could really probe my dilemma or meet my need. I was lonesome and lost.

Then in reading the Bible one evening, I came across this verse. I resolved to accept its exhortation, and by an act of faith to believe that God would direct me. I prayed that I might do his will at each opportunity life offered. Through that door I have been led into a life that to me has been wonderfully rich and rewarding.

Twin City Council Of United Church Women To Hold Service

The Twin City Council of United Church Women will observe the World Day of Prayer on Friday, February 20, at 2:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe.

The speaker for this occasion is the Rev. W. H. McFadden, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city.

Each year on the first Friday in Lent, The World Day of Prayer is observed in more than 17,000 communities around the world. The day is sponsored in the United States by the United Church Women. Its purpose is to unite people of the World in a bond of prayer and Christian Fellowship. Each succeeding generation is molded by the prevailing attitudes in a given community. Each community reflects noble and moral values only to the extent that individuals, singly and unitedly, express them. In the World Day of Prayer Service, Christians, as individuals, unite in their belief that prayer is a world power for good; as a group, they are uniting to strengthen this power for good in the world.

The voluntary offering given on that day goes to the support of Missionary work at home and abroad, of which such work is crucial to the sustenance and growth of Christian principles in the world today. The entire Christian community should embrace with greater fervor its missionary obligation.

Rev. McFadden Reviews Books During February

During the month of February, on Sunday evenings at 7:30 p.m., in the sanctuary of The First Presbyterian Church of Monroe, corner of Catalpa and Grammont Streets, its minister, the Reverend W. H. McFadden, will review four outstanding religious books.

The first of this series was on February 1st, when he reviewed Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's "A Faith for Tough Times."

The second of the series will be on Sunday evening, February 8th, when he will review Dr. Roy E. Dickerson's book "Understanding Myself."

Dr. Dickerson is a popular speaker and discussion leader on matters pertaining to family life, juvenile delinquency, etc. He is executive secretary of the Cincinnati social hygiene of family relations. He is also chairman of family life for the National Counsel of Churches. He is a Presbyterian and resides at Cincinnati.

The little book "Understanding Myself" is indispensable for young people, parents and counselors. It enables anyone to see his own faults and also reveals how we can remake ourselves through faith in Christ.

On February 15th, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's "The Art of Real Happiness" will be presented.

These reviews are being given with the hope that they will contribute to the religious and cultural knowledge of our community. The subject matter of these books is non-denominational and members of all faiths are cordially invited to attend.

Washington Church Still Intact

By SIGRID ARNE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON — Beautiful old Christ Church in Alexandria, Va. —it stands ten miles from the White House, down the Potomac— will be packed Sunday, Feb. 22.

It's the birthday of the resolute Virginia gentleman who became the Father of the American republic, and it's the church where "G. Washington" worshiped.

His pew is still there, as he used it, a square enclosure in the Colonial manner so that part of the family sat with their backs to the pulpit. His silver nameplate marks the pew door.

Message Recalled

Washington left a message in his farewell address on Sept. 17, 1796, about the relation of politics and religion.

He remarked then:

"Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports. In vain would that man claim the tribute of patriotism who should labor to subvert these great pillars of human happiness, these firmest props of the duties of men and citizens. The mere politician, equally with the pious man, ought to respect and cherish them.

"Let us with caution indulge the supposition that morality can be maintained without religion."

Washington was a vestryman of the parish in pre-Revolution days. Christ Church was completed in 1773. At the auction of the church pews Washington paid the highest price, 36 pounds and 10 shillings.

In the Christ Church dooryard Washington took an historic step in 1774. After services, with his neighbors around him, he publicly announced he could no longer support the British king.

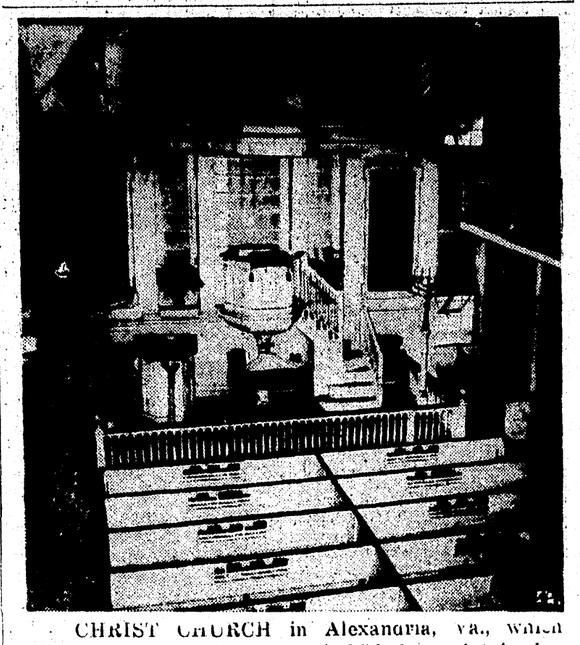

His first Sunday back from the Revolution he was back in his pew at Christ Church. When he died the church's rector read the service at Mt. Vernon.

Family Bible

The church has a tall, graceful steeple and is shaded by ancient trees which were saplings in Washington's day. The interior is all white, with box pews. The graceful pulpit is wine-glass shaped, flanked on each side by a beautiful tablet on which is printed the Ten Commandments, the Lord's Prayer, the Apostles' Creed and the Golden Rule.

For many decades in the early history it was a custom for the president of the United States to attend on the Sunda, nearest Washington's birthday. President Wilson and David Lloyd George, prime minister of Britain, worshiped there one Sunday after the first World War. President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill attended New Year's Day services in 1942.

CHRIST CHURCH in Alexandria, Va., which Washington attended and in which he maintained a family pew.

WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The full phrase is, "The glorious gospel of the blessed God," and it is found in Paul's letter to Timothy (1 Timothy 1:11)

Shortly after I came from Canada to the United States, and later came from Wisconsin to Boston to edit The Congregationalist, I used in an article the expression "the glorious gospel of the grace of God."

I had, unconsciously, combined two references, that quoted above from 1 Timothy 1, and that in Acts 20:24, "the gospel of the grace of God." Both references were by St. Paul to the gospel "committed to (his) trust," and the gospel in either case was "the glorious gospel of the grace of God."

My use of the phrase was accordingly well justified but a brother Congregational minister, who was also an intimate friend, criticized it. Not for any inaccuracy in my quotation, but for my use of the term "grace."

"Our fellows," he said, "won't understand what you mean." And, knowing of my background in Canadian Methodism, he added, "That's the Methodist in you." But, I protested, "That's not just Methodist, it's the New Testament."

And so it is: Take a Bible concordance, and every Bible student should have one always at hand, and look up the references to "grace" and "the grace of God" and "the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ."

The concordance bound in with n any Bibles is sufficient for many references, but a complete concordance, giving every use of a word and distinguishing between the original Hebrew and Greek words as translated, is preferable.

In Young's Concordance, which I have used profitably for many years, I find 125 uses of the word "grace" in the New Testament, all in translation of the same Greek word.

What, then, is grace? And what, if any, is the difference between the love of God and the grace of God? I think it might be said that the grace of God is the expression of the love of God.

The Gospel of Christ is the message of the grace of God toward man. It implies: favor and pardon; that salvation is not because of any worthiness in man, but because of God's love and pardoning grace.

Years ago I attended a famous anniversary occasion, when the preacher of the day stressed the righteousness and worthiness of man, "We are not suppliants," were his actual words.

I confess that I was deeply shocked. The notion of a man approaching God, demanding salvation on the ground of his own boastful righteousness seemed to me against the very essence of true righteousness and the need of grace. To have the faith accounted for righteousness is a different matter and unless a man is secure in the sense of his own perfection, his attitude inevitably will be, "God, be merciful to me, a sinner."

For all such the love of God makes His grace secure and effective.

AUTHOR of the WEEK

By BOB PRICE

S. SIDE CHURCH IS GOING AHEAD

Progress Shown Along All Lines; Bishop Visitor

The Southside Methodist Church, South Fourth and Temple Drive, is rapidly becoming a center of activity in community service. Only a few months old, it is endeavoring to carry on a full calendar of church activities to fill spiritual needs.

A visit was paid the past week by Bishop Paul E. Martin, of Little Rock, Ark., and by Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Giles. The bishop was well pleased with the progress of this new church, and predicted a bright future.

Rev. Lea Joyner, pastor, and a number of members of the board of stewards were present to meet the bishop. Mrs. G. F. Snapp, superintendent of the church school, escorted the bishop through her department. Light refreshments were served by the women of the church.

A short prayer service was conducted by the bishop.

Floral offerings were handsome camellias, the gift of Mrs. Boatner McQuiller and Miss Pearl Lefevre.

Sunday night the Ravel choir, directed by Mrs. R. F. Heritage, broadcast a program over KNOE.

Thursday evenings at 7:15 p.m. a weekly prayer service is held and a study in the Life of Christ is conducted.

Baptist Association To Meet 10 A.M. Monday

Baptist pastors from more than 60 churches in Ouachita Parish, Caldwell, Trenton and Morehouse Baptist Associations will meet Monday at 10 a.m. The meeting will be at the Swartz Baptist Church where Rev. H. M. Roach is the pastor.

Rev. H. L. Sampson will present a Bible lecture and Rev. W. R. Rogers will bring an inspirational message. Lunch will be served by the host church.

According to Rev. Leon Ivey, president of the conference, there is a possibility that the district wide pastors conference will become a regular meeting each month, this will be discussed at the meeting. The program is one of fellowship and inspiration.

Bible Words to Live by

My favorite Bible verse is PSALM 37:5: 'Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in him; and he shall bring it to pass."

It once had the same effect upon me as a sign-post to a bewildered traveler who has lost his way, and it has continued to encourage and reassure me at many crises since.

The first time it came to my rescue was when I was a young man recently discharged from military service in the first world war. I took a job in Akron, Ohio, not because I had inclination for that kind of work, but because one can't sit around doing nothing. During the months that followed I became despondent, tortured by the thought that I was doomed to be a failure in life. What increased this mood was the feeling that no one, I thought, could really probe my dilemma or meet my need. I was lonesome and lost.

Then in reading the Bible one evening, I came across this verse. I resolved to accept its exhortation, and by an act of faith to believe that God would direct me. I prayed that I might do his will at each opportunity life offered. Through that door I have been led into a life that to me has been wonderfully rich and rewarding.

MEMORIAL GIFTS

What more fitting memorial could be made to a Friend, Relative or associate who has heart disease or who has died from it than a gift to the fight to conquer the dreaded killer?

Mail Checks To LOUISIANA HEART ASSOCIATION, 1007 Ouachita National Bank Building, Monroe, Louisiana.

Your Heart Association is the only voluntary health agency exclusively devoted to research, education and community service in the field of heart disease. Its work is made possible by the Heart Fund. Research is the major weapon in the attack on diseases of the heart and circulation, America's leading cause of disability and death. Funds for research are made available by your Heart Association, through the Heart Fund.

75% OF THE FUNDS STAYS IN LOUISIANA FOR RESEARCH AND EDUCATION ON HEART DISEASES.

Your Heart Association Says:

- Some forms of heart disease can be prevented and a few can be cured.
- Almost every heart condition can be helped by proper treatment.
- All heart cases can be cared for best if diagnosed early.
- Your "symptoms" may or may not mean heart disease. Don't guess and don't worry. See your doctor and be sure.
- Most heart patients can keep on working—very often at the same job.

McClendon Would Aid In GI's Pay

Many veterans training under the Korean G. I. Bill are not receiving their training allowance every month as thy should, H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish service officer said Saturday.

Mr. McClendon explained that the main reason for this delay was due to the failure of the veteran and the school or training establishment to submit the proper forms to the Vete ans Administration at the end of every month. It was pointed out that unless the V. A. received a report at the end of each month, signed by the veteran and the school or training establishment the veteran could not be paid his monthly training allowance.

Mr. McClendon suggests to veterans who are experiencing difficulty in receiving their training allowance, to come to his office at Room 204, Ouachita Parish Courthouse, Monroe, La., and he will assist them in submitting the correct forms to the Veterans Administration.

McClendon Would Aid In GI's Pay

Many veterans training under the Korean G. I. Bill are not receiving their training allowance every month as thy should, H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish service officer said Saturday.

Mr. McClendon explained that the main reason for this delay was due to the failure of the veteran and the school or training establishment to submit the proper forms to the Veterans Administration at the end of every month. It was pointed out that unless the V. A. received a report at the end of each month, signed by the veteran and the school or training establishment the veteran could not be paid his monthly training allowance.

Mr. McClendon suggests to veterans who are experiencing difficulty in receiving their training allowance, to come to his office at Room 204, Ouachita Parish Courthouse, Monroe, La., and he will assist them in submitting the correct forms to the Veterans Administration.

Air is sucked into a modern jet engine at the rate of three tons a minute, and air-speed inside the engine reaches 1200 miles per hour.

THINK!
YOUR INVESTMENT IN A HOME MAY WELL BE THE MOST FAR-REACHING DECISION YOU EVER MAKE.
Before settling on a "project house" in a relatively undeveloped neighborhood, why not consider a plan developed for your particular requirements and mode of living?
We are in a position to build your home on lots in established sections of Monroe and West Monroe, with sewerage, water and hard surfaced streets. Property values are stabilized, bus lines are established, and schools, churches and shopping centers are already constructed.
IF YOU PLAN TO BUILD, LET US SHOW YOU OUR HOUSE PLANS AND THE LOTS WE HAVE TO OFFER. Consider the advantages of selecting your own locale, of selecting your own neighbors, in established subdivisions.
OR, WE WILL BUILD ON YOUR LOT

Miss Helen Prothro Is Bride Of Stanley Bernard Richards

The wedding of Miss Helen Virginia Prothro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Paul Prothro, of West Monroe, to Stanley Bernard Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Richards, of this city, was solemnized in a beautiful ceremony at the Chapel of the First Baptist Church, of West Monroe, on Friday, January 23, at six o'clock in the evening.

Officiating was the Rev. Jaroy Weber, who read the vows before a background of baskets of white gladiolus, flanked by candelabras. Only members of the two families and immediate relatives were present for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding suit of light gray, a Lili Ann Original, trimmed with rhinestone buttons with stand - up collar. She wore a white hat covered with rhinestones and small silver bubbles with complexion veiling. Her other accessories were of gray lizard and she carried White Testament topped with a white orchid with streamers of white ribbon with small white rose buds on the end.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Stewart M. Scott, Jr., who was wearing a light aqua knit suit with natural lizard accessories. Her hat was a dusty rose model and she wore a corsage of light lavender chrysanthemums.

Mr. J. W. Richards, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Candle lighter was Alymer Montgomery, Jr.

Mrs. Prothro, mother of the bride, was wearing a navy blue suit with navy accessories. Her hat was a winter white model and she wore a corsage of white chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Richards, chose a navy blue suit with navy accessories and a white hot. She wore a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. For the past two years she has been employed by General Motors Acceptance Corp. Mr. Richards graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and attended

Girl Scout News

Just call the writer Edwin C. Hill because the column today is "the human side of the news," said news, of course, being the Girl Scout Council's annual meeting Tuesday night.

It was good to see so many men present and to hear them say how much they enjoyed the program. William Roy says he knew Nena's and Natalie's speeches as well as they did. As for Dr. Wilds, didn't he look proud when Veronica, looking every inch the typical Brownie Scout in her spic and span uniform and her hair in neat pigtails, was honored for having sent in the name chosen for the Girl Scout Troop Camp.

Veronica's unrehearsed answers to the questions asked her by Lucy Webster, camp chairman, brought down the house. "Out of the mouths of babes," you know.

The more we think of the name chosen for camp "Pine Wood," the more we like it. Of course, the camp committee had no idea who had sent in the name when they chose. All they had was a typewritten list. Veronica received a hand-lettered certificate for her memory book. The leaders of Troop 37, Veronica's troop at St. Matthews, Mrs. Sam Cook and Mrs. Edna Shaughnessy were present to share in the honors, too. We have a feeling that the girls of troop 37 sent in their suggestions at the urging of these leaders.

One of the most interested guests was Mrs. Cummings, mother of Lucy Webster and grandmother of Mary Elizabeth, both of whom acquitted themselves beautifully in their assigned roles. Mary Elizabeth read verses paying tribute to Green Angels, referring to troop leaders, after which Dot Breard called on all "Green Angels" in the group to stand while a Scout pinned a flower on each one.

If "singing troops are happy," then Troop 14 must be happy indeed. They certainly sang beautifully and what a range of favorite folk songs they presented! The girls took the audience through a day at camp in song, beginning with "Ho, Every Sleeper Waken" and ending the campfire scene with "All Night, All Day." No one will easily forget King Trousdale as the Desperado. Ethel Easterling and Mary Turner deserve credit for helping the girls carry out and present their skit.

Very much behind the scenes was Lucy Huckabee, a member of the committee planning the affair. It was she, assisted by Faye Wiley, who was responsible for the replicas of the badges that added so much color to the decorations. Also she was the one who dragged in the greenery that gave such a pretty background.

Pursuing the subject further we found that it was Annis Klie who dressed all the little dolls that were used to illustrate one badge from each program field. We particularly liked the dolls gayly dressed as folk dancers and the overall-clad dolls wielding spades and hoes for the home gardener and conservation badges.

It was inspiring to see six leaders and troop committee members receive five-year numeral guards for their Scout pins. There's just something about Scouting that keeps grown-ups working on and on as a part of that partnership of girls and adults that we call Scouting. Congratulations to Mrs. Paul Blackmon, Mrs. Gene Demmary, Mrs. W. H. Luton, Mrs. William Roy, Mrs. Louis Turner, and Mrs. T. F. Wilson.

Good friends of Scouting received recognition, with Altrusa Club, Business and Professional Women's Club, Kiwanis Club, Mr. P. C. Landers and the Pilot Club being singled out for their help with the camp project during the past year. To Mrs. Ellen Thompson, president of the Pilot Club went a hand-tooled leather folder containing a certificate of appreciation to the club for building a fireplace at Pine Wood, the Girl Scout troop camp.

QUEEN AND KING — Miss Margaret Ann Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Lewis, and P. J. Tornatore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tornatore, will reign as Queen and King over the pre - carnival ball Sunday night at Selman Field. The dance is being sponsored by the Progressive Men's Club and Progressive Auxiliary.

Phillips-Moseley Vows Said At Grace Episcopal Church

Grace Episcopal Church, Lake Providence, where four generations of the Frederick Hall Schneider family have worshipped for half a century, was the sacred setting for the marriage of Miss Norma Imogene Moseley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Moseley, of Oak Grove, to Frederick Schneider Phillips, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. Douglas Williams, La Marque, Tex

The altar was decorated in white carnations and gladioli, mixed with plumosa fern, in brass vases, matching the altar candelabra with seven lighted tapers, flanked by floor standards of graduated tapers. Centering the altar the wedding candle, which burned throughout the ceremony, was blown out by the couple at it's conclusion, presented to the bride to be lighted on each anniversary, when they renew their vows in a rededication ceremony. White papier - mache baskets filled with daffodils were placed in each window, and white baskets of mixed spring flowers marked the choir stalls.

Mrs. Crawford A. Rose, presiding at the organ, played "Oh! Perfect Love," "Liebestraum," "Evening Star" and "Largo," as acoyte David Tschabold, Jr., lighted the candles, and ushers Walter Newman, Frederick Hall Schneider, III, and Charles Moseley seated the guests. She was accompanist for Miss Tommie Sue Proctor, who sang Schubert's "Ave Maria," and "The Lord's Prayer." Bach-Gounod's "Ave Maria" was background as they gave their troth. The traditional marches were played for the bridal entrance and their departure.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was chic in a tailleur of purple wool worsted, double breasted coat closed with matching bone buttons. Unique collar interest were curved tabs, held by twin rhinestone clips, which was repeated at the fastened beltline. Pink satin shell bonnet with short veil and pink gloves completed the costume. She carried a bouquet of lavendar and white carnations mixed with lilies of the valley, and tied with two tone lavender ribbon, which fell in short streamers.

Miss Mary Moseley, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wore a spring suit of light tan wool fleece, with brown accessories. She added a velour cloche of a darker shade. Her bouquet was yellow carnations mixed with gold tone ribbon, which fell into short streamers.

Dr. G. Douglas Williams, La Marque, Tex., was the bridegroom's best man.

Reception

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, Mrs. Kiley Mangum, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. W. B. Ragland, were hostesses at a reception in the church's undercroft.

In the receiving line with the bride and groom were their mothers, and Mrs. Edward Davis Schneider, maternal aunt of the bridegroom.

Miss Sara Ann Schneider, presiding at a maderia cut work overlaid table, decorated with vases of jonquils and blue Dutch iris, registered friends and relatives in the guest book.

The refreshment table was overlaid with an imported net appliqued cloth, and centered with a silver bowl of white stock and carnations mixed with green foliage. Tall pink candles burned in prism crystal candelabra. Mrs. Mangum presided at the silver punch bowl, and after the bride and groom cut the tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom standing beneath an arch, Mrs. Ragland sliced and served it, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. L. E. Townsend, Jr. Mrs. Earl Oswalt and Mrs. Jack Bell assisted in the serving courtesies.

Throughout the hours of the reception, Mrs. William Bertron Ragland, Jr., rendered a concert of piano numbers.

After their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips will be at home on the L. S. U. campus, on Nicholson Drive, as the former is a sophomore at the university, an agricultural major, and the latter is a freshman in home economics.

Lovely Afternoon Tea Honors Mrs. William B. Ragland, Jr.

Mrs. William Betron Ragland, Jr., of Lake Providence, the former Melba Henry Liner of Monroe, was graciously introduced to the members of the younger social set at a beautifully appointed tea recently at the American Legion Home on Bayou Tensas, from three to five.

Hostesses for the tea were Mrs. W. B. Ragland, and daughters, Mrs. L. E. Townsend, Jr., and Miss Lorraine Ragland, and Mrs. George Cooper.

A color theme of pink and green was carried out in the foyer and refreshment table decorations, by using pink snapdragons and gladioli in baskets and vases.

Mrs. Brady Oswalt and Mrs Paul Geisler welcomed the guest within the French doors of the foyer and directed them to the receiving line, which stood between the picture windows overlooking the rustic scene of the bayou.

The honoree, standing with the hostesses and her aunts, Mrs. Blanche Moseley Lane and Mrs. C. J. Moseley, both of Monroe, was lovely in a gown of delphinium nylon tulle of waltz length, with bodice and wrist length sleeves braided in iridescent sequins, matching the mandarin collar. She added silver slippers and diagonally placed belt corsage of pink carnations and silvered ribbons.

Miss Viola Miller, Monroe, and Mrs. Earl Oswalt of "Tyrone plantation," presided at the refreshment table, overlaid with floor length white organza cloth. The decor was of pink carnations, blue Dutch iris and bells of Ireland. The exquisite setting of candlelight and silver was created by branched candelabra holding tall pink candles, tidbit stands of salted nuts and trays of individual cakes. Mrs. Sedric Wilson and Virginia Ragland assisted in the serving courtesies.

Throughout the hours of receiving Mrs. Howard H. Moorman presided at the piano for a concert of musical numbers.

To remove grease spots from unfinished wood, wet them with a strong solution of washing soda. This treatment turns the grease to soap which can be washed away. If clean spots stand out and make the rest of the wood appear dirty, the whole surface should be bleached.

The PHANTOM

By LEE FALK and WILSON McCOY

I'VE OFTEN NOTICED THIS CHAIN. WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

I DON'T KNOW, DIANA. I'VE ASKED THE BANDAR, BUT NONE SEEMS TO KNOW. I'LL TRY WORU, THE OLDEST OF THE BANDAR.

WORU, YOU MEAN YOU KNOW WHAT THE CHAIN STANDS FOR - AND YOU REFUSE TO TELL ME?

THE TIME HAS NOT COME TO TELL YOU, O GHOST WHO WALKS.

THAT WAS THE ORDER OF YOUR FATHER, THE PHANTOM BEFORE YOU. YOU ARE TO BE TOLD - "WHEN AND IF THE TIME COMES."

OH, DEAR, THIS IS MADDENING.

HMM - I NEVER KNEW THERE WAS A STORY BEHIND IT -

MEANWHILE, IN THE NEARBY JUNGLE, A NATIVE WAR FLARES UP BETWEEN THE LLONGO AND THE WAMBESI!

WHAT? THEY'RE FIGHTING AGAIN? BUT THEY AGREED TO MY TRUCE ONLY LAST MONTH.

ONLY YOU CAN STOP THEM, O GHOST WHO WALKS.

NEWS OF THE WAR REACHES THE SKULL THRONE!

OH, DARLING - BE CAREFUL.

YOU SEE, DOGGIES, NAPOLEON WAS LITTLE, TOO. THAT'S WHY I LIKE TO READ ABOUT HIM WHEN I GET SORT OF BLUE.

YES, MA'AM!

Shoo!

YOU DERN BULLIES! ALWAYS GANGING UP ON ME!

I'M SICK AND TIRED OF THESE GEESE. YOU COAX THEM INTO THIS CRATE WITH A PAN OF CORN, SCRAPPY, AND AFTER LUNCH I'LL TAKE THEM TO TOWN AND SELL THEM.

NOW YOU'RE TALKING!

ER.... BUT DO YOU THINK YOU CAN?

BET YOUR LIFE I CAN! NO GOOSE IS GOING TO LICK ME.

DERN YOU, GEESE! DERN YOU!

OH, DEAR! I'M AFRAID SCRAPPY'S HAVING TROUBLE PENNING THE GEESE. MAYBE YOU'D BETTER HELP HIM, BROTHER.

THE BULLIES!

YEE HEE HEE! THE GEESE HAVE PENNED SCRAPPY!

HISS!

HISS!

SOMETIMES I GET SO BLUE, I DON'T EVEN LIKE TO READ ABOUT NAPOLEON.

NAPOLEON

BRINGING UP FATHER by GEO McMANUS

WELL--WHILE MAGGIE IS OUT - I THINK I'LL CLEAN OUT MY DESK - A LOT OF RUBBISH HAS COLLECTED - I HAVEN'T GIVEN IT A GOIN'-OVER FOR MONTHS!

PARDON - SIR - IS THERE ANYTHING I CAN DO?

I DON'T KNOW - YOU'VE BEEN HERE FOUR WEEKS - AN' I HAVEN'T SEEN YOU DO ANYTHING YET - SO DON'T ANNOY ME!

HUH! LOOK AT THIS OLD PAPER! IT SAYS "OPERA TONIGHT - CARMEN" - THIS GIVES ME AN IDEA! IF IT WORKS - I THINK I'LL SEE TH' GANG TONIGHT -

THE PAPER IS THREE WEEKS OLD - BUT IF MAGGIE DOESN'T LOOK AT THE DATE - SHE'LL THINK IT'S TONIGHT'S PAPER AN' GO TO THE OPERA HOUSE - I'LL LEAVE IT ON HER DRESSER!

WHAT'S THIS? MY FAVORITE OPERA TONIGHT!

GRACIOUS! I MUST HURRY AND GET DRESSED!

Copr. 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

YES-MUM! I PHONED MRS. McCADDO THAT YOU WOULD CALL FOR HER AND SHE'S PLEASED TO GO TO THE OPERA WITH YOU!

WELL-I MUST BE OFF - I DON'T WANT TO BE LATE!!

I THOUGHT IT STRANGE THAT THERE WAS OPERA TONIGHT-

WHY - I READ IT IN THE PAPER! ARE YOU SURE THERE IS NO OPERA TONIGHT?

I'M POSITIVE! THE HOUSE IS DARK - "CARMEN" HASN'T BEEN PLAYED HERE FOR THREE WEEKS!!

OPERA HOUSE CLOSED THIS WEEK!

Protects you in the nicest way!

DIAL SOAP removes the cause of perspiration odor!

Another ARMOUR Product

Dial with AT-7 (Hexachlorophene) cleans away thousands of odor-causing bacteria that ordinary soaps leave on your skin.

You'll wonder how you ever got along without Dial! It's such a pleasure to step into your daily shower or tub and lather-up with this fragrant, rich-foaming soap. And that's the end of your worries about perspiration odor! For Dial gives you the wondrous deodorant-action of AT-7 (Hexachlorophene).

No matter how often or how thoroughly you wash, ordinary soaps cannot effectively remove the skin bacteria that cause perspiration odor. But Dial with AT-7 does. So odor never even has a chance to get started – any place on your body. You'll stay fresh all over – all day – with Dial!

Dial's creamy lather and gentle bacteria-removing action really protect your complexion, too. Get Dial – both bath and complexion sizes, today!

Better than ordinary soap!

Doctors proved it! No ordinary soap can get you so clean as Dial with AT-7. In surgical scrub-up tests, doctors found that AT-7 soap leaves skin 10 times freer of bacteria than even strong hospital soaps. Yet Dial is mild and gentle as a soap can be!

Better than deodorants!

Not just underarm—but all-over protection! That's what Dial gives you – without stopping normal perspiration. Bathing daily with Dial removes up to 95% of skin bacteria that cause odor. Gives you all-over freshness no deodorant can equal!

Change to DIAL for a cleaner, clearer complexion, too!

MONEY BACK IF YOU DON'T AGREE*

New Dial Shampoo is 5 Ways Better!

1 SOFTER, MORE LUSTROUS HAIR

Dial Shampoo contains lanolin .. leaves hair softer, easier to manage . . . helps prevent excessive dryness of hair and scalp.

2 CLEANER, FRESHER-SMELLING HAIR

3 MORE SHAMPOOS PER BOTTLE

4 FAMOUS AT-7 (Hexachlorophene)

5 HANDY, UNBREAKABLE SQUEEZE-BOTTLE

Ideal family shampoo. Easier, safer to use. Squeeze bottle sprays directly to your scalp . . . penetrates thickest hair.

Your Whole Family will Love Dial!

Grrreat Combination!

Kellogg's SUGAR FROSTED FLAKES

Some cereals have won applause
Just for the morning meal;
How different with new Sugar Flakes
They've also snack appeal!

These golden flakes of corn delight
Young after-school stampeders,
The TV gang sure loves 'em,
The frosting "sends" young feeders.

They're bigger flakes!
They're crisper flakes!
They're Kellogg's Sugar Frosted Flakes!

So Mom, you'd better play it safe
And buy this double treat;
Serve Frosted Flakes for breakfast,
At snacktime, just repeat!

1/3 less armwork than cake mixes!

This new "Quik-Beat" Cake saves 150 to 300 strokes

with SNOWDRIFT

the shortening pre-whipped 2,000 times

Less beating than mixes

Leading cake mixes call for a whale of a lot of beating. Drop the drudgery! Only with new lighter Snowdrift and its new method can we promise you'll save up to 300 strokes.

Twice as quick

as most quick-method recipes that call for lots of hard beating. Snowdrift's "Quik-Beat" cake saves nearly half the strokes—Snowdrift is pre-whipped 2000 times.

NEW LIGHTER SNOWDRIFT

THE WESSON OIL SHORTENING!

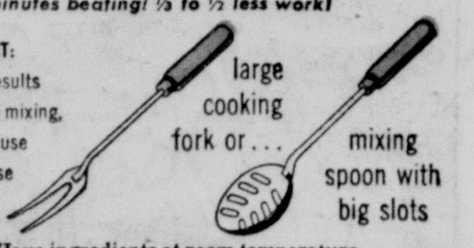

© 1953 by Wesson Oil & Snowdrift Co., Inc.

ONLY SNOWDRIFT GIVES YOU THIS "QUIK-BEAT" CAKE

2 minutes beating! ⅓ to ½ less work!

IMPORTANT: For best results when hand mixing, be sure to use one of these

Have ingredients at room temperature.

In large mixing bowl, break up...
½ cup SNOWDRIFT

Important: use only Snowdrift, it's pre-whipped for you

Add... 2 eggs ½ cup milk

Sift all together over above...
- 2¼ cups sifted cake flour
- 2½ teaspoons double-action baking powder
- 1½ cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt

Blend ingredients, then beat 1½ minutes, scraping sides of bowl frequently. (Count 225 strokes for hand beating. With electric mixer use low speed, scrape sides during beating, scrape beaters after beating.)

Add... ½ cup milk with 1 teaspoon vanilla

Blend, then beat enough to smooth out batter, about 75 strokes (½ minute, electric beater). Turn into 2 greased 8-inch layer pans, lined with paper. Swirl fork through batter in each pan. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 25 to 30 minutes.

CHOCOLATE ALMOND ICING: Blend 5 tablespoons Snowdrift with ½ cup sifted cocoa. Add 3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar and ⅛ teaspoon salt alternately with ⅓ cup milk. When smooth, add 1 teaspoon almond flavoring. Frost cake. Decorate with almonds.

This new "Quik-Beat" Cake saves 150 to 300 strokes

with SNOWDRIFT

the shortening pre-whipped 2,000 times

Less beating than mixes

Leading cake mixes call for a whale of a lot of beating. Drop the drudgery! Only with new lighter Snowdrift and its new method can we promise you'll save up to 300 strokes.

Twice as quick as most quick-method recipes that call for lots of hard beating. Snowdrift's "Quik-Beat" cake saves nearly half the strokes—Snowdrift is pre-whipped 2000 times.

2 minutes beating! ⅓ to ½ less work!

IMPORTANT: For best results when hand mixing, be sure to use one of these — large cooking fork or... mixing spoon with big slots

Have ingredients at room temperature.

In large mixing bowl, break up...
½ cup SNOWDRIFT

Important: use only Snowdrift, it's pre-whipped for you

Add... 2 eggs ½ cup milk

Sift all together over above...
- 2¼ cups sifted cake flour
- 2½ teaspoons double-action baking powder
- 1½ cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt

Blend ingredients, then beat 1½ minutes, scraping sides of bowl frequently. (Count 225 strokes for hand beating. With electric mixer use low speed, scrape sides during beating, scrape beaters after beating.)

Add... ½ cup milk with 1 teaspoon vanilla

Blend, then beat enough to smooth out batter, about 75 strokes (½ minute, electric beater). Turn into 2 greased 8-inch layer pans, lined with paper. Swirl fork through batter in each pan. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 25 to 30 minutes.

CHOCOLATE ALMOND ICING: Blend 5 tablespoons Snowdrift with ⅓ cup sifted cocoa. Add 3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar and ⅛ teaspoon salt alternately with ½ cup milk. When smooth, add 1 teaspoon almond flavoring. Frost cake. Decorate with almonds.
